Chiesa Fires Giampoli; 'Fails To Perform Duty'

NICK GIAMPOLI
Taken off payroll

Inspector Candidate For Police Chief Job

San Rafael Police Inspector Nick Giampoli, an avowed candidate for police chief in the April 8 city election, has been fired by Chief Charles J. Chiesa, it was learned today.

Chiesa said Giampoli, a lieutenant, was fired on Dec. 13 "for failure to report to work and perform his duties" after taking sick leave on Oct. 23 for surgery to his foot.

Chiesa described Giampoli, a 15-year veteran of the police force, as a "fair officer. Fair is the only word I can find to describe the man."

Giampoli announced on Sept. 7 that he would oppose Chiesa in April for the police chief's job if the post was not made appointive. The city council on Nov. 20 voted to put the proposal for an oppointive police chief on the Jan. 22 ballot.

Chiesa's action in firing Giampoli was based on a city ordinance requiring that an employee must be genuinely incapacitated to take sick leave. If the employee is absent for more than three days, he must furnish a doctor's certificate or personal affidavit of actual incapacity.

NO CERTIFICATE

Chiesa said no doctor's certificate or personal affidavit has been filed. To support his action, Chiesa, in official charges served on Giampoli Dec. 13, with copies sent to city councilmen, cited the following:

Giampoli on Oct. 22 asked for a six-month leave of absence. The request was turned down by Chiesa. The following day Giampoli telephoned the chief to say that he was taking sick leave for surgery to his foot.

PROGRESS CHECKS

Police made the following checks on Giampoli's progress: Oct. 29, no surgery yet; Nov. 5, Giampoli said he would undergo surgery on Nov. 8 or 9; Nov. 19, no surgery but Giampoli said it would be performed the next week; Nov. 26, Giampoli had changed doctors but surgery had not been performed.

Chiesa said on most of these dates Giampoli was found behind his desk at his private investigative agency, Inter City Investigations at 1850 Fourth Street.

Chiesa then ordered Giampoli dropped from the city payroll effective Dec. 1. Giampoli has until 5 p.m. Dec. 24 to appeal the discharge under the city's civil service ordinance.

TO APPEAL

Giampoli declared today:

"I intend to appeal it. I have consulted an attorney who will handle it from here on in."

He declined to say on what he would base the appeal.

Chiesa said: "I did not fire him for political reasons. I am not worried about Giampoli or anybody else as far as the election is concerned.

"The election hasn't been on my mind. I have been too busy."

The chief said: "Giampoli claimed that he was going to get an operation on his foot. Don't ask me for what. He just had an ailment in his foot, but

Donaldson Named Assistant Auditor

George R. Donaldson was promoted today by Marin County supervisors from senior accountant to assistant auditor in replacement of Michael Mitchell, who was yesterday made county auditor-controller as successor to the late Leon DeLisle.

The change boosts Donaldson's pay from $832 to $871 monthly.

Donaldson, 51, was born in Missouri and graduated from Arizona State University. He has worked in the office of the auditor-controller for almost seven years and has been next in line to Mitchell.

"I consider him a valuable right-hand man," Mitchell said today. Supervisors had expected the nomination and voted the appointment unanimously without comment.

Donaldson and his wife, Kelly, and two sons live at 661 Knocknaboul Way, Terra Linda.

RAIN ENDS, SKIES CLEAR —BUT . . .

A billion-gallon rain ended last night, leaving Marin County's lake levels several feet higher under today's clear skies.

Fair weather was predicted tonight, but clouds and rain are expected tomorrow.

The five-day soaking caused two earth slides in Belvedere and Mill Valley.

LARGE SLIDE

A large slide closed Beach Road in Belvedere at about 9 p.m., reported Police Chief William S. Woodington. It was cleared for one lane of traffic at 11 p.m.

A slide in front of the W. B. Nitzel home at 6 Barrie Way, Mill Valley, cut the street to one-way width and destroyed a wooden stairway on the Nitzel property.

No damage was reported elsewhere in the county.

OVERFLOWING

Three of the Marin Municipal Water District lakes were overflowing today and water levels in the other three rose several feet.

Nicasio Reservoir was spilling six inches of water, Lagunitas Lake four inches and Phoenix Lake three inches. All were full when the storm began.

Kent Lake rose seven feet, Alpine Lake six feet and Bon Tempe Lake four feet, adding an estimated billion gallons of stored water.

MEASUREMENTS

Stafford Lake in the North Marin County Water District rose 1.4 feet during the storm, storing about 60 million gallons of water, a month's supply for the district.

Rain measurements since yesterday morning tapered off from the weekend peak as the storm moved on. Readings for the 24 hours ending this morning were Tiburon .34, Belvedere .34, Sausalito .35, Mill Valley .33, Tamalpais Valley .26, Larkspur city hall .58, Chevy Chase, Larkspur, .39, San Anselmo .47, San Rafael .18, Woodacre .65, Novato .45, Nicasio Reservoir .37, Kent Lake .21, Alpine Lake .20, Bon Tempe Lake .30, Lagunitas Lake .43, Phoenix Lake .25, Inverness .02 and Point Reyes Station .16.

Storm totals included Tiburon 4.10, Larkspur 4.92, Chevy Chase, Larkspur, 4.28, San Anselmo 3.91, San Rafael 4.33, Woodacre 3.79, Nicasio Reservoir 4.03, Kent Lake 7.97, Alpine Lake 6.15, Bon Tempe Lake 4.89, Lagunitas Lake 7.77, Phoenix Lake 5.10, and Point Reyes Station 4.68.

Kent Sues To Oust Stuart

Roger Kent, state Democratic vice president, went to court today to eliminate the name of a Democratic candidate for Congress from the Jan. 22 special election ballot.

Kent filed suit in Marin Superior Court today charging that John C. Stuart of Auburn and Novato is "not eligible or qualified" to be a candidate; that one of his verification deputies, Ernest L. Harris of Marin City, is "a convicted felon" and is "not eligible as an elector"; that some husbands and wives signed Stuart's nominating petitions for their spouses, and that therefore Marin County Clerk George Gnoss and Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan are guilty of "error, wrong or neglect" in accepting Stuart's papers.

Kent, who is chairman of the congressional campaign of William Grader, the other Democratic candidate on the Jan. 22 ballot, asked the court to order the county clerk and the secretary of state to show cause why they should not be restrained from putting Stuart's name on the ballot.

Stuart could not be located today for comment.

If Kent is successful in his suit, he will have eliminated the third and last of the three Democrats besides Grader who paid $225 filing fees and took out nominating papers. Nick Kobseff of Nicasio withdrew when he was informed that as a $200-a-month postmaster, he was ineligible to take part in partisan politics. Ted Watkins of Mendocino City failed to qualify on a technicality when the Mendocino County clerk refused to verify signatures on his petitions which did not in-

Drainage District Approved

An assessment district of greater acreage and approximately the same cost as the bitterly protested Bret Harte Drainage District got the go-ahead from the San Rafael City Council last night without a ripple.

There was no protest as attorney Edwin Ness presented a resolution of public convenience and necessity for creation of East San Rafael Assessment District No. 2. The council asked no question. The resolution was adopted by 5-0 vote.

Beverly J. Whitlow of Whitlow, Hoffman and Albritton, engineers for the district, said today it includes about 190 acres and made a preliminary rough estimate of $800,000 as construction cost. (The Bret Harte District includes 145 acres; the low bid for construction was just under $750,000.) See story, page 8.

The proposed new district would carry through street improvements begun by East San Rafael Assessment District No. 1, besides providing drainage for the 190-acre area.

It would include completion of Bellam Boulevard from the San Quentin Wye to Canal Street, and of Market and Belvedere streets. The old San Rafael Airport strip would be improved as Rafael Street. Lisbon Street would be improved, as would a piece of Railroad Avenue.

Drainage installations, designed for a 25-year storm, would include a pumping station at Canal Street and Bellam Boulevard. A concrete-lined ditch, fenced, would provide the main drainage channel.

GOV. BROWN ASKS STATE TAX STUDY

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A top-to-bottom study of California's entire tax structure, both state and local, was proposed today by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The governor said he may ask the 1963 legislature to create a special commission to look into the question, as he put it, of "who's paying for what."

He said the taxes of some school districts and local governments were "way out of proportion" and it may be possible to revise the method of allocating state funds.

It's his thinking, he said, that the commission would report back to the 1964 budget session, in time to submit any constitutional amendments to the voters that year to alter the present tax setup.

Brown, at his news conference, defends Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh against criticism that his use of paid get-out-the-vote workers in the November election smacked of wardheel politics.

He said it didn't involve bribery, that it was just a matter of compensating people for the use of their cars and for acting as babysitters to help voters get to the polls.

Referring to criticism by Paul Ziffren, former Democratic national committeeman, the Democratic governor said, "I don't think there is any comparison between ward-heeling Jersey City Boss Hague politics and the situation in California where there is absolutely no patronage."

Brown opened his news conference by saying he wanted to set the record straight on recently-disclosed figures showing a 40-million-dollar drop in anticipated state revenues.

He denied Republican charges that he knew it all along and kept the news secret during the final stages of the election campaign.

Grand Jury Continuing Span Probe

Golden Gate Bridge General Manager James Adam was questioned for an hour and a half this morning by the Marin County Grand Jury, which is investigating alleged waste and mismanagement of the bridge district.

He was followed into the grand jury room by Jerome B. White, attorney for the bridge district. White entered the closed hearing room at 11:25 a.m. and had not emerged at noon.

Scheduled to testify before the grand jurors this afternoon were bridge district directors Ben K. Lerer of San

Supervisors Say No To Charge On Center Tours

Marin County supervisors today looked with alarm on a proposal to charge visitor to the Civic Center 50 cents each for guided tours.

They particularly flinched from a Marin Visitors Bureau notion that $12,000 should be provided for a year of such a program, recalling that the county has already given the bureau $10,000 for the current year.

Maggie Gnau, bureau managing director, was told to confer with Asst. Administrator John F. Barrows as to a revised program at a lower price.

Chairman Walter R. Castro said he thought the board had already established a policy that the taxpayers would not be charged to look at what they had paid for.

As others echoed this view, Supervisor George Ludy commented it is likely that the Point Reyes National Seashore —not the Civic Center—will prove to be Marin's top tourist attraction.

"Bless you, George!" exclaimed Supervisor Peter Behr, who has been the great proponent of the park. But Behr said before rejecting Miss Gnau's ideas completely, the board should give thought to the problem of keeping the Civic Center available on weekend visits.

Administrator Alan Bruce said a contractor is two months overdue in setting up a building directory to guide the bewildered. Supervisor William D. Fusselman said these include himself.

Kennedy, Macmillan Begin Talks; Stress U. S.-British Friendship

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—President John F. Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan stressed close U.S.-British friendship — overriding various differences in a meeting today under a brilliant subtropical sun. (See also story page 8.)

In a series of little summit talks ending late Thursday, they are expected to discuss such diverse matters as a formula for ending their split over the Skybolt missiles and plans for joint military aid to India.

They also plan to survey the world situation in the wake of the Cuban crisis and try to figure out whether there is any profit to be made by the West in the Soviet retreat from Cuba and the Russian-Red China division.

The prime minister, wearing a light grayish tan suit, said he had met 16 times with American presidents and he had found that "the most important and vital element of all such conferences was the close association between our two countries."

He reminded Kennedy that Britain and the United States have been through "much together in the past," and said they looked forward with high hopes to the future.

Kennedy responded warmly to Macmillan's welcome, recalling that this is their sixth meeting during his own two years in the presidency.

Chiesa Fires Giampoli; 'Fails To Perform Duty'

NICK GIAMPOLI
Taken off payroll

Inspector Candidate For Police Chief Job

San Rafael Police Inspector Nick Giampoli, an avowed candidate for police chief in the April 8 city election, has been fired by Chief Charles J. Chiesa, it was learned today.

Chiesa said Giampoli, a lieutenant, was fired on Dec. 13 "for failure to report to work and perform his duties" after taking sick leave on Oct. 23 for surgery to his foot.

Chiesa described Giampoli, a 15-year veteran of the police force, as a "fair officer. Fair is the only word I can find to describe the man."

Giampoli announced on Sept. 7 that he would oppose Chiesa in April for the police chief's job if the post was not made appointive. The city council on Nov. 20 voted to put the proposal for an oppointive police chief on the Jan. 22 ballot.

Chiesa's action in firing Giampoli was based on a city ordinance requiring that an employee must be genuinely incapacitated to take sick leave. If the employee is absent for more than three days, he must furnish a doctor's certificate or personal affidavit of actual incapacity.

NO CERTIFICATE

Chiesa said no doctor's certificate or personal affidavit has been filed. To support his action, Chiesa, in official charges served on Giampoli Dec. 13, with copies sent to city councilmen, cited the following:

Giampoli on Oct. 22 asked for a six-month leave of absence. The request was turned down by Chiesa. The following day Giampoli telephoned the chief to say that he was taking sick leave for surgery to his foot.

PROGRESS CHECKS

Police made the following checks on Giampoli's progress: Oct. 29, no surgery yet; Nov. 5, Giampoli said he would undergo surgery on Nov. 8 or 9; Nov. 19, no surgery but Giampoli said it would be performed the next week; Nov. 26, Giampoli had changed doctors but surgery had not been performed.

Chiesa said on most of these dates Giampoli was found behind his desk at his private investigative agency, Inter City Investigations at 1850 Fourth Street.

Chiesa then ordered Giampoli dropped from the city payroll effective Dec. 1. Giampoli has until 5 p.m. Dec. 24 to appeal the discharge under the city's civil service ordinance.

TO APPEAL

Giampoli declared today: "I intend to appeal it. I have consulted an attorney who will handle it from here on in."

He declined to say on what he would base the appeal.

Chiesa said: "I did not fire him for political reasons. I am not worried about Giampoli or anybody else as far as the election is concerned.

"The election hasn't been on my mind. I have been too busy."

The chief said: "Giampoli claimed that he was going to get an operation on his foot. Don't ask me for what. He just had an ailment in his foot, but

GEORGE R. DONALDSON

Donaldson Named Assistant Auditor

George R. Donaldson was promoted today by Marin County supervisors from senior accountant to assistant auditor in replacement of Michael Mitchell, who was yesterday made county auditor-controller as successor to the late Leon DeLisle.

The change boosts Donaldson's pay from $832 to $871 monthly.

Donaldson, 51, was born in Missouri and graduated from Arizona State University. He has worked in the office of the auditor-controller for almost seven years and has been next in line to Mitchell.

"I consider him a valuable right-hand man," Mitchell said today. Supervisors had expected the nomination and voted the appointment unanimously without comment.

Donaldson and his wife, Kelly, and two sons live at 661 Knocknaboul Way, Terra Linda.

RAIN ENDS, SKIES CLEAR —BUT . . .

A billion-gallon rain ended last night, leaving Marin County's lake levels several feet higher under today's clear skies.

Fair weather was predicted tonight, but clouds and rain are expected tomorrow.

The five-day soaking caused two earth slides in Belvedere and Mill Valley.

LARGE SLIDE

A large slide closed Beach Road in Belvedere at about 9 p.m., reported Police Chief William S. Woodington. It was cleared for one lane of traffic at 11 p.m.

A slide in front of the W. B. Nitzel home at 6 Barrie Way, Mill Valley, cut the street to one-way width and destroyed a wooden stairway on the Nitzel property.

No damage was reported elsewhere in the county.

OVERFLOWING

Three of the Marin Municipal Water District lakes were overflowing today and water levels in the other three rose several feet.

Nicasio Reservoir was spilling six inches of water, Lagunitas Lake four inches and Phoenix Lake three inches. All were full when the storm began.

Kent Lake rose seven feet, Alpine Lake six feet and Bon Tempe Lake four feet, adding an estimated billion gallons of stored water.

MEASUREMENTS

Stafford Lake in the North Marin County Water District rose 1.4 feet during the storm, storing about 60 million gallons of water, a month's supply for the district.

Rain measurements since yesterday morning tapered off from the weekend peak as the storm moved on. Readings for the 24 hours ending this morning were Tiburon .34, Belvedere .34, Sausalito .35, Mill Valley .33, Tamalpais Valley .26, Larkspur city hall .58, Chevy Chase, Larkspur, .39, San Anselmo .47, San Rafael .18, Woodacre .65, Novato .45, Nicasio Reservoir .37, Kent Lake .21, Alpine Lake .20, Bon Tempe Lake .30, Lagunitas Lake .43, Phoenix Lake .25, Inverness .02 and Point Reyes Station .16.

Storm totals included Tiburon 4.10, Larkspur 4.92, Chevy Chase, Larkspur, 4.28, San Anselmo 3.91, San Rafael 4.33, Woodacre 3.79, Nicasio Reservoir 4.03, Kent Lake 7.97, Alpine Lake 6.15, Bon Tempe Lake 4.89, Lagunitas Lake 7.77, Phoenix Lake 5.10, and Point Reyes Station 4.68.

Kent Sues To Oust Stuart

Roger Kent, state Democratic vice president, went to court today to eliminate the name of a Democratic candidate for Congress from the Jan. 22 special election ballot.

Kent filed suit in Marin Superior Court today charging that John C. Stuart of Auburn and Novato is "not eligible or qualified" to be a candidate; that one of his verification deputies, Ernest L. Harris of Marin City, is "a convicted felon" and is "not eligible as an elector"; that some husbands and wives signed Stuart's nominating petitions for their spouses, and that therefore Marin County Clerk George Gnoss and Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan are guilty of "error, wrong or neglect" in accepting Stuart's papers.

Kent, who is chairman of the congressional campaign of William Grader, the other Democratic candidate on the Jan. 22 ballot, asked the court to order the county clerk and the secretary of state to show cause why they should not be restrained from putting Stuart's name on the ballot.

Stuart could not be located today for comment.

If Kent is successful in his suit, he will have eliminated the third and last of the three Democrats besides Grader who paid $225 filing fees and took out nominating papers. Nick Kobseff of Nicasio withdrew when he was informed that as a $200-a-month postmaster, he was ineligible to take part in partisan politics. Ted Watkins of Mendocino City failed to qualify on a technicality when the Mendocino County clerk refused to verify signatures on his petitions which did not in-

Drainage District Approved

An assessment district of greater acreage and approximately the same cost as the bitterly protested Bret Harte Drainage District got the go-ahead from the San Rafael City Council last night without a ripple.

There was no protest as attorney Edwin Ness presented a resolution of public convenience and necessity for creation of East San Rafael Assessment District No. 2. The council asked no question. The resolution was adopted by 5-0 vote.

Beverly J. Whitlow of Whitlow, Hoffman and Albritton, engineers for the district, said today it includes about 190 acres and made a preliminary rough estimate of $800,000 as construction cost. (The Bret Harte District includes 145 acres; the low bid for construction was just under $750,000.) See story, page 8.

The proposed new district would carry through street improvements begun by East San Rafael Assessment District No. 1, besides providing drainage for the 190-acre area.

It would include completion of Bellam Boulevard from the San Quentin Wye to Canal Street, and of Market and Belvedere streets. The old San Rafael Airport strip would be improved as Rafael Street. Lisbon Street would be improved, as would a piece of Railroad Avenue.

Drainage installations, designed for a 25-year storm, would include a pumping station at Canal Street and Bellam Boulevard. A concrete-lined ditch, fenced, would provide the main drainage channel.

GOV. BROWN ASKS STATE TAX STUDY

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A top-to-bottom study of California's entire tax structure, both state and local, was proposed today by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The governor said he may ask the 1963 legislature to create a special commission to look into the question, as he put it, of "who's paying for what."

He said the taxes of some school districts and local governments were "way out of proportion" and it may be possible to revise the method of allocating state funds.

It's his thinking, he said, that the commission would report back to the 1964 budget session, in time to submit any constitutional amendments to the voters that year to alter the present tax setup.

Brown, at his news conference, defends Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh against criticism that his use of paid get-out-the-vote workers in the November election smacked of wardheel politics.

He said it didn't involve bribery, that it was just a matter of compensating people for the use of their cars and for acting as babysitters to help voters get to the polls.

Referring to criticism by Paul Ziffren, former Democratic national committeeman, the Democratic governor said, "I don't think there is any comparison between ward-heeling Jersey City Boss Hague politics and the situation in California where there is absolutely no patronage."

Brown opened his news conference by saying he wanted to set the record straight on recently-disclosed figures showing a 40-million-dollar drop in anticipated state revenues.

He denied Republican charges that he knew it all along and kept the news secret during the final stages of the election campaign.

Grand Jury Continuing Span Probe

Golden Gate Bridge General Manager James Adam was questioned for an hour and a half this morning by the Marin County Grand Jury, which is investigating alleged waste and mismanagement of the bridge district.

He was followed into the grand jury room by Jerome B. White, attorney for the bridge district. White entered the closed hearing room at 11:25 a.m. and had not emerged at noon.

Scheduled to testify before the grand jurors this afternoon were bridge district directors Ben K. Lerer of San

Supervisors Say No To Charge On Center Tours

Marin County supervisors today looked with alarm on a proposal to charge visitor to the Civic Center 50 cents each for guided tours.

They particularly flinched from a Marin Visitors Bureau notion that $12,000 should be provided for a year of such a program, recalling that the county has already given the bureau $10,000 for the current year.

Maggie Gnau, bureau managing director, was told to confer with Asst. Administrator John F. Barrows as to a revised program at a lower price.

Chairman Walter R. Castro said he thought the board had already established a policy that the taxpayers would not be charged to look at what they had paid for.

As others echoed this view, Supervisor George Ludy commented it is likely that the Point Reyes National Seashore —not the Civic Center—will prove to be Marin's top tourist attraction.

"Bless you, George!" exclaimed Supervisor Peter Behr, who has been the great proponent of the park. But Behr said before rejecting Miss Gnau's ideas completely, the board should give thought to the problem of keeping the Civic Center available on weekend visits.

Administrator Alan Bruce said a contractor is two months overdue in setting up a building directory to guide the bewildered. Supervisor William D. Fusselman said these include himself.

Kennedy, Macmillan Begin Talks; Stress U. S.-British Friendship

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—President John F. Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan stressed close U.S.-British friendship — overriding various differences in a meeting today under a brilliant subtropical sun. (See also story page 8.)

In a series of little summit talks ending late Thursday, they are expected to discuss such diverse matters as a formula for ending their split over the Skybolt missiles and plans for joint military aid to India.

They also plan to survey the world situation in the wake of the Cuban crisis and try to figure out whether there is any profit to be made by the West in the Soviet retreat from Cuba and the Russian-Red China division.

The prime minister, wearing a light grayish tan suit, said he had met 16 times with American presidents and he had found that "the most important and vital element of all such conferences was the close association between our two countries."

He reminded Kennedy that Britain and the United States have been through "much together in the past," and said they looked forward with high hopes to the future.

Kennedy responded warmly to Macmillan's welcome, recalling that this is their sixth meeting during his own two years in the presidency.

Cuba Taught Nikita Lesson: JFK

REPORT TO NATION — President John F. Kennedy struck various poses yesterday as he appeared in a prepared interview report to the nation. This series of photographs was made from a television screen.

(AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy believes the Cuban crisis taught Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev "how dangerous a world we live in" but that it will be some time before the United States will "come to any real understanding" with him.

If the Communists would devote their energies to demonstrating how their system works instead of trying to change the balance of power "we could have a long period of peace," Kennedy said.

But it is, he said, the Red Chinese and Soviet determination to make a Communist world in a nuclear age that "makes the sixties so dangerous."

However, in a chatty interview that set a television "first" last night, the president said "we ought to be rather pleased with our lot this Christmas" for thwarting the threat of Communist domination.

The president made no effort to paint a rosy picture of U.S. Soviet relations in the interview which was also carried on radio.

The Cuban crisis, he said, has made successful negotiations with the Kremlin more difficult because the Russians —through deception—tried to change the balance of power by sneaking missiles into Cuba.

"So it is going to be sometime before it is possible for us to come to any real understanding with Mr. Khrushchev."

And he saw no advantage in a summit meeting soon.

"I don't think there is a need for us to know now," he said. "I think probably he feels the same way."

Kennedy said, though, that the Soviet premier's speech to the Supreme Soviet parliament last week shows that he realizes perils of the nuclear age.

Khrushchev knows, he said, that if Russia ever fires its missiles the United States will have enough to "fire back at him to destroy the Soviet Union."

And, Kennedy said, the Russians "realize that West Berlin is a vital interest to us and that we are committed there and that we are going to stay there."

The chief executive covered much of the world in an hour-long question-and-answer session with William H. Lawrence of ABC, George Herman of CBS and Sander Vanocur of NBC.

The verbal tour brought out evidence that Kennedy has all but written off the possibility of opening Cuba —or any Communist territory—to inspection. Yet his administration has laid down a fundamental policy that inspection is vital in Cuba and necessary to any disarmament pact with Russia.

It brought out word, too, that Kennedy still thinks he was right in forcing a rollback of steel prices and in ordering troops onto the University of Mississippi campus to protect Negro James H. Meredith.

It was a calm, poised president talking in an informal, relaxed manner with three men who cover the White House for television and radio.

The interview was filmed Sunday afternoon in Kennedy's oval office at the White House. It lasted 90 minutes and then was condensed to 60 by the networks.

It showed Kennedy sitting in his rocking chair in the spot where he holds many of his most important conferences.

There was a moment of drama, centering around Kennedy's conference with Soviet Foreign minister Andrei A. Gromyko four days before the president announced that Russia had sent offensive weapons into Cuba and the United States was cracking down with a quarantine.

"Right here," Kennedy said. And he reached out and thumped the exact spot.

The president and the reporters dug into a broad field of subjects in leisurely fashion. They turned up some nuggets of new information but none of really startling proportions.

In the process, Kennedy:

Contended the air-to-ground Skybolt missile, a focal point of controversy with Britain, wouldn't provide "2.5 billion dollars worth of national security." The 2.5 billion dollars is the estimated cost of perfecting the weapon.

Disclosed that "we are going to wait for a further period of investigation" before putting into production the Nike Zeus system of anti-missile missiles. It would cost more billions.

Again called on "rich Western Europe" to do its part in bearing the burdens of defense of the free world while relying on the United States arsenal for nuclear weapons.

Figured that as a result of the Nov. 6 election, the House is "slightly against us more than it was." He emphasized "slightly," and added: "We are not in quite as good shape as we were the last two years." The Democrats lost four seats and the Republicans gained two in a House whose total membership decreased from 437 to 435.

One thing Kennedy has found out at the White House:

The problems, the nation's responsibilities in an uneasy world, the limitations on "our ability to bring about a favorable result" are greater than he had imagined they would be.

"It is," he said a bit wistfully, "much easier to make the speeches than it is to finally make the judgments."

Sometimes, Kennedy conceded, his decisions have been wrong. He was wrong, he said, in the Cuban invasion fiasco of last year—but right in clamping a naval blockade around Fidel Castro's island in October.

He said he has no regrets about throwing the power of the presidency in the path of a steel price boost last spring. Good faith was involved, he said, since the United Steel Workers had agreed to a non-inflationary contract.

Similarly, in the rioting at the University of Mississippi that took two lives, Kennedy said that "we couldn't possibly do anything else" than send in U.S. marshals and troops. He acknowledged that this had caused bitterness against himself and the federal government and that "it does make it more difficult to pass an education bill in Congress."

As for Khrushchev, Kennedy said he didn't "think it is our duty to protect" the Soviet premier on grounds that his successor would be worse. But he said one thing that would be worse than Khrushchev would be for the Chinese Communists and their war policy to dominate the world Communist movement. "But," he added, "Mr. Khrushchev does not wish us well, unfortunately."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Missile's Future

WASHINGTON (AP)—The A-3, an advanced model of the Polaris submarine-launched missile has suffered six consecutive test failures but the Navy said its future prospects are excellent.

The most recent failure came on Dec. 6 when the missile shot out of control and was destroyed intentionally.

"In such case, the cause has been identified and rectified and has not recurred," the Navy said.

News Strike Talks

NEW YORK (AP)—Peace talks resume today between the Publishers Assn. of New York and the International Typographical Union in the 11-day-old strike that has blacked out the city's nine major daily newspapers.

The talks were suspended last Wednesday as federal mediators saw no hope of an early settlement of the deadlock over wages and fringe benefits.

Abortion 'Practiced'

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A Santa Monica phychiatrist says that a bill proposing changes in the state law regarding abortion would "only codify what reputable members of the medical profession have been practicing for years."

Dr. Jerome Kummer was one of those who spoke in favor of the proposed changes at the first session of a two-day hearing here yesterday before the Assembly Interim Committee on Criminal Procedure.

Others spoke against the changes, which are included in a bill proposed by Assemblyman John T. Knox (D-Richmond).

Cuban Prisoners Wait For Castro

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Relatives of prisoners taken during the Bay of Pigs invasion waited hopefully today for Fidel Castro to say when and if he will accept food and medicine for their freedom.

A team of negotiators headed by James B. Donovan, New York attorney, is in Miami.

The team will fly to Havana to make final arrangements when Cuba approves their Miami-to-Havana flight.

The African Pilot, a 435-foot freighter designated by the International Red Cross as the vessel to deliver the ransom to Cuba, headed south from Baltimore and is due at Port Everglades, 30 miles north of Miami, tomorrow.

The Red Cross has assumed sponsorship of the exchange.

India Digs In At Cease-Fire Line

LEH, India (AP)—Indian troops are digging in along the frozen, windswept cease-fire line in Ladakh, one of the world's bleakest areas. Their officers talk of driving the Chinese out, but admit it would take years.

Only wisps of snow dust across the bare plateau northeast of here where two powerful Chinese divisions are poised. The Himalayas and Karakorams — the world's second mightiest mountain range — are so high they cut off snowfall from areas where the bloody fighting occurred in October and November.

Senegal Struggle

DAKAR, Senegal (AP) — The National Assembly was expected to put its formal endorsement today on President Leopold Senghor's victory in a power struggle with left-leaning Premier Mamadou Dia.

Informed sources predicted the assembly would amend the constitution to abolish the office of premier and would then make the Paris-educated Senghor head of the government as well as chief of state.

Troops loyal to Senghor blocked an attempted coup by Dia yesterday.

Venus Information

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It will take scientists weeks to translate into English what Mariner II told them about Venus during its 42-minute flyby Friday.

Why? Because the interplanetary space language used by the scientists in their conversation with Mariner and by Mariner in its radio reports to earth is an extremely complicated code.

Mariner II had been trained to use the code before it left home. Aboard the spacecraft was a data encoder. The data, in code form, was transmitted by Mariner to ground stations.

The 85-foot radio dishes at the tracking stations, amplified signals and recorded them.

'A Teething Ring'

STUTTGART, Ark. (AP) — Joe Karkur reported the theft of 1,000 teeth from his dental laboratory in Stuttgart.

Noting a similar burglary of 4,000 teeth at Augusta, Ga., recently, Karkur said: "I think it's a teething ring."

Rules Unit Due Fight In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talk of a compromise in the threatened liberal-conservative fight over the House Rules Committee apparently has fallen on deaf ears.

Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.), chairman of the committee and leaders of conservative Democrats, said he was not "bargaining" in his position that the committee membership return to 12 as scheduled next month.

LEADS FIGHT

And President John F. Kennedy said last night if the committee does revert to 12 members the administration's program "would be emasculated."

Smith led the fight against enlargement of the committee to 15 members in January 1961. He lost by a 217-to-212 vote to a liberal group led by the late Sam Rayburn of Texas. The increase, designed to give committee liberals an edge of eight to seven, was for a two-year period only. Prior to 1961, the committee was dominated by a conservative group of four Republicans and two Democrats.

House leaders have said they will renew the fight next month, when the new House convenes, to enlarge the committee. They claim they have enough votes to win, but their claims are disputed. They have suggested a "compromise" that would restore the membership to 15 but not clip its powers as some liberals have suggested.

STRONG BACKING

Kennedy gave the House leaders strong backing last night in his nationally televised review of his first two years in the White House.

"I hope that the Rules Committee is kept at its present number, because we can't function if it isn't. We are through if we lose — if they try to change the rules. Nothing controversial in that case would come to the floor of the Congress. Our whole program in my opinion would be emasculated."

COMMUNISTS PLAN CONVICTION APPEAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communist Party has been convicted and fined $120,000 for failing to register as an agent of the Soviet Union. But the 12-year legal wrangle goes on.

Joseph Forer and John J. Abt, lawyers for the Communist Party, said they plan to appeal the decision to the U.S. Court of Appeals and, if necessary, to the Supreme Court.

A federal jury of eight women and four men took only 35 minutes Monday to find the party guilty on all 12 counts of the indictment. U.S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtzoff then imposed this maximum fine — $10,000 for each count.

Imposition of the maximum fine led to speculation about whether the Communist Party has the money to pay it. If the fine is not paid, the Justice Department could seize the party's assets. A Justice Department attorney said he expected the fine will be suspended pending the party's appeal.

The defense made pleaded the party's right to use the Fifth Amendment during the trial, which began a week ago, but Judge Holtzoff said only a living person, not an organization, could invoke the Fifth Amendment, which protects a person against self-incrimination.

Congress passed the Subversive Activities Control Act, better known then as the McCarran Act, in 1950.

Under the act, the Subversive Activities Control Board found that the Communist Party was acting as an agent of the Soviet Union. The act required such organizations to register with the attorney general.

But the party refused, contending that the act was unconstitutional.

The Supreme Court found the McCarran act constitutional in 1961.

The Justice Department set Nov. 20, 1961 as the deadline for the party to register.

The party's lawyers maintained that the party had sent a letter to the Justice Department on Nov. 10, 1961 that complied with the law. They said the letter listed the party's name and address. To give any other information, they continued, might incriminate the party. So, under the Fifth Amendment, the party did not have to give that information, the attorneys said.

Cuba Taught Nikita Lesson: JFK

REPORT TO NATION — President John F. Kennedy struck various poses yesterday as he appeared in a prepared interview report to the nation. This series of photographs was made from a television screen.
(AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy believes the Cuban crisis taught Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev "how dangerous a world we live in" but that it will be some time before the United States will "come to any real understanding" with him.

If the Communists would devote their energies to demonstrating how their system works instead of trying to change the balance of power "we could have a long period of peace," Kennedy said.

But it is, he said, the Red Chinese and Soviet determination to make a Communist world in a nuclear age that "makes the sixties so dangerous."

However, in a chatty interview that set a television "first" last night, the president said "we ought to be rather pleased with our lot this Christmas" for thwarting the threat of Communist domination.

The president made no effort to paint a rosy picture of U.S. Soviet relations in the interview which was also carried on radio.

The Cuban crisis, he said, has made successful negotiations with the Kremlin more difficult because the Russians —through deception—tried to change the balance of power by sneaking missiles into Cuba.

"So it is going to be sometime before it is possible for us to come to any real understanding with Mr. Khrushchev."

And he saw no advantage in a summit meeting soon.

"I don't think there is a need for us to know now," he said. "I think probably he feels the same way."

Kennedy said, though, that the Soviet premier's speech to the Supreme Soviet parliament last week shows that he realizes perils of the nuclear age.

Khrushchev knows, he said, that if Russia ever fires its missiles the United States will have enough to "fire back at him to destroy the Soviet Union."

And, Kennedy said, the Russians "realize that West Berlin is a vital interest to us and that we are committed there and that we are going to stay there."

The chief executive covered much of the world in an hour-long question-and-answer session with William H. Lawrence of ABC, George Herman of CBS and Sander Vanocur of NBC.

The verbal tour brought out evidence that Kennedy has all but written off the possibility of opening Cuba —or any Communist territory—to inspection. Yet his administration has laid down a fundamental policy that inspection is vital in Cuba and necessary to any disarmament pact with Russia.

It brought out word, too, that Kennedy still thinks he was right in forcing a rollback of steel prices and in ordering troops onto the University of Mississippi campus to protect Negro James H. Meredith.

It was a calm, poised president talking in an informal, relaxed manner with three men who cover the White House for television and radio.

The interview was filmed Sunday afternoon in Kennedy's oval office at the White House. It lasted 90 minutes and then was condensed to 60 by the networks.

It showed Kennedy sitting in his rocking chair in the spot where he holds many of his most important conferences.

There was a moment of drama, centering around Kennedy's conference with Soviet Foreign minister Andrei A. Gromyko four days before the president announced that Russia had sent offensive weapons into Cuba and the United States was cracking down with a quarantine.

"Right here," Kennedy said. And he reached out and thumped the exact spot.

The president and the reporters dug into a broad field of subjects in leisurely fashion. They turned up some nuggets of new information but none of really startling proportions.

In the process, Kennedy:

Contended the air-to-ground Skybolt missile, a focal point of controversy with Britain, wouldn't provide "2.5 billion dollars worth of national security." The 2.5 billion dollars is the estimated cost of perfecting the weapon.

Disclosed that "we are going to wait for a further period of investigation" before putting into production the Nike Zeus system of anti-missile missiles. It would cost more billions.

Again called on "rich Western Europe" to do its part in bearing the burdens of defense of the free world while relying on the United States arsenal for nuclear weapons.

Figured that as a result of the Nov. 6 election, the House is "slightly against us more than it was." He emphasized "slightly," and added: "We are not in quite as good shape as we were the last two years." The Democrats lost four seats and the Republicans gained two in a House whose total membership decreased from 437 to 435.

One thing Kennedy has found out at the White House:

The problems, the nation's responsibilities in an uneasy world, the limitations on "our ability to bring about a favorable result" are greater than he had imagined they would be.

"It is," he said a bit wistfully, "much easier to make the speeches than it is to finally make the judgments."

Sometimes, Kennedy conceded, his decisions have been wrong. He was wrong, he said, in the Cuban invasion fiasco of last year—but right in clamping a naval blockade around Fidel Castro's island in October.

He said he has no regrets about throwing the power of the presidency in the path of a steel price boost last spring. Good faith was involved, he said, since the United Steel Workers had agreed to a non-inflationary contract.

Similarly, in the rioting at the University of Mississippi that took two lives, Kennedy said that "we couldn't possibly do anything else" than send in U.S. marshals and troops. He acknowledged that this had caused bitterness against himself and the federal government and that "it does make it more difficult to pass an education bill in Congress."

As for Khrushchev, Kennedy said he didn't "think it is our duty to protect" the Soviet premier on grounds that his successor would be worse. But he said one thing that would be worse than Khrushchev would be for the Chinese Communists and their war policy to dominate the world Communist movement. "But," he added, "Mr. Khrushchev does not wish us well, unfortunately."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Missile's Future

WASHINGTON (AP)—The A-3, an advanced model of the Polaris submarine-launched missile has suffered six consecutive test failures but the Navy said its future prospects are excellent.

The most recent failure came on Dec. 6 when the missile shot out of control and was destroyed intentionally.

"In such case, the cause has been identified and rectified and has not recurred," the Navy said.

News Strike Talks

NEW YORK (AP)—Peace talks resume today between the Publishers Assn. of New York and the International Typographical Union in the 11-day-old strike that has blacked out the city's nine major daily newspapers.

The talks were suspended last Wednesday as federal mediators saw no hope of an early settlement of the deadlock over wages and fringe benefits.

Abortion 'Practiced'

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A Santa Monica phychiatrist says that a bill proposing changes in the state law regarding abortion would "only codify what reputable members of the medical profession have been practicing for years."

Dr. Jerome Kummer was one of those who spoke in favor of the proposed changes at the first session of a two-day hearing here yesterday before the Assembly Interim Committee on Criminal Procedure.

Others spoke against the changes, which are included in a bill proposed by Assemblyman John T. Knox (D-Richmond).

Cuban Prisoners Wait For Castro

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Relatives of prisoners taken during the Bay of Pigs invasion waited hopefully today for Fidel Castro to say when and if he will accept food and medicine for their freedom.

A team of negotiators headed by James B. Donovan, New York attorney, is in Miami.

The team will fly to Havana to make final arrangements when Cuba approves their Miami-to-Havana flight.

The African Pilot, a 435-foot freighter designated by the International Red Cross as the vessel to deliver the ransom to Cuba, headed south from Baltimore and is due at Port Everglades, 30 miles north of Miami, tomorrow.

The Red Cross has assumed sponsorship of the exchange.

India Digs In At Cease-Fire Line

LEH, India (AP)—Indian troops are digging in along the frozen, windswept cease-fire line in Ladakh, one of the world's bleakest areas. Their officers talk of driving the Chinese out, but admit it would take years.

Only wisps of snow dust across the bare plateau northeast of here where two powerful Chinese divisions are poised. The Himalayas and Karakorams — the world's second mightiest mountain range — are so high they cut off snowfall from areas where the bloody fighting occurred in October and November.

Key passes in China's Sinkiang Province to the north are reported closed by snow.

Senegal Struggle

DAKAR, Senegal (AP) — The National Assembly was expected to put its formal endorsement today on President Leopold Senghor's victory in a power struggle with left-leaning Premier Mamadou Dia.

Informed sources predicted the assembly would amend the constitution to abolish the office of premier and would then make the Paris-educated Senghor head of the government as well as chief of state.

Troops loyal to Senghor blocked an attempted coup by Dia yesterday.

Venus Information

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It will take scientists weeks to translate into English what Mariner II told them about Venus during its 42-minute flyby Friday.

Why? Because the interplanetary space language used by the scientists in their conversation with Mariner and by Mariner in its radio reports to earth is an extremely complicated code.

Mariner II had been trained to use the code before it left home. Aboard the spacecraft was a data encoder. The data, in code form, was transmitted by Mariner to ground stations.

The 85-foot radio dishes at the tracking stations, amplified signals and recorded them.

'A Teething Ring'

STUTTGART, Ark. (AP) — Joe Karkur reported the theft of 1,000 teeth from his dental laboratory in Stuttgart.

Noting a similar burglary of 4,000 teeth at Augusta, Ga., recently, Karkur said: "I think it's a teething ring."

Rules Unit Due Fight In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talk of a compromise in the threatened liberal-conservative fight over the House Rules Committee apparently has fallen on deaf ears.

Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.), chairman of the committee and leaders of conservative Democrats, said he was not "bargaining" in his position that the committee membership return to 12 as scheduled next month.

LEADS FIGHT

And President John F. Kennedy said last night if the committee does revert to 12 members the administration's program "would be emasculated."

Smith led the fight against enlargement of the committee to 15 members in January 1961. He lost by a 217-to-212 vote to a liberal group led by the late Sam Rayburn of Texas. The increase, designed to give committee liberals an edge of eight to seven, was for a two-year period only. Prior to 1961, the committee was dominated by a conservative group of four Republicans and two Democrats.

House leaders have said they will renew the fight next month, when the new House convenes, to enlarge the committee. They claim they have enough votes to win, but their claims are disputed. They have suggested a "compromise" that would restore the membership to 15 but not clip its powers as some liberals have suggested.

STRONG BACKING

Kennedy gave the House leaders strong backing last night in his nationally televised review of his first two years in the White House.

"I hope that the Rules Committee is kept at its present number, because we can't function if it isn't. We are through if we lose — if they try to change the rules. Nothing controversial in that case would come to the floor of the Congress. Our whole program in my opinion would be emasculated."

COMMUNISTS PLAN CONVICTION APPEAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communist Party has been convicted and fined $120,000 for failing to register as an agent of the Soviet Union. But the 12-year legal wrangle goes on.

Joseph Forer and John J. Abt, lawyers for the Communist Party, said they plan to appeal the decision to the U.S. Court of Appeals and, if necessary, to the Supreme Court.

A federal jury of eight women and four men took only 35 minutes Monday to find the party guilty on all 12 counts of the indictment. U.S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtzoff then imposed this maximum fine — $10,000 for each count.

Imposition of the maximum fine led to speculation about whether the Communist Party has the money to pay it. If the fine is not paid, the Justice Department could seize the party's assets. A Justice Department attorney said he expected the fine will be suspended pending the party's appeal.

The defense made pleaded the party's right to use the Fifth Amendment during the trial, which began a week ago, but Judge Holtzoff said only a living person, not an organization, could invoke the Fifth Amendment, which protects a person against self-incrimination.

Congress passed the Subversive Activities Control Act, better known then as the McCarran Act, in 1950.

Under the act, the Subversive Activities Control Board found that the Communist Party was acting as an agent of the Soviet Union. The act required such organizations to register with the attorney general.

But the party refused, contending that the act was unconstitutional.

The Supreme Court found the McCarran act constitutional in 1961.

The Justice Department set Nov. 20, 1961 as the deadline for the party to register.

The party's lawyers maintained that the party had sent a letter to the Justice Department on Nov. 10, 1961 that complied with the law. They said the letter listed the party's name and address. To give any other information, they continued, might incriminate the party. So, under the Fifth Amendment, the party did not have to give that information, the attorneys said.

There are more than 1,500 species of minerals.

Cuba Taught Nikita Lesson: JFK

REPORT TO NATION — President John F. Kennedy struck various poses yesterday as he appeared in a prepared interview report to the nation. This series of photographs was made from a television screen. (AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy believes the Cuban crisis taught Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev "how dangerous a world we live in" but that it will be some time before the United States will "come to any real understanding" with him.

If the Communists would devote their energies to demonstrating how their system works instead of trying to change the balance of power "we could have a long period of peace," Kennedy said.

But it is, he said, the Red Chinese and Soviet determination to make a Communist world in a nuclear age that "makes the sixties so dangerous."

The verbal tour brought out evidence that Kennedy has all but written off the possibility of opening Cuba —or any Communist territory—to inspection. Yet his administration has laid down a fundamental policy that inspection is vital in Cuba and necessary to any disarmament pact with Russia.

Rules Unit Due Fight In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talk of a compromise in the threatened liberal-conservative fight over the House Rules Committee apparently has fallen on deaf ears.

Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.), chairman of the committee and leaders of conservative Democrats, said he was not "bargaining" in his position that the committee membership return to 12 as scheduled next month.

LEADS FIGHT

And President John F. Kennedy said last night if the committee does revert to 12 members the administration's program "would be emasculated."

Smith led the fight against enlargement of the committee to 15 members in January 1961. He lost by a 217-to-212 vote to a liberal group led by the late Sam Rayburn of Texas. The increase, designed to give committee liberals an edge of eight to seven, was for a two-year period only. Prior to 1961, the committee was dominated by a conservative group of four Republicans and two Democrats.

House leaders have said they will renew the fight next month, when the new House convenes, to enlarge the committee. They claim they have enough votes to win, but their claims are disputed. They have suggested a "compromise" that would restore the membership to 15 but not clip its powers as some liberals have suggested.

STRONG BACKING

Kennedy gave the House leaders strong backing last night in his nationally televised review of his first two years in the White House.

"I hope that the Rules Committee is kept at its present number, because we can't function if it isn't. We are through if we lose — if they try to change the rules. Nothing controversial in that case would come to the floor of the Congress. Our whole program in my opinion would be emasculated."

COMMUNISTS PLAN CONVICTION APPEAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communist Party has been convicted and fined $120,000 for failing to register as an agent of the Soviet Union. But the 12-year legal wrangle goes on.

Joseph Forer and John J. Abt, lawyers for the Communist Party, said they plan to appeal the decision to the U.S. Court of Appeals and, if necessary, to the Supreme Court.

A federal jury of eight women and four men took only 35 minutes Monday to find the party guilty on all 12 counts of the indictment. U.S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtzoff then imposed this maximum fine — $10,000 for each count.

Imposition of the maximum fine led to speculation about whether the Communist Party has the money to pay it. If the fine is not paid, the Justice Department could seize the party's assets. A Justice Department attorney said he expected the fine will be suspended pending the party's appeal.

The defense made pleaded the party's right to use the Fifth Amendment during the trial, which began a week ago, but Judge Holtzoff said only a living person, not an organization, could invoke the Fifth Amendment, which protects a person against self-incrimination.

Congress passed the Subversive Activities Control Act, better known then as the McCarran Act, in 1950.

Under the act, the Subversive Activities Control Board found that the Communist Party was acting as an agent of the Soviet Union. The act required such organizations to register with the attorney general.

But the party refused, contending that the act was unconstitutional.

The Supreme Court found the McCarran act constitutional in 1961.

The Justice Department set Nov. 20, 1961 as the deadline for the party to register.

The party's lawyers maintained that the party had sent a letter to the Justice Department on Nov. 10, 1961 that complied with the law. They said the letter listed the party's name and address. To give any other information, they continued, might incriminate the party. So, under the Fifth Amendment, the party did not have to give that information, the attorneys said.

There are more than 1,500 species of minerals.

GOVERNOR CALLS IN MAYORS—Mayor John F. McInnis of San Rafael (indicated by arrow) was one of three representatives of cities under 100,000 population among group of mayors called to Sacramento yesterday by Gov. Edmund G. Brown for first meeting of mayors' committee the governor hopes will help him solve problems affecting cities throughout California. Brown is seen with back to camera, addressing the group. State, Cities Agree To Set Up Urban Policy Study

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown and the mayors of the state's 17 largest cities have laid plans to work with county officials in setting up a study committee on "California urban policy."

The governor and the mayors tentatively agreed to the formation of the committee yesterday, citing the need for study of ways to deal with such problems as housing, welfare, transportation, air pollution, waste disposal, water supply and water pollutions, and highways.

Brown and other state officials told the mayors the new state budget will be the largest ever, while Brown has pledged there will be "no new taxes."

The mayors said either new taxes or adjustments in revenue gathering methods would be needed.

From the governor and some of his top department heads, including Hale Champion, state director of finance, came these comments:

The new state budget probably will top three billion dollars if for no other reason than normal growth will boost the cost of public education by 49 million dollars next year. The current state budget is 2.9 billion dollars.

Brown said he will stick to his campaign promise of no new taxes, "but my pledge will meet the acid test before the Legislature." He conceded income is not as high as he hoped it would be and that demands for more money for schools and salary raises for state employees would make his position difficult.

Champion suggested a two-year study of the entire tax structure for cities, counties and the state. He said "serious thought" should be given to repealing the constitutional requirement that two-thirds of the voters must approve a city or county general bond issue for building purposes.

More money is needed for parking facilities in cities; for mass rapid transit developments and for financing improvement of major arterials leading to freeways.

Brown chimed in that he is going to emphasize "beauty in everything we do in the next four years—in schools, colleges, bridges and the university."

Spokesmen for the cities, notably Richard Carpenter, executive director of the League of California Cities and from Mayors George Christopher of San Francisco and Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, made these points:

Cities need more revenue, Carpenter said. And he specifically recommended an increase in the state gasoline tax to provide more funds for development of county roads and city streets.

Yorty urged regional development of such projects as jet airports to serve different counties and communities.

Christopher asked and Brown agreed to closer cooperation between state and city planning agencies to draw up a plan for construction of the San Francisco port in such a way that it would not interfere with the city's master plan.

Kaiser, Steelworkers Unveil Plan To Ease Pinch From Automation

FONTANA (AP)—Kaiser Steel Corp. and the United Steelworkers have unveiled a unique new labor agreement designed to ease the pinch of automation.

The plan, announced yesterday, was developed in three years of meetings by a special, nine-man committee.

The agreement provides for retraining employees who lose their jobs because of automation.

And, as production costs per item decrease, worker pay checks will get larger. So also will tax payments to the government and, of course, company profits. This portion of the pact is called a "cost savings" plan.

The agreement is subject to worker approval, but David J. McDonald, president of the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers of America, predicted at the joint news conference here yesterday that it will pass handily.

The election probably will be held in January, he added.

Affected will be all the 7,000 Kaiser workers here.

The pact includes a pledge that employees will receive at least the wage level of the steel industry.

"There has to be a floor," said a company spokesman, "and it will be the Big Steel floor. But we never expect it to be considered because this plan will provide a higher income than the minimum."

McDonald called the agreement "a great step forward toward industry peace." He declined to say whether the plan will be pushed for adoption elsewhere.

The contract is to be four years in effect and subject to annual revision and review.

Thirty-four per cent of 1961's total radio output was in models for automobiles, according to the American Automobile Association.

New State Laws Urged In Fair Housing Area

SACRAMENTO (AP) — New laws were urged by the Fair Employment Practices Commission today to bolster California's attack on racial discrimination with emphasis on housing.

The commission noting that 1963 is the centennial of the Emancipation Proclamation, urged an expanded commission with broad powers to enforce anti-discrimination orders.

The commission now has only conciliatory powers.

John Anson Ford, commission chairman, told Gov. Edmund G. Brown the state has made considerable progress against discrimination, but there is much unfinished business.

The proposed legislation program "will make it possible to fulfill your commitment to make California first in achievement of full equality of opportunity for every one of its people," he said.

The program includes:

1. Expansion of the present housing law to give the FEPC power to initiate investigations, bring cases to public hearing and, if necessary to go to court. Virtually all dwellings except small rental structures occupied by the owner and owner resales of single-family homes would be covered.

2. FEPC enforcement of the Unruh Civil Rights Act barring discrimination in businesses, and expansion to include all persons and business licensed by the state.

3. Enlargement of the commission from five to seven members.

4. Granting authority to the commission to initiate complaints.

Tam Trustees Want Balanced Financing

Tamalpais High School District trustees last night adopted by 4-1 vote a resolution calling on the legislature to develop a program of school financing "balanced" between the state and local taxpayers.

The dissent was by trustee William B. Lewis, who contended the board should not put itself on record in support of a scheme which might turn out to work a hardship on the Tam district.

The resolution endorses none of several bills being discussed by state associations of educators, which were described to the trustees by Robert A. Cassou, district business director. It says: "We urge the legislature to develop a financial measure which provides for a program of balanced financial support for education between the state and local taxpayers."

Robert J. Maher, coordinator of work experience, said he has lined up 100 persons in all walks of life in Marin in a speakers resources pool who are willing to address students on many subjects.

The program has been started at all three district high schools, Maher said.

Maher reported 75 teachers and administrative personnel had signed up to appear in "The Curious Savage," an all-district faculty play to give six performances beginning March 1. Admission proceeds will go to a teachers' education scholarship fund.

Drs. Grace Cox and Janet Lyons reported on psychological services for pupils.

Tamalpais District trustees also:

1. Accepted an offer of $650 from Gillig Brothers for two old school buses, last of a fleet of 1940 models, which Cassou said were costing more than their final sales price per year for maintenance.

2. Awarded a contract to Laboratory Equipment Co. of San Francisco for 52 microscopes on a low bid of $6,165.12.

3. Awarded six contracts to several firms for $4,231.62 for machine equipment for the industrial arts shop at Sir Francis Drake High School.

4. Filed notice of completion of the new counseling quarters at Redwood High School, to be occupied this week.

5. Approved scores of texts and supplemental textbooks being used in classes.

I don't know the exact kind of illness.

"I assume he had gone to a doctor and gotten his advice on it. I called the doctor who reported that he treated him. I don't recall the doctor's name.

"I asked him to return because I needed a man."

He added: "The only place Giampoli could have been while he was sick was at his business. That I can see. As far as I am concerned, he was ready to come back to work."

On Dec. 10, when asked by an Independent-Journal reporter why Giampoli had not been working, Chiesa replied that he was on sick leave for a bad foot and was "trying to make up his mind whether to have an operation performed on it."

Asked at that time if he knew whether Giampoli was taking advantage of his sick leave by campaigning for office or working at his business, Chiesa replied, "If I did know, I would have him back here quick."

For the past several months, Giampoli's police pay check has been going to the Internal Revenue Service to pay part of $2,866 in employee withholding taxes and social security payments which he has owed the government since last April.

When Giampoli announced he would seek Chiesa's job, the chief said he thought the lieutenant should resign from the department two months before the election as he had done prior to defeating veteran Chief Frank Kelly in the April, 1959, election.

Museum Gets Funds For Film

David N. Plant, president of the Louise A. Boyd Natural History Museum, was successful today in winning from the county $500 as half the cost of preparing a preliminary script for a proposed Marin flora and fauna film.

Remainder of the required $10,000 will be provided by the county board of education.

Supervisor William D. Fusselman continued his objection of last week, when absence of Supervisor William Gnoss blocked action since a four-fifths vote is required for fund transfer. Gnoss's acceptance of Plant's idea today passed the motion by the required 4-1 majority.

"I still think the schools should handle this entirely and anyway it should have been in the budget," said Fusselman.

Supervisor Peter Behr, who moved approval, said the film should prove of benefit not only to children "but to the county in general in terms of professional exposure of what we have to offer."

Behr also said this enterprise might "preserve grandeur which our children and grandchildren may never see in terms of what we have today."

Plant made clear that the major cost of the film itself probably will be met by a $10,000 National Defense Education Act grant.

Francisco and Herbert J. Fehely of Del Norte, and Gordon Garland, bridge lobbyist in Sacramento and former assemblyman.

Grand Jury Foreman Irving Chapman indicated that at least one more meeting will be held by the grand jury before the bridge probe is completed.

Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety is helping the grand jury question the witnesses. This morning, Donald E. Midyett, inspector for the district attorney, also appeared before the jury for 30 minutes before the other witnesses were called in.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy and William W. Hendricks, former administrative assistant to the bridge general manager, called for a full investigation of the bridge financial operations. At a Nov. 28 press conference, they charged the bridge district with mismanagement and waste.

Marin Girl, 14, Under Arrest For Shoplifting

A 14-year-old Mill Valley girl was arrested Saturday for Christmas shoplifting $75 worth of clothing, accessories and toys in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Police Chief Frank Nelson said the girl was arrested by Patrolman Charles Newman after her apprehension by a security officer at Montgomery Ward and Co. He said she had taken about $75 worth of merchandise from Wards, J. C. Penney Co., Toy World, F. W. Woolworth Co., and W.T. Grant Co., after spending $30 her father had given her.

The girl, who told police she had been shoplifting since she was 10 years old, was cited to appear in juvenile court in San Rafael Thursday.

Thief Gets Money, Christmas Gifts

A thief broke into Estelle's Beauty Salon in Mill Valley early today and took not only $40 in cash from the cash register but three Christmas gifts that customers had brought to the salon owner, Rita Raymond.

Mrs. Raymond told police the gifts were a box of candy, a cake, and a package of assorted nuts.

Entry to the salon at 40 Millwood Avenue, police reported, was made by smashing an 18-by-18-inch window adjacent to the front door.

Water Area Zone Hearing Slated

A public hearing on inclusion of water district lands in Marin County's open area zoning will be held by the county planning commission Jan. 7.

Commissioners set the hearing date yesterday at suggestion of planning director B. D. Dobbs. The board of supervisors had requested the hearing in an effort to draw up areas for the long-discussed "Greenbelt" zoning. Dobbs said the hearing would include discussion of protective zoning for lands of the Marin Municipal Water District and the North Marin County water district.

Mailing Of Bills Due Water Unit Meeting

Whether to mail bills in self-addressed return envelopes or continue to use postcards will be decided tonight at 8 o'clock by the North Marin County Water District board meeting in the administration building.

The board will also award contracts for the annual supply of pipe, fittings, valves, hydrants, fencing, back fill materials, and other items.

Sandoval Will Get Mental Examination

Two psychiatrists were appointed today to determine whether Jaime Enrique Sandoval, 32, central figure in a Peninsula and Marin death mystery, should be released from Atascadero State Hospital where he has been held since February, 1961, as a sexual psychopath.

Sandoval, once a San Rafael hospital orderly, figured in the deaths of Donald and Virginia Douglas of Millbrae in 1960. Mrs. Douglas died in a fall from a cliff in Puerto Rico where she had gone with Sandoval to check on a fictitious inheritance. Douglas was later found dead in his car parked in Lucas Valley, an apparent suicide victim. He left a note in which he said he forged his wife's name to mortgage their home and gave the money to Sandoval.

Sandoval was convicted of lewd acts with the Douglas's two teen-age sons. He had a previous arrest in Marin County in 1957 for sex offenses involving a 15-year-old youth.

Judge Frank B. Blum, on the San Mateo County Superior Court bench in Redwood City, today asked the two psychiatrists to examine Sandoval and submit their reports in time for a hearing at 9:30 a.m. Jan. 3.

Bruce Asks Pay Hikes For 36 Employees

County Administrator Alan Bruce, in line with new supervisors' policy, today submitted administrative recommendation of midyear pay raises for 36 county employees at potential cost of $5,300.

He did this after considering departmental recommendations on behalf of 76 employees involving a total extra salary outlay of $14,976.

The board concluded that it should consider an attached bulky file case by case, a task which it hoped to start later in the day.

In response to a question, Asst. Personnel Director Robert D. Elliott said that when necessary, he had conferred directly with the employees recommended for boosts. His longest task was in the probation department, he said.

Bruce's letter pointed out that in many cases he recommended deferral until summer budget consideration, which meant that some cases had merit but could be postponed half a year.

clude the voters' precinct numbers.

In a prepared statement for the press, Kent declared he was doing "my duty as the elected head of the Democratic Party in Northern California to see that he (Stuart) does not deceive the voters of the First District."

Stuart "is not a legal candidate," he is "not a resident of the district and he cannot even vote in this election. By law he is entitled to run but only if he complies with the law. He and his ex-convict verification deputy have flagrantly violated the law," declared Kent.

"No Democrat or honorable Republican need feel sorry for Mr. Stuart," the statement went on. "He has admitted to me that during the past summer and fall he was on the payroll of 'Free Democrats' at $1,000 per month. The objective of the 'Free Democrats,' which is largely made up of a group of nominal Democrats defeated in this year's primary and which is financed by a public relations firm, was to run write-in campaigns against the nominees of our party, particularly Governor Brown."

The suit was filed by attorney Robert D. Carrow, unsuccessful candidate for Assembly.

A hearing, scheduled in San Rafael today on the revocation of a liquor license held by Katherine C. and Robert J. Bolger of Muir Beach Resort, was continued indefinitely by the State Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

The Bolgers are charged with holding a license that did not represent true ownership of the business. The continuance was ordered to give attorneys time to negotiate the matter, a spokesman for the state department said.

Lafayette Club's New Life Member

Louis Langlamet, 131 Laurel Place, San Rafael, a charter member of the Marin County Chapter of the Lafayette Club which was organized in 1930, was presented with a life membership Sunday.

Langlamet, a retired house painter and interior decorator, retired four years ago. He is 77. He served as secretary of the club for 30 years.

Presentation of the life membership at the Christmas meeting of the club in San Rafael was not a one-way transaction. Langlamet had something to give to the club. It was a three-by-four-foot oil painting he had done of the Marquis de Lafayette.

Langlamet has been painting since he was 14 years old.

A native of France, he moved to Canada when he was 19. He settled in San Rafael in 1924.

Tam Trustees Want Balanced Financing

Tamalpais High School District trustees last night adopted by 4-1 vote a resolution calling on the legislature to develop a program of school financing "balanced" between the state and local taxpayers.

The dissent was by trustee William B. Lewis, who contended the board should not put itself on record in support of a scheme which might turn out to work a hardship on the Tam district.

The resolution endorses none of several bills being discussed by state associations of educators, which were described to the trustees by Robert A. Cassou, district business director. It says: "We urge the legislature to develop a financial measure which provides for a program of balanced financial support for education between the state and local taxpayers."

Robert J. Maher, coordinator of work experience, said he has lined up 100 persons in all walks of life in Marin in a speakers resources pool who are willing to address students on many subjects.

The program has been started at all three district high schools, Maher said.

Maher reported 75 teachers and administrative personnel had signed up to appear in "The Curious Savage," an all-district faculty play to give six performances beginning March 1. Admission proceeds will go to a teachers' education scholarship fund.

Drs. Grace Cox and Janet Lyons reported on psychological services for pupils.

Tamalpais District trustees also:

1. Accepted an offer of $650 from Gillig Brothers for two old school buses, last of a fleet of 1940 models, which Cassou said were costing more than their final sales price per year for maintenance.

2. Awarded a contract to Laboratory Equipment Co. of San Francisco for 52 microscopes on a low bid of $6,165.12.

3. Awarded six contracts to several firms for $4,231.62 for machine equipment for the industrial arts shop at Sir Francis Drake High School.

4. Filed notice of completion of the new counseling quarters at Redwood High School, to be occupied this week.

5. Approved scores of texts and supplemental textbooks being used in classes.

6. Acknowledged gifts by 11 donors of number of books to the three high school libraries and the faculty library at district headquarters.

7. Delayed calling for bids to strengthen banks along San Anselmo Creek through the Drake High campus pending completion of plans by engineer Harold Engle.

For the past several months, Giampoli's police pay check has been going to the Internal Revenue Service to pay part of $2,866 in employee withholding taxes and social security payments which he has owed the government since last April.

When Giampoli announced he would seek Chiesa's job, the chief said he thought the lieutenant should resign from the department two months before the election as he had done prior to defeating veteran Chief Frank Kelly in the April, 1959, election.

Marin Girl, 14, Under Arrest For Shoplifting

A 14-year-old Mill Valley girl was arrested Saturday for Christmas shoplifting $75 worth of clothing, accessories and toys in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Police Chief Frank Nelson said the girl was arrested by Patrolman Charles Newman after her apprehension by a security officer at Montgomery Ward and Co. He said she had taken about $75 worth of merchandise from Wards, J. C. Penney Co., Toy World, F. W. Woolworth Co., and W.T. Grant Co., after spending $30 her father had given her.

The girl, who told police she had been shoplifting since she was 10 years old, was cited to appear in juvenile court in San Rafael Thursday.

Thief Gets Money, Christmas Gifts

A thief broke into Estelle's Beauty Salon in Mill Valley early today and took not only $40 in cash from the cash register but three Christmas gifts that customers had brought to the salon owner, Rita Raymond.

Mrs. Raymond told police the gifts were a box of candy, a cake, and a package of assorted nuts.

Entry to the salon at 40 Millwood Avenue, police reported, was made by smashing an 18-by-18-inch window adjacent to the front door.

Water Area Zone Hearing Slated

A public hearing on inclusion of water district lands in Marin County's open area zoning will be held by the county planning commission Jan. 7.

Commissioners set the hearing date yesterday at suggestion of planning director B. D. Dobbs. Dobbs said the hearing would include discussion of protective zoning for lands of the Marin Municipal Water District and the North Marin County water district.

Sandoval Will Get Mental Examination

Two psychiatrists were appointed today to determine whether Jaime Enrique Sandoval, 32, central figure in a Peninsula and Marin death mystery, should be released from Atascadero State Hospital where he has been held since February, 1961, as a sexual psychopath.

Sandoval, once a San Rafael hospital orderly, figured in the deaths of Donald and Virginia Douglas of Millbrae in 1960. Mrs. Douglas died in a fall from a cliff in Puerto Rico where she had gone with Sandoval to check on a fictitious inheritance. Douglas was later found dead in his car parked in Lucas Valley, an apparent suicide victim. He left a note in which he said he forged his wife's name to mortgage their home and gave the money to Sandoval.

Sandoval was convicted of lewd acts with the Douglas's two teen-age sons. He had a previous arrest in Marin County in 1957 for sex offenses involving a 15-year-old youth.

Judge Frank B. Blum, on the San Mateo County Superior Court bench in Redwood City, today asked the two psychiatrists to examine Sandoval and submit their reports in time for a hearing at 9:30 a.m. Jan. 3.

Bruce Asks Pay Hikes For 36 Employees

County Administrator Alan Bruce, in line with new supervisors' policy, today submitted administrative recommendation of midyear pay raises for 36 county employees at potential cost of $5,300.

He did this after considering departmental recommendations on behalf of 76 employees involving a total extra salary outlay of $14,976.

The board concluded that it should consider an attached bulky file case by case, a task which it hoped to start later in the day.

In response to a question, Asst. Personnel Director Robert D. Elliott said that when necessary, he had conferred directly with the employees recommended for boosts. His longest task was in the probation department, he said.

Bruce's letter pointed out that in many cases he recommended deferral until summer budget consideration, which meant that some cases had merit but could be postponed half a year.

"No Democrat or honorable Republican need feel sorry for Mr. Stuart," the statement went on. "He has admitted to me that during the past summer and fall he was on the payroll of 'Free Democrats' at $1,000 per month. The objective of the 'Free Democrats,' which is largely made up of a group of nominal Democrats defeated in this year's primary and which is financed by a public relations firm, was to run write-in campaigns against the nominees of our party, particularly Governor Brown."

The suit was filed by attorney Robert D. Carrow, unsuccessful candidate for Assembly.

A hearing, scheduled in San Rafael today on the revocation of a liquor license held by Katherine C. and Robert J. Bolger of Muir Beach Resort, was continued indefinitely by the State Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

The Bolgers are charged with holding a license that did not represent true ownership of the business. The continuance was ordered to give attorneys time to negotiate the matter, a spokesman for the state department said.

Lafayette Club's New Life Member

Louis Langlamet, 131 Laurel Place, San Rafael, a charter member of the Marin County Chapter of the Lafayette Club which was organized in 1930, was presented with a life membership Sunday.

Presentation of the life membership at the Christmas meeting of the club in San Rafael was not a one-way transaction. Langlamet had something to give to the club. It was a three-by-four-foot oil painting he had done of the Marquis de Lafayette.

Langlamet has been painting since he was 14 years old.

A native of France, he moved to Canada when he was 19. He settled in San Rafael in 1924.

Tam Trustees Want Balanced Financing

Tamalpais High School District trustees last night adopted by 4-1 vote a resolution calling on the legislature to develop a program of school financing "balanced" between the state and local taxpayers.

The dissent was by trustee William B. Lewis, who contended the board should not put itself on record in support of a scheme which might turn out to work a hardship on the Tam district.

The resolution endorses none of several bills being discussed by state associations of educators, which were described to the trustees by Robert A. Cassou, district business director. It says: "We urge the legislature to develop a financial measure which provides for a program of balanced financial support for education between the state and local taxpayers."

Robert J. Maher, coordinator of work experience, said he has lined up 100 persons in all walks of life in Marin in a speakers resources pool who are willing to address students on many subjects.

The program has been started at all three district high schools, Maher said.

Maher reported 75 teachers and administrative personnel had signed up to appear in "The Curious Savage," an all-district faculty play to give six performances beginning March 1. Admission proceeds will go to a teachers' education scholarship fund.

Drs. Grace Cox and Janet Lyons reported on psychological services for pupils.

Tamalpais District trustees also:

1. Accepted an offer of $650 from Gillig Brothers for two old school buses, last of a fleet of 1940 models, which Cassou said were costing more than their final sales price per year for maintenance.

2. Awarded a contract to Laboratory Equipment Co. of San Francisco for 52 microscopes on a low bid of $6,165.12.

3. Awarded six contracts to several firms for $4,231.62 for machine equipment for the industrial arts shop at Sir Francis Drake High School.

4. Filed notice of completion of the new counseling quarters at Redwood High School, to be occupied this week.

5. Approved scores of texts and supplemental textbooks being used in classes.

6. Acknowledged gifts by 11 donors of number of books to the three high school libraries and the faculty library at district headquarters.

7. Delayed calling for bids to strengthen banks along San Anselmo Creek through the Drake High campus pending completion of plans by engineer Harold Engle.

I don't know the exact kind of illness.

"I assume he had gone to a doctor and gotten his advice on it. I called the doctor who reported that he treated him. I don't recall the doctor's name.

"I asked him to return because I needed a man."

He added: "The only place Giampoli could have been while he was sick was at his business. That I can see. As far as I am concerned, he was ready to come back to work."

On Dec. 10, when asked by an Independent-Journal reporter why Giampoli had not been working, Chiesa replied that he was on sick leave for a bad foot and was "trying to make up his mind whether to have an operation performed on it."

Asked at that time if he knew whether Giampoli was taking advantage of his sick leave by campaigning for office or working at his business, Chiesa replied, "If I did know, I would have him back here quick."

For the past several months, Giampoli's police pay check has been going to the Internal Revenue Service to pay part of $2,866 in employee withholding taxes and social security payments which he has owed the government since last April.

When Giampoli announced he would seek Chiesa's job, the chief said he thought the lieutenant should resign from the department two months before the election as he had done prior to defeating veteran Chief Frank Kelly in the April, 1959, election.

Museum Gets Funds For Film

David N. Plant, president of the Louise A. Boyd Natural History Museum, was successful today in winning from the county $500 as half the cost of preparing a preliminary script for a proposed Marin flora and fauna film.

Remainder of the required $10,000 will be provided by the county board of education.

Supervisor William D. Fusselman continued his objection of last week, when absence of Supervisor William Gnoss blocked action since a four-fifths vote is required for fund transfer. Gnoss's acceptance of Plant's idea today passed the motion by the required 4-1 majority.

"I still think the schools should handle this entirely and anyway it should have been in the budget," said Fusselman.

Supervisor Peter Behr, who moved approval, said the film should prove of benefit not only to children "but to the county in general in terms of professional exposure of what we have to offer."

Behr also said this enterprise might "preserve grandeur which our children and grandchildren may never see in terms of what we have today."

Plant made clear that the major cost of the film itself probably will be met by a $10,000 National Defense Education Act grant.

Marin Girl, 14, Under Arrest For Shoplifting

A 14-year-old Mill Valley girl was arrested Saturday for Christmas shoplifting $75 worth of clothing, accessories and toys in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

He said she had taken about $75 worth of merchandise from Wards, J. C. Penney Co., Toy World, F. W. Woolworth Co., and W.T. Grant Co., after spending $30 her father had given her.

Lafayette Club's New Life Member

Louis Langlamet, 131 Laurel Place, San Rafael, a charter member of the Marin County Chapter of the Lafayette Club which was organized in 1930, was presented with a life membership Sunday.

Langlamet, a retired house painter and interior decorator, retired four years ago. He is 77. He served as secretary of the club for 30 years.

Presentation of the life membership at the Christmas meeting of the club in San Rafael was not a one-way transaction. Langlamet had something to give to the club. It was a three-by-four-foot oil painting he had done of the Marquis de Lafayette.

Langlamet has been painting since he was 14 years old.

A native of France, he moved to Canada when he was 19. He settled in San Rafael in 1924.

Short Lunch Hour Urged For School

Ross School District trustees last night heard a proposal that the school lunch hour be shortened to 40 or 45 minutes so children can spend more time in class.

The proposal was made by Supt. Donald Leister, who said it was concurred in by the faculty. Lengthening the school day by the few minutes "would give us a little more time for teaching," he said.

The Ross trustees reiterated their opposition to unification of all school districts within Tamalpais High School District, as proposed by the Marin County Committee on School District Organization. They also:

1. Reviewed the policy of charging $2.75 per hour for use of Ross School by organizations not connected with the school, but delayed action on any change.

2. Heard Mrs. Barbara Dillion, halftime librarian, report that the school library now has 2,414 books, and that circulation from the start of school to Dec. 1 totaled 5,303.

3. Received the annual audit from the firm of Dalton, Graupner and Barber of San Rafael.

4. Set voting hours as 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. and polling place as the Ross School for the April 16 trustee election, and asked that the county superintendent mail sample ballots. Terms of trustees George Hart and Dr. Chester B. Noyes expire.

5. Decided to ask one professor each from University of California, Stanford University and San Francisco State College to serve as a screening committee in seeking a replacement for Superintendent Leister, who has resigned effective at the end of this school year.

Why Not Take Out A Book?

If you want to borrow a book from the Marin County Library, tomorrow will be your last chance for the next couple of weeks.

County Librarian Virginia Keating announced today that the library will be closed from Thursday until Jan. 7 while some 50,000 books are moved to the Civic Center from the crowded first floor of the old Coleman School on Grand Avenue in San Rafael.

The county library's 15 branches and two bookmobiles will continue regular hours and service during the next two weeks, Mrs. Keating said.

"We're encouraging people to take out as many books as they like tomorrow," she said. "We will start boxing the books late tomorrow afternoon and will start moving to the Civic Center early Thursday.

As of yesterday the library had 108,244 books. About half of these were in the main library; the rest at branches or in circulation.

The county tax collector-treasurer office, the only department other than the library yet to move to the civic center, will be moved tomorrow, said John F. Hettrich, assistant purchasing agent who is directing the move.

Continuation Urged Of Tam Tax Rate

Continuation of the $1.90 operating tax rate of Tamalpais Union High School district was recommended strongly last night by Mill Valley School District trustees.

The measure is to come before voters April 16.

The Mill Valley trustees discussed possibility of joining other districts in Southern Marin to operate classes for the mentally retarded. No action was taken. Reed Union School District and Mill Valley now participate in a county-wide cooperative program for such education and a "south county plan," Supt. G. R. McConnell said, would have the advantage of reducing the amount of time children spend on buses. Sausalito School District conducts its own program.

The board decided to give either Dec. 24 or Dec. 31 off to employees who normally would work on both those days. The employee is to choose the holiday he prefers.

Mrs. H. James Compton of Kentfield reported on the Tamalpais unification study of the Central Marin League of Women Voters. The board decided to take no position on unification until a similar study is received from the Tamalpais High School District, McConnell said.

Bad Check Artist To Vacaville

An unemployed salesman from Southern California, who bought two cars in Marin with bad checks last October, will be sent to the state medical facility at Vacaville for psychiatric examination.

Judge Richard M. Sims Jr. yesterday ordered Gerald Douglas Farrand, alias "Capt. Wynn of the Air Force," to Vacaville for 90 days' observation. Farrand, 34, will then be brought back to Marin Superior Court for sentencing on a felony check conviction.

San Anselmo police arrested Farrand on Oct. 25. Farrand, posing as an Air Force officer, purchased one car from a San Anselmo man and another from a San Rafael auto agency. He paid for both with worthless checks.

Tam Valley Firemen Due Medic Plan

Tamalpais Valley Fire Protection District commissioners last night adopted a resolution approving a major medical plan for the district's six paid firemen.

The plan, to be carried by Hockett Insurance Agency of Mill Valley, will commence Jan. 1 and will cost the district $412 per year. It does not include firemen's families.

Commissioners hired James B. Gill of 371 Marin Avenue at $461 per month to work at Station 1, Tamalpais Valley. The hiring brings the district to full staff, as envisioned in the February, 1962, consolidation of Homestead and Tamalpais Valley departments.

The board made Leland Storrs a permanent fireman, following his six-month probation period, raising his pay from $461 to $483 per month.

A benefit, to have been held last night by volunteers, was postponed to 7 p.m. Dec. 24, according to Fire Chief Herbert Owen.

Lot Split, Grading Proposal Approved By Novato Planners

The request of Mrs. Katherine Palau of 679 Cherry Street to divide 18,850 square feet of land on Cherry and Chase streets into two lots was approved last night by the Novato Planning Commission.

The commission also approved a revised grading plan for Novato Hills Subdivision Unit 2.

All other items on the agenda were set for hearing Jan. 14. These include rezoning from multiple family to commercial of an area opposite Nave Shopping Center on South Novato Boulevard, requested by William and Irene Nave; rezoning from commercial to planned residential for 21 acres at the east end of Sunset Parkway requested by Sutter Development Co., and rezoning from agricultural to planned residential of nine acres between Adrienne Street and Oleander Lane west of Reservoir Drive, requested by Gus Ravetz.

The Declaration of Independence was actually adopted on July 2, not July 4, which was the day the document was proclaimed to the world.

Novato Parks Unit Going Slow On Offer Of Land

The Novato Parks and Recreation Advisory Commission will await further developments before making any recommendation as to accepting 24 acres for a city park from the Hanna interests.

Commissioner Gordon Tandy reported to the commission last night that several questions about the property remain unanswered.

The Hanna Foundation and Hanna Industrial Park Assn. offered the City of Novato the land between Highway 101 and the Northwestern Pacific Railroad for a 99-year lease at $1 per year.

Tandy said that acceptance of the offer should hinge on building an access road and plans for development of the rest of the property. He said the Hannas have hired a consultant to make a study of the development of the property.

The commission also received the first draft of a general recreation policy. This will be revised before being adopted by the commission to be sent to the city council for approval.

Reed Schcol Choir Debut Tomorrow

The debut performance of the Reed School choir under direction of Mrs. Yvonne Hickey will be tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. The choir will sing carols from many lands. The Reed School orchestra, under direction of Leland Lincoln, will play.

A 16-foot Christmas tree, purchased by the Reed Unit of the Parent-Teacher Club, has been decorated by the children and is on display in the auditorium.

As a Save the Children Federation project, the children collected 2,885 pounds of usable clothing to be sent to the Appalachian Mountain area and overseas.

Youth On Hope

David Miller, son of Dr. and Mrs. John S. Miller of 110 Summit Avenue, Mill Valley, is a volunteer medical aid on the American hospital ship, Hope, now in Peru on a medical mission. Dr. Miller was stationed aboard the Hope last spring. David Miller was graduated from Tamalpais High School last June.

Eighty per cent of the State's farm acreage is located in the 48 counties comprising Northern California.

Novato Parks Unit Going Slow On Offer Of Land

The Novato Parks and Recreation Advisory Commission will await further developments before making any recommendation as to accepting 24 acres for a city park from the Hanna interests.

Commissioner Gordon Tandy reported to the commission last night that several questions about the property remain unanswered.

The Hanna Foundation and Hanna Industrial Park Assn. offered the City of Novato the land between Highway 101 and the Northwestern Pacific Railroad for a 99-year lease at $1 per year.

Tandy said that acceptance of the offer should hinge on building an access road and plans for development of the rest of the property. He said the Hannas have hired a consultant to make a study of the development of the property.

The commission also received the first draft of a general recreation policy. This will be revised before being adopted by the commission to be sent to the city council for approval.

Reed Schcol Choir Debut Tomorrow

The debut performance of the Reed School choir under direction of Mrs. Yvonne Hickey will be tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. The choir will sing carols from many lands. The Reed School orchestra, under direction of Leland Lincoln, will play.

A 16-foot Christmas tree, purchased by the Reed Unit of the Parent-Teacher Club, has been decorated by the children and is on display in the auditorium.

As a Save the Children Federation project, the children collected 2,885 pounds of usable clothing to be sent to the Appalachian Mountain area and overseas.

Youth On Hope

David Miller, son of Dr. and Mrs. John S. Miller of 110 Summit Avenue, Mill Valley, is a volunteer medical aid on the American hospital ship, Hope, now in Peru on a medical mission. Dr. Miller was stationed aboard the Hope last spring. David Miller was graduated from Tamalpais High School last June.

Why Not Take Out A Book?

If you want to borrow a book from the Marin County Library, tomorrow will be your last chance for the next couple of weeks.

County Librarian Virginia Keating announced today that the library will be closed from Thursday until Jan. 7 while some 50,000 books are moved to the Civic Center from the crowded first floor of the old Coleman School on Grand Avenue in San Rafael.

The county library's 15 branches and two bookmobiles will continue regular hours and service during the next two weeks, Mrs. Keating said.

"We're encouraging people to take out as many books as they like tomorrow," she said. "We will start boxing the books late tomorrow afternoon and will start moving to the Civic Center early Thursday.

As of yesterday the library had 108,244 books. About half of these were in the main library; the rest at branches or in circulation.

The county tax collector-treasurer office, the only department other than the library yet to move to the civic center, will be moved tomorrow, said John F. Hettrich, assistant purchasing agent who is directing the move.

Eighty per cent of the State's farm acreage is located in the 48 counties comprising Northern California.

Continuation Urged Of Tam Tax Rate

Continuation of the $1.90 operating tax rate of Tamalpais Union High School district was recommended strongly last night by Mill Valley School District trustees.

The measure is to come before voters April 16.

The Mill Valley trustees discussed possibility of joining other districts in Southern Marin to operate classes for the mentally retarded. No action was taken. Reed Union School District and Mill Valley now participate in a county-wide cooperative program for such education and a "south county plan," Supt. G. R. McConnell said, would have the advantage of reducing the amount of time children spend on buses. Sausalito School District conducts its own program.

The board decided to give either Dec. 24 or Dec. 31 off to employees who normally would work on both those days. The employee is to choose the holiday he prefers.

Mrs. H. James Compton of Kentfield reported on the Tamalpais unification study of the Central Marin League of Women Voters. The board decided to take no position on unification until a similar study is received from the Tamalpais High School District, McConnell said.

Bad Check Artist To Vacaville

An unemployed salesman from Southern California, who bought two cars in Marin with bad checks last October, will be sent to the state medical facility at Vacaville for psychiatric examination.

Judge Richard M. Sims Jr. yesterday ordered Gerald Douglas Farrand, alias "Capt. Wynn of the Air Force," to Vacaville for 90 days' observation. Farrand, 34, will then be brought back to Marin Superior Court for sentencing on a felony check conviction.

San Anselmo police arrested Farrand on Oct. 25. Farrand, posing as an Air Force officer, purchased one car from a San Anselmo man and another from a San Rafael auto agency. He paid for both with worthless checks.

Tam Valley Firemen Due Medic Plan

Tamalpais Valley Fire Protection District commissioners last night adopted a resolution approving a major medical plan for the district's six paid firemen.

The plan, to be carried by Hockett Insurance Agency of Mill Valley, will commence Jan. 1 and will cost the district $412 per year. It does not include firemen's families.

Commissioners hired James B. Gill of 371 Marin Avenue at $461 per month to work at Station 1, Tamalpais Valley. The hiring brings the district to full staff, as envisioned in the February, 1962, consolidation of Homestead and Tamalpais Valley departments.

The board made Leland Storrs a permanent fireman, following his six-month probation period, raising his pay from $461 to $483 per month.

A benefit, to have been held last night by volunteers, was postponed to 7 p.m. Dec. 24, according to Fire Chief Herbert Owen.

Lot Split, Grading Proposal Approved By Novato Planners

The request of Mrs. Katherine Palau of 679 Cherry Street to divide 18,850 square feet of land on Cherry and Chase streets into two lots was approved last night by the Novato Planning Commission.

The commission also approved a revised grading plan for Novato Hills Subdivision Unit 2.

All other items on the agenda were set for hearing Jan. 14. These include rezoning from multiple family to commercial of an area opposite Nave Shopping Center on South Novato Boulevard, requested by William and Irene Nave; rezoning from commercial to planned residential for 21 acres at the east end of Sunset Parkway requested by Sutter Development Co., and rezoning from agricultural to planned residential of nine acres between Adrienne Street and Oleander Lane west of Reservoir Drive, requested by Gus Ravetz.

The Declaration of Independence was actually adopted on July 2, not July 4, which was the day the document was proclaimed to the world.

THOMAS MITCHELL

Actor Thomas Mitchell Dies Of Cancer At 70

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Thomas Mitchell, an actor's actor, honored by his colleagues with the highest awards of stage, screen and television, is dead of cancer at 70.

He died yesterday, the deadly disease's second victim in two days among the famous names of Hollywood. The other was Charles Laughton, 63, who died Saturday.

They appeared once together in a movie—"The Hunchback of Notre Dame" in 1939.

The bushy-browed Mitchell, who had the face of an Irish leprechaun and the soul of a devilish poet, was most famous for his role of Scarlett O'Hara's father in "Gone With the Wind."

That same year Mitchell also played the boozy frontier doctor in "Stagecoach," a picture many critics believe the finest Western ever made.

In the Academy Awards that year — 1939 — Mitchell was mainly in competition with himself. His performance in "Stagecoach" won him the Oscar for best supporting actor.

In 1952 he won television's Emmy for best dramatic performance and in 1953 he got the legitimate theater's Tony for his role in the Broadway musical "Hazel Flagg."

The public mostly knew Mitchell as an actor during his 50-year career in show business. He also was known as a quiet genius of theater in his early career. As a playwright he had several hit plays on Broadway and was much in demand as a play doctor.

He was also a successful director and producer on Broadway. He came to Hollywood in 1935 with a three-way contract as writer, director and actor.

Born in Elizabeth, N.J., Mitchell started as a newspaper reporter and drifted from the city room to the stage door. One of Mitchell's earliest Broadway appearances was with John Barrymore in the 1918 production of "Redemption."

Mitchell, a witty and brilliant conversationalist, had cancer for almost a year, but kept his spirits up. The night before Thanksgiving he appeared on Perry Como's television show. It was filmed last summer.

His survivors include his widow, Susan, and a daughter, Mrs. Anne Lang. James Mitchell, secretary ofl abor in President Dwight D. Eisenhower's Cabinet, was a nephew.

The wife and daughter were with Mitchell at the bedside of his Beverly Hills home when he died.

Funeral services will be private.

Four Bludgeoned To Death —'God Said They Were Bad'

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP)—Gabriel Richard Trifari, bloody-eyed from gashes he said he tore into his face, was held here today after a confession that he bludgeoned his father, mother, brother and sister to death.

"God told me to do it because they were bad," police quoted Trifari as saying.

Trifari, 26, was jailed without charges pending an examination by doctors.

The alleged confession late last night came after the four bodies were found bludgeoned with a crowbar at the Trifari chicken farm.

The victims were Maxim and Maria Trifari, the parents, both about 60; Maxim Jr., 28, and Olga, 36.

Trifari entered the Lakewood police station, about a mile and a half south of the farm, at 7 p.m.

Where could he find a priest? The short, dark-haired man wanted to know. He needed a priest to bless a bundle of eggs, to told police.

Police asked Trifari what happened to cause the deep wound around his eyes.

"God told me to tear my eyes out," he replied.

Policeman Frank Snyder drove him back to the farm. There Snyder saw Mrs. Trifari's body on the living room floor.

Snyder called the state police, who found Olga lying near her mother. A bloody crowbar lay between the two women.

In a toolshed about 100 feet behind the house was the body of the father. Maxim Jr., was discovered in a nearby chicken coop.

What did Trifari mean when he said he did it "because they were bad"?

Police said he answered: his parents were bad because they once argued with some people; his brother didn't always clean the eggs properly, and his sister had no job.

Trifari passed reporters gathered at the barracks. He paused and squinted at them.

"Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to you," he said.

Abolitionist John Brown, leader of the famous attack upon Harper's Ferry in 1859, was believed to have been a descendant of Peter Brown, who came over to America on the Mayflower.

GOVERNOR'S DREAM HOUSE IN TROUBLE

SACRAMENTO (AP) — This is the story of how much it will cost to build Pat and Bernice Brown's dream house.

It's a familiar tale, told by millions of saddened couples who have built dream houses of their own.

Pat is governor of California. Bernice is his pretty wife. They now live in an old house in a run-down section of Sacramento.

The state, more generous than most landlords, wants them to move into a new home. The Browns agree. Especially Pat, who says the traffic under his bedroom window keeps him awake at night.

A sympathetic legislature appropriated $475,000. Campbell and Wong, a San Francisco architectural firm, designed a lovely contemporary home. Everyone was pleased.

Bad news—that necessary ingredient for any new home—came yesterday. The Public Works Board was told there was a new cost estimate — $875,000.

That doesn't include money to buy an apartment house now on a corner of the mansion site.

Lew Clingan, chief of the state division of buildings and grounds, explained why. The original estimate was faulty, computed by figuring building costs at $27 a square foot. It actually costs $40 a square foot to build a luxury home.

And Mrs. Brown had made a few suggestions.

She thought the floor plan should be expanded so there would be room for a first family with a number of children.

The maid's quarters were moved out to the garage and auto storage space reduced. Bedrooms were enlarged. The governor's bedroom, for example, had been only nine by 14 feet.

The home will now be 2,000 feet bigger than originally planned.

Clingan said there was no way of estimating how much Mrs. Brown's suggestions added to the cost.

Arthur Collins, assistant finance director, said Mrs. Brown also had made a major money saving suggestion. At her urging, an inexpensive conventional elevator was substituted for a fancy lift with a circular cage.

"The thing to remember is we are still working on the cost," Collins said. "When we are able to get donated equipment, the cost may come down. Firms are anxious to have their products used in the mansion. Even the state gardener will be able to obtain trees and shrubs on a donated basis. There will be a sizable reduction in cost."

The Public Works Board approved preliminary plans but insisted the legislature review the request for an additional $400,000.

"It is the will of the people that a mansion shall be built for the governor," said Sen. Luther Gibson (D-Vallejo), a board member.

GOVERNOR'S DREAM HOUSE IN TROUBLE

SACRAMENTO (AP) — This is the story of how much it will cost to build Pat and Bernice Brown's dream house.

It's a familiar tale, told by millions of saddened couples who have built dream houses of their own.

Pat is governor of California. Bernice is his pretty wife. They now live in an old house in a run-down section of Sacramento.

The state, more generous than most landlords, wants them to move into a new home. The Browns agree. Especially Pat, who says the traffic under his bedroom window keeps him awake at night.

A sympathetic legislature appropriated $475,000. Campbell and Wong, a San Francisco architectural firm, designed a lovely contemporary home. Everyone was pleased.

Bad news—that necessary ingredient for any new home—came yesterday. The Public Works Board was told there was a new cost estimate — $875,000.

That doesn't include money to buy an apartment house now on a corner of the mansion site.

Lew Clingan, chief of the state division of buildings and grounds, explained why. The original estimate was faulty, computed by figuring building costs at $27 a square foot. It actually costs $40 a square foot to build a luxury home.

And Mrs. Brown had made a few suggestions.

She thought the floor plan should be expanded so there would be room for a first family with a number of children.

The maid's quarters were moved out to the garage and auto storage space reduced. Bedrooms were enlarged. The governor's bedroom, for example, had been only nine by 14 feet.

The home will now be 2,000 feet bigger than originally planned.

Clingan said there was no way of estimating how much Mrs. Brown's suggestions added to the cost.

Arthur Collins, assistant finance director, said Mrs. Brown also had made a major money saving suggestion. At her urging, an inexpensive conventional elevator was substituted for a fancy lift with a circular cage.

"The thing to remember is we are still working on the cost," Collins said. "When we are able to get donated equipment, the cost may come down. Firms are anxious to have their products used in the mansion. Even the state gardener will be able to obtain trees and shrubs on a donated basis. There will be a sizable reduction in cost."

CAPSULE OF ANGLO-AMERICAN TALKS

U. S. Presidents See A Lot Of Prime Ministers Of Britain

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Next to his own wife, it seems an American president sees more of the British Prime Minister than anyone else.

When President John F. Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan sit down together in Nassau tomorrow it will mark the 17th conference between the leaders of the United States and Britain in the last 10 years.

(Kennedy was to arrive this morning, and the possibility was that some meeting would be arranged today.)

The talk sites have ranged all over the Atlantic coastline from Key West, Fla., to New York, Bermuda and London. They have generally served to patch up cracks in the strong alliance between the United Kingdom and the U.S. and plan for the future.

While not as cheap as a phone call, the talks provide an informal opportunity for the two leaders to get to know one another as well as coordinate policy with an ntimacy no other means of communications can offer.

A brief capsule of the Anglo-American talks since 1952:

Jan. 6, 1952: Churchill-Truman at Washington. Discussed relations with Russia, the command structure of NATO, the Iranian oil crisis, German rearmament and atomic energy.

Jan. 6-8, 1953: Churchill-President-elect Eisenhower at New York. An "informal exploration of future British-American relations." Eisenhower not yet president so no formal statement issued but discussions covered Korean War, European defense and possible easing of trade barriers to help British economy.

Jan. 9, 1953: Churchill-Truman at Washington. A final meeting covering most of the matters brought up a year earlier.

June 25, 1954: Churchill-Eisenhower at Washington. Topics included French delay on ratifying European Defense Community, how to restore German sovereignty, a proposal for a Southeast Asia defensive alliance, and means to a fuller exchange of atomic information.

Jan. 31, 1956: Eden-Eisenhower at Washington. Rejection of Soviet offer of a 20-year nonaggression pact, British request for U.S. support in Israel-Egypt dispute and admission of China to the United Nations were topics on the agenda.

March 20, 1957: Eden-Eisenhower at Bermuda. An attempt to heal breach caused by Anglo-French invasion of Suez. U.S. agreed to let Britain have guided missiles. Both agreed to continue atomic testing. U.S. said it would cooperate closely but not join Baghdad Pact.

Oct. 24, 1957: Macmillan-Eisenhower at Washington. Talks followed Russia's Sputnik I. Two partners agreed to pool arms, atomic weapons and scientific knowledge.

June 9, 1958: Macmillan Eisenhower at Washington. Prime Minister on way home from visiting mother's Indiana birthplace. Discussions covered Russian proposal for summit talks, British desire for greater trade with Russia and low Western prestige in Middle East.

March 10, 1959: Macmillan-Eisenhower at Camp David, Md. and Washington. Two leaders agreed to summit conference with Khrushchev and to moderate West's insistence on reunification of Germany as the first objective in Europe.

Aug. 27, 1959: Macmillan-Eisenhower at London. Informal European trip covered upcoming summit conference, tactics in handling recent Soviet moves in Europe, disarmament. The President and Prime Minister later made joint TV appearance.

March 26, 1960: Macmillan-Eisenhower at Camp David. Prime Minister came to prevent split among allies over Russia's halting of nuclear testing.

March 26, 1961: Macmillan-Kennedy at Key West. Kennedy asked for meeting to get full agreement on steps toward intervention in Laos before talks were to begin a few days later at Southeast Treaty Organization conference.

Apriy 5-6, 1961: Macmillan-Kennedy at Washington. Talks covered West Berlin, Red China, U.N., and aid to underdeveloped nations. No formal communique released.

June 5, 1961: Macmillan-Kennedy at London. Announced "satisfaction" with Russia's support of plan to neutralize Laos. Agreed West Berlin must be kept strong.

Dec. 21, 1961: Macmillan-Kennedy at Bermuda. Discussed Berlin wall, preparations for nuclear testing, Indian-Goa crisis, future of U.N., West New Guinea and urgency of Congo negotiations between Prime Ministers Adoula and Tshombe.

April 28, 1962: Macmillan-Kennedy at Washington. Talked over European Common Market and its effect on Britain, disarmament, resumption by West of nuclear testing and said they were ready to meet at summit with Russia but doubted if condition were right at the moment.

Dec. 19, 1962: Macmillan-Kennedy at Nassau. Time will tell.

Hub School Board To Consider Vacancies

The San Anselmo School District board will consider recommending two persons to the city council for vacancies on the parks and recreation commission at today's 8 p.m. meeting in the faculty room of the Isabel Cook School.

The board will also designate polling places and precincts for the April 16 trustee election. The terms of trustees Mary Hedin and Doris Harnsberger expire.

Bret Harte District Keeps Alive

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Possibility of the Bret Harte Drainage Assessment District was kept alive last night in the face of protests that attorney Albert E. Bagshaw declared represented 90.5 per cent of the property involved.

San Rafael city councilmen made it clear the city will not attempt to force the $900,000-plus district on Bret Harte property owners in the form in which it was set up by engineer Daniel P. Coleman and attorney Edwin Ness. But they held out a hope of possible federal assistance to salvage the effort to end flooding in the low-lying area north of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks.

After two hours largely devoted to protests (a single hand was raised when Mayor John F. McInnis asked if anyone was present to favor the district), the council continued the hearing to March 4. Meanwhile, it specified, the city will pursue:

1. Possibility of federal aid of some sort.
2. Possibility of enlarging the assessment district area to include the Bret Harte hills.
3. "Any other change in the assessment method that may occur to the engineer or attorney in the light of tonight's hearing."

The city council chamber was packed to capacity, with many standing outside in the entrance hall, as the public hearing on the district opened. It was virtually empty two minutes after the hearing closed.

Many of the protestants said they favored the district but not at the price, claiming the assessments on their properties were too high.

Some urged that the Bret Harte improvements be built on a city-wide basis, which would necessitate a city bond election. They were told by Mayor McInnis that such an idea had been tried before and found unworkable.

Various objectors claimed their land is high and dry but their assessments are as great as for those with the lowest land. Engineer Coleman's answer to this was that their land is dry because someone else's land in the area is a pond —and if that owner fills his land, theirs will be flooded too.

At the outset, Councilman Fred E. Jensen warned the throng that "a few years ago, people were up in arms over a million dollars for a flood control plan for the entire city. Now it's a million dollars for one little section. Pretty soon it will be two million."

Engineer Coleman said there are areas within Bret Harte that are five to five and one-half feet below high tide. Only the railroad and freeway fills keep the whole area from flooding, he said. And as more building on the hills speeds storm runoff, the problem will get worse.

"We can anticipate," he said, "that if nothing is done, water that is now on front lawns will be in your houses."

Melvin Geister won applause from his fellow Bret Harte property owners when he proposed that if the city would first dike Mahon Creek, then the assessment district might be considered. But he was promptly told by the mayor that the reverse is the plan: the council has agreed to creek improvements to help Bret Harte and other sections if the assessment district goes in first.

The only voice raised for the district was that of builder L. E. Weisenburg Jr., who shouldered his way in from the entrance hall to say that he supported the district—but he thought it should repay $100,000 which was spent by the East San Rafael Assessment District to benefit Bret Harte.

Bagshaw, who deserted the city attorney's table to join the protestants on the opposite side of the rail, insisted the city should participate in the district because it must maintain Bret Harte streets "and not under under four feet of water."

The mayor had to pound the gavel for order when shouts of "no! no!" and "only three or four" greeted Councilman Jensen's reminder that "this proposal was not instituted by the council; it was instituted by property owners in that district."

County Counsel Warren McGuire, protesting in behalf of the San Rafael Elementary School District, was halted by the mayor when he attempted to involve engineer Coleman in a discussion of flooding problems outside the assessment district boundaries.

McInnis asked McGuire to take "my personal reminder to the school board that I attended their meetings when they discussed buying the land for Davidson School, and they said the school district would be willing to share in the cost of a drainage system when one was developed for that area."

Coleman contended that "of all the properties benefited by the district, the school district is the most benefited." He said the project would eliminate open ditches on Davidson School grounds which he called "terrible hazards."

Mayor McInnis closed the hearing with a brief lecture.

"I attended lunch today with a councilman from Palo Alto," he said. "He told me of a similar area down there in which six attempts to form a flood control district failed. The seventh attempt succeeded—after 1,000 homes were flooded with 22 inches of water on the floors.

"For heaven's sake, let's learn a lesson from other cities!"

Sympathy, No Backing For ADDL

The Anti-Digit Dialing League got only sympathy last night from the San Rafael City Council.

Hiram Johnson III of Belvedere, the league president, appeared at invitation of Councilman L. H. Baar to ask that the City of San Rafael join in a complaint to the California Public Utilities Commission against imposition of the all-number telephone dialing system.

Each of the five councilmen agreed with Johnson that the system is annoying, that Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. has failed to advance valid reasons for adopting it, and that they just don't like it. But when Baar moved that San Rafael become a party to the complaint, he failed to get a second.

Councilman David Menary Jr. said, "I don't like to see somebody just use the city's name."

Councilmen Charles W. Aby and Fred E. Jensen said they personally opposed all-number dialing but didn't feel the city should join an official protest.

Mayor John F. McInnis said he thought action of the council last winter, when it informed the telephone company it opposes the system, was sufficient.

"You would merely be joining in asking PT&T to prove before a public body its reason for doing this," said City Atty. Albert E. Bagshaw. But he didn't even get a dial tone.

The complaint, read by Johnson, said the all-number dialing "fetters the public to an ever-present inconvenience," that "it is to make us do the work of machines and calculators," and that it impairs communications.

Spotlight Hunters Get $50 Fines

Four men from Oakland, who used a spot light to hunt deer in Nicasio last September, were fined a total of $200 in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson ordered each man to pay $50 by next Jan. 4. They are Paul E. Hancock, 22; Marvin E. Giffin, 23; Hugh R. Bowling, 28; and Elmer D. Solomon, 30.

Marin sheriff's deputies arrested the four men hunting with a spotlight on the night of Sept. 3 near Nicasio.

Grader Reception Scheduled Tonight

A reception will be held tonight from 6 to 8 o'clock for William Grader, Democratic candidate for the congressional seat of the late Clem Miller, at his local campaign headquarters at 1024 Magnolia Avenue, Kentfield.

The affair is sponsored by the Ross Valley Democrats for Grader for Congress.

SURPLUS FUND SEEN AFTER CITY HALL

San Rafael should be able to build a new city hall by June 30, 1964, and still have $207,397 for other capital improvements, City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said in a report last night to the city council.

Anderson listed surplus city properties which he estimated could be sold for $528,500. The city's present cash surplus is $453,388. Cost of buying the proposed Fifth Avenue site and building and furnishing a new city hall was estimated at $1,204,000. This is $322,112 more than the surplus on hand plus the amount expected to be realized from land sales.

However, projecting expected revenues through the fiscal year 1963-64, and allowing for a 20 per cent increase in government cost, Andersen predicted the surplus by June 30, 1964, would be $529,509.

"The city council should be able to take $322,112 and still leave $207,397 for other needed capital improvements," he concluded.

The council accepted the report and discussed whether to accept an offer of Dr. Frank Howard to sell the portion of the Fifth Avenue site nearest to C Street for $171,500. This, however, is slightly above the city's appraisal. On advice of City Atty. Albert E. Bagshaw that the city can demand to see the seller's appraisal, the council instructed Andersen to ask for it, before committing the city on a purchase price.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

1. Passed to print an ordinance annexing to the city lands owned by P. H. Tarrant in the Terra Linda area.
2. Passed a resolution of intention to create the Ross Street Terrace Assessment District, for street improvements, and set public hearing for 8 p.m. Jan. 7.
3. Approved the final map of Toyon Estates.
4. Adopted an ordinance rezoning Bayo Vista Way for planned community development.
5. Instructed City Manager Andersen to inform the Terra Linda Community Services District that it is not city policy to build and maintain Greyhound bus stations. The district board had asked that San Rafael replace a bus shelter destroyed by storm.
6. Instructed Public Works Director Norris Rawles to inform the Terra Linda Community Services District that the council does not find the present traffic situation merits a traffic light at Freitas Parkway and Las Gallinas Avenue.
7. Accepted with gratitude Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shell's offer of a collection of water colors by Betty Guy, to be placed in the new city hall when it is built.
8. Approved payment of $76.43 for repairs to an automobile owned by William J. Ranney, which was rammed by a meter maid's electric cart.
9. Approved hiring of Alvin E. Engen as a regular fireman at $500 per month, beginning Jan. 1.
10. Turned down a request by the Marin Medical Group that the frontage road past the Marin Medical Center be renamed Commonwealth Drive.
11. Ruled that Dec. 31 will not be a city holiday in San Rafael, the city charter not requiring that the city follow the governor's lead in declaring holidays.
12. Authorized Rawles to offer Montecito Properties $94,500 for property needed for widening of Third Street past the high school, and directed City Attorney Bagshaw to file a condemnation suit on property at 2 West End Avenue, needed for extension of Third Street at the opposite end of town.

Bret Harte District Keeps Alive

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Possibility of the Bret Harte Drainage Assessment District was kept alive last night in the face of protests that attorney Albert E. Bagshaw declared represented 90.5 per cent of the property involved.

San Rafael city councilmen made it clear the city will not attempt to force the $900,000-plus district on Bret Harte property owners in the form in which it was set up by engineer Daniel P. Coleman and attorney Edwin Ness. But they held out a hope of possible federal assistance to salvage the effort to end flooding in the low-lying area north of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks.

After two hours largely devoted to protests (a single hand was raised when Mayor John F. McInnis asked if anyone was present to favor the district), the council continued the hearing to March 4. Meanwhile, it specified, the city will pursue:

1. Possibility of federal aid of some sort.

2. Possibility of enlarging the assessment district area to include the Bret Harte hills.

3. "Any other change in the assessment method that may occur to the engineer or attorney in the light of tonight's hearing."

The city council chamber was packed to capacity, with many standing outside in the entrance hall, as the public hearing on the district opened. It was virtually empty two minutes after the hearing closed.

Many of the protestants said they favored the district but not at the price, claiming the assessments on their properties were too high.

Some urged that the Bret Harte improvements be built on a city-wide basis, which would necessitate a city bond election. They were told by Mayor McInnis that such an idea had been tried before and found unworkable.

Various objectors claimed their land is high and dry but their assessments are as great as for those with the lowest land. Engineer Coleman's answer to this was that their land is dry because someone else's land in the area is a pond—and if that owner fills his land, theirs will be flooded too.

At the outset, Councilman Fred E. Jensen warned the throng that "a few years ago, people were up in arms over a million dollars for a flood control plan for the entire city. Now it's a million dollars for one little section. Pretty soon it will be two million."

Engineer Coleman said there are areas within Bret Harte that are five to five and one-half feet below high tide. Only the railroad and freeway fills keep the whole area from flooding, he said. And as more building on the hills speeds storm runoff, the problem will get worse.

"We can anticipate," he said, "that if nothing is done, water that is now on front lawns will be in your houses."

Melvin Geister won applause from his fellow Bret Harte property owners when he proposed that if the city would first dike Mahon Creek, then the assessment district might be considered. But he was promptly told by the mayor that the reverse is the plan: the council has agreed to creek improvements to help Bret Harte and other sections if the assessment district goes in first.

The only voice raised for the district was that of builder L. E. Weisenburg Jr., who shouldered his way in from the entrance hall to say that he supported the district—but he thought it should repay $100,000 which was spent by the East San Rafael Assessment District to benefit Bret Harte.

Bagshaw, who deserted the city attorney's table to join the protestants on the opposite side of the rail, insisted the city should participate in the district because it must maintain Bret Harte streets "and not under under four feet of water."

The mayor had to pound the gavel for order when shouts of "no! no!" and "only three or four" greeted Councilman Jensen's reminder that "this proposal was not instituted by the council; it was instituted by property owners in that district."

County Counsel Warren McGuire, protesting in behalf of the San Rafael Elementary School District, was halted by the mayor when he attempted to involve engineer Coleman in a discussion of flooding problems outside the assessment district boundaries.

McInnis asked McGuire to take "my personal reminder to the school board that I attended their meetings when they discussed buying the land for Davidson School, and they said the school district would be willing to share in the cost of a drainage system when one was developed for that area."

Coleman contended that "of all the properties benefited by the district, the school district is the most benefited." He said the project would eliminate open ditches on Davidson School grounds which he called "terrible hazards."

Mayor McInnis closed the hearing with a brief lecture.

"I attended lunch today with a councilman from Palo Alto," he said. "He told me of a similar area down there in which six attempts to form a flood control district failed. The seventh attempt succeeded—after 1,000 homes were flooded with 22 inches of water on the floors.

"For heaven's sake, let's learn a lesson from other cities!"

Spotlight Hunters Get $50 Fines

Four men from Oakland, who used a spot light to hunt deer in Nicasio last September, were fined a total of $200 in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson ordered each man to pay $50 by next Jan. 4. They are Paul E. Hancock, 22; Marvin E. Giffin, 23; Hugh R. Bowling, 28; and Elmer D. Solomon, 30.

Marin sheriff's deputies arrested the four men hunting with a spotlight on the night of Sept. 3 near Nicasio.

Grader Reception Scheduled Tonight

A reception will be held tonight from 6 to 8 o'clock for William Grader, Democratic candidate for the congressional seat of the late Clem Miller, at his local campaign headquarters at 1024 Magnolia Avenue, Kentfield.

The affair is sponsored by the Ross Valley Democrats for Grader for Congress.

Sympathy, No Backing For ADDL

The Anti-Digit Dialing League got only sympathy last night from the San Rafael City Council.

Hiram Johnson III of Belvedere, the league president, appeared at invitation of Councilman L. H. Baar to ask that the City of San Rafael join in a complaint to the California Public Utilities Commission against imposition of the all-number telephone dialing system.

Each of the five councilmen agreed with Johnson that the system is annoying, that Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. has failed to advance valid reasons for adopting it, and that they just don't like it. But when Baar moved that San Rafael become a party to the complaint, he failed to get a second.

Councilman David Menary Jr. said, "I don't like to see somebody just use the city's name."

Councilmen Charles W. Aby and Fred E. Jensen said they personally opposed all-number dialing but didn't feel the city should join an official protest.

Mayor John F. McInnis said he thought action of the council last winter, when it informed the telephone company it opposes the system, was sufficient.

"You would merely be joining in asking PT&T to prove before a public body its reason for doing this," said City Atty. Albert E. Bagshaw. But he didn't even get a dial tone.

The complaint, read by Johnson, said the all-number dialing "fetters the public to an ever-present inconvenience," that "it is to make us do the work of machines and calculators," and that it impairs communications.

SURPLUS FUND SEEN AFTER CITY HALL

San Rafael should be able to build a new city hall by June 30, 1964, and still have $207,397 for other capital improvements, City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said in a report last night to the city council.

Anderson listed surplus city properties which he estimated could be sold for $528,500. The city's present cash surplus is $453,388. Cost of buying the proposed Fifth Avenue site and building and furnishing a new city hall was estimated at $1,204,000. This is $322,112 more than the surplus on hand plus the amount expected to be realized from land sales.

However, projecting expected revenues through the fiscal year 1963-64, and allowing for a 20 per cent increase in government cost, Andersen predicted the surplus by June 30, 1964, would be $529,509.

"The city council should be able to take $322,112 and still leave $207,397 for other needed capital improvements," he concluded.

The council accepted the report and discussed whether to accept an offer of Dr. Frank Howard to sell the portion of the Fifth Avenue site nearest to C Street for $171,500. This, however, is slightly above the city's appraisal. On advice of City Atty. Albert E. Bagshaw that the city can demand to see the seller's appraisal, the council instructed Andersen to ask for it, before committing the city on a purchase price.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

1. Passed to print an ordinance annexing to the city lands owned by P. H. Tarrant in the Terra Linda area.

2. Passed a resolution of intention to create the Ross Street Terrace Assessment District, for street improvements, and set public hearing for 8 p.m. Jan. 7.

3. Approved the final map of Toyon Estates.

4. Adopted an ordinance rezoning Bayo Vista Way for planned community development.

5. Instructed City Manager Andersen to inform the Terra Linda Community Services District that it is not city policy to build and maintain Greyhound bus stations. The district board had asked that San Rafael replace a bus shelter destroyed by storm.

6. Instructed Public Works Director Norris Rawles to inform the Terra Linda Community Services District that the council does not find the present traffic situation merits a traffic light at Freitas Parkway and Las Gallinas Avenue.

7. Accepted with gratitude Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shell's offer of a collection of water colors by Betty Guy, to be placed in the new city hall when it is built.

8. Approved payment of $76.43 for repairs to an automobile owned by William J. Ranney, which was rammed by a meter maid's electric cart.

9. Approved hiring of Alvin E. Engen as a regular fireman at $500 per month, beginning Jan. 1.

10. Turned down a request by the Marin Medical Group that the frontage road past the Marin Medical Center be renamed Commonwealth Drive.

11. Ruled that Dec. 31 will not be a city holiday in San Rafael, the city charter not requiring that the city follow the governor's lead in declaring holidays.

12. Authorized Rawles to offer Montecito Properties $94,500 for property needed for widening of Third Street past the high school, and directed City Attorney Bagshaw to file a condemnation suit on property at 2 West End Avenue, needed for extension of Third Street at the opposite end of town.

CAPSULE OF ANGLO-AMERICAN TALKS

U. S. Presidents See A Lot Of Prime Ministers Of Britain

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Next to his own wife, it seems an American president sees more of the British Prime Minister than anyone else.

When President John F. Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan sit down together in Nassau tomorrow it will mark the 17th conference between the leaders of the United States and Britain in the last 10 years.

(Kennedy was to arrive this morning, and the possibility was that some meeting would be arranged today.)

The talk sites have ranged all over the Atlantic coastline from Key West, Fla., to New York, Bermuda and London. They have generally served to patch up cracks in the strong alliance between the United Kingdom and the U.S. and plan for the future.

While not as cheap as a phone call, the talks provide an informal opportunity for the two leaders to get to know one another as well as coordinate policy with an ntimacy no other means of communications can offer.

A brief capsule of the Anglo-American talks since 1952:

Jan. 6, 1952: Churchill-Truman at Washington. Discussed relations with Russia, the command structure of NATO, the Iranian oil crisis, German rearmament and atomic energy.

Jan. 6-8, 1953: Churchill-President-elect Eisenhower at New York. An "informal exploration of future British-American relations." Eisenhower not yet president so no formal statement issued but discussions covered Korean War, European defense and possible easing of trade barriers to help British economy.

Jan. 9, 1953: Churchill-Truman at Washington. A final meeting covering most of the matters brought up a year earlier.

June 25, 1954: Churchill-Eisenhower at Washington. Topics included French delay on ratifying European Defense Community, how to restore German sovereignty, a proposal for a Southeast Asia defensive alliance, and means to a fuller exchange of atomic information.

Jan. 31, 1956: Eden-Eisenhower at Washington. Rejection of Soviet offer of a 20-year nonaggression pact, British request for U.S. support in Israel-Egypt dispute and admission of China to the United Nations were topics on the agenda.

March 20, 1957: Eden-Eisenhower at Bermuda. An attempt to heal breach caused by Anglo-French invasion of Suez. U.S. agreed to let Britain have guided missiles. Both agreed to continue atomic testing. U.S. said it would cooperate closely but not join Baghdad Pact.

Oct. 24, 1957: Macmillan-Eisenhower at Washington. Talks followed Russia's Sputnik I. Two partners agreed to pool arms, atomic weapons and scientific knowledge.

June 9, 1958: Macmillan Eisenhower at Washington. Prime Minister on way home from visiting mother's Indiana birthplace. Discussions covered Russian proposal for summit talks, British desire for greater trade with Russia and low Western prestige in Middle East.

March 10, 1959: Macmillan-Eisenhower at Camp David, Md. and Washington. Two leaders agreed to summit conference with Khrushchev and to moderate West's insistence on reunification of Germany as the first objective in Europe.

Aug. 27, 1959: Macmillan-Eisenhower at London. Informal European trip covered upcoming summit conference, tactics in handling recent Soviet moves in Europe, disarmament. The President and Prime Minister later made joint TV appearance.

March 26, 1960: Macmillan-Eisenhower at Camp David. Prime Minister came to prevent split among allies over Russia's halting of nuclear testing.

Apriy 5-6, 1961: Macmillan-Kennedy at Washington. Talks covered West Berlin, Red China, U.N., and aid to underdeveloped nations. No formal communique released.

June 5, 1961: Macmillan-Kennedy at London. Announced "satisfaction" with Russia's support of plan to neutralize Laos. Agreed West Berlin must be kept strong.

Dec. 21, 1961: Macmillan-Kennedy at Bermuda. Discussed Berlin wall, preparations for nuclear testing, Indian-Goa crisis, future of U.N., West New Guinea and urgency of Congo negotiations between Prime Ministers Adoula and Tshombe.

April 28, 1962: Macmillan-Kennedy at Washington. Talked over European Common Market and its effect on Britain, disarmament, resumption by West of nuclear testing and said they were ready to meet at summit with Russia but doubted if condition were right at the moment.

CANDLES FOR CHRISTMAS—Paul Chang, Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary student, works in San Rafael candle factory at the job which finances his studies for a degree in divinity. Seminary Student Prepares For Christmas As He Did In China

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Paul Chang is preparing for Christmas at the Golden Gate Baptist Seminary similarly to the way he once prepared for the holiday in his native China.

In Shantung Province, now in Red China, the 29-year-old student celebrated on Dec. 24 and 25, he said. "It was mostly in the church, not in the home. We caroled and exchanged gifts," Chang added.

Chang, studying for his mister's degree in church music on the Strawberry Point campus, was studying from a Chinese hymn book when we met him in his room at Truett Hall. With him was his roommate, Paul Lothenore, of Jackson, Miss.

The Chinese student said he was to sing in chapel that morning, in Chinese.

He was also preparing, he said, to direct Bach's "Everlasting Joy" at the Evangelical Free Church in Oakland, where he is choir director.

Chang said he will spend much of his time at church and with families of the church at their homes. He is the only Chinese in the church, he said.

In addition to a full course of studies and his church activities, Chang works five hours a day, five days a week at the Colonial Wax Products Corp. in San Rafael.

"I pour and drain wax from the large pots," he said, "and clean wax drippings from the floor." He is learning something of the business, which also makes Christmas candles, he said. It is his first time in candle making business but he has always worked while in the United States, having been both a janitor and a bus boy in Seattle.

Chang, who now carries a passport from Nationalist China, left China in 1949 when the Reds were taking over, on the urging of his father. He went to Hong Kong where he studied and, in 1959, came to Seattle's Pacific College, a Methodist school, from which he received his bachelor's degree in religion and music.

Shantung, well known for its silk, is close to Korea. Chang's mother and four brothers still live in Shantung. His father, now dead, was a minister.

On completion of two years at the seminary, Chang plans to return to Formosa or Hong Kong. "I don't think I would be able to preach the gospel if I went back to Shantung," he said.

He explained that his family is well but "they need food and clothing. I get letters from them," he said.

"Communists never trust each other," Chang said when asked about the political relationship between Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung and Russia's Nikita Khrushchev. "After World War II, for example," Chang said, "Russia took equipment from Manchuria and promised to give it back but they never did.

"Mao is about 15 years ahead of Russia with communes," said Chang.

COUNCILMAN NAMED FOR CORTE MADERA

Robert La Dow, McGraw-Hill Book Co. executive, was unanimously appointed to the Corte Madera Town Council last night, replacing Raymond L. De Young, resigned.

La Dow was immediately sworn into office by town clerk Naydeen Tuttle and invited to take his seat at the council table.

Soon afterward he was named to the Marin Mosquito Abatement District board.

La Dow has served on the Corte Madera Planning Commission for three years.

U. S. Aide To Probe Escape On Alcatraz

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons personally is investigating the latest escape try from Alcatraz but says he'll have no comment on it until he has finished talking with the island prison's officials.

"But I can say I have great confidence in the warden and his staff," James V. Bennett declared as he flew into San Francisco from Washington yesterday.

Bennett hurried West within 24 hours after two convicts broke out of the maximum security institution Sunday night. One, Darl Dee Parker, 31, was picked off a cluster of rocks 100 yards from Alcatraz itself. The other, John Paul Scott, 35, made it all the way to shore, the first "rock" escaper known to reach the mainland.

All other would-be escapers were either shot, re-captured on the island, pulled from the water or, in the case of five, presumed drowned.

Three of the latter, John and Clarence Anglin and Frank Morris, like Parker and Scott bank robbers, broke out last June 12 in a spectacular escape that gave them a 10-hour head start before prison authorities knew they were gone. They haven't been seen or heard from since.

Scott, serving a 30-year sentence, and Parker, in for 50, made their way to the water through a basement kitchen window and over a barbed wire topped fence.

Warden Olin Blackwell said the pair had cut out sections of the window's bar by wetting strong string, applying kitchen scouring powder, and sawing away. "It may have taken months," Blackwell said.

After the June escape Bennett declared Alcatraz, its iron and concrete ground down by the salt sea and air, would be phased out in 1963. Yesterday he said the escape by Scott and Parker would not hurry the phasing out.

Post Office Denied In Stormy Session

By FRED WYATT

No love letters filled the air as the Corte Madera Town Council last nght rejected owner Frank Rusalem's proposed location for a post office in the southeast corner of the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

The vote created a storm as San Francisco builders Carlos and Caesar Arredondo, retained by Rusalem, berated Mayor Edward W. Colthurst, the council and Town Atty. Sherrod S. Davis until Davis observed:

Mr. Mayor, the council is not on trial tonight. Nor am I."

The repercussions didn't end there. Planning commissioner Harold B. Wagstaff took the floor, gave a 10-minute defense of the proposed location, and said the council should suggest a site.

The fireworks came after the council split 2-2 on a motion by Councilman Albert E. Kogler to reverse the planning commission vote of 3-2 last week against the location. Councilman Charles F. Pendleton seconded the motion.

Mayor Colthurst and Councilman Norman R. Barnett voted "no." New Councilman Robert I. La Dow, who had just taken his oath of office, disqualified himself from voting because as planning commissioner he had moved rejection of the location.

The vote followed one hour and 15 minutes of debate by the council; architect Lowell Gilmore; B. A. Sill, Crocker-Anglo Bank branch manager, who said center merchants unanimously favored the location, and the Arredondo brothers.

Davis said that as result of the tie vote, "the planning commission decision stands."

Here Caesar Arrendondo took the floor and said:

"I have a feeling this is a matter of personality. Mr. Rusalem is not very well liked . . . we signed a contract in good faith . . . what the devil do we do?"

Caesar Arredondo repeatedly asked Colthurst where the postoffice should be built. Colthurst each time replied a new location should be submitted.

Carlos Arredondo interrogated Colthurst as to whether he was an architect or traffic expert, after Colthurst and Barnett said their objection was based on the location's possible effect on traffic circulation.

Davis interjected that the town does not decide locations, whereupon Caesar Arredondo questioned Davis on points of zoning law.

Caesar Arredondo said five locations had been suggested in the past six months. Town officials have said three locations have been suggested by Rusalem, who was not present. He has been awarded a federal contract for the $95,000 structure.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

1. Continued to Jan. 7 investigation of allegedly illegal use of a building and site on Holtzinger Brothers property east of Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks as a trash dump, and rejected the firm's fill and grade plans.

2. Changed police clerk Anne Donovan from part-time duty to full-time, effective today, at $378 a month.

3. Recommended Councilman Barnett to the county supervisors for the Marin County Flood Control Commission, to succeed Town Mgr. A. H. Brandow.

Marin Building Boom Was Late Blooming

The unseasonably long autumn not only kept flowers blooming late, it also extended the vigor of Marin County's building boom, according to a report prepared by the Marin County Development Assn.

The total valuation of building permits issued during November was $7,868,525. This is 50.6 per cent above the total in November, 1961.

It brings the 11-month total for 1962 to $66,353,204, or 6.6 per cent over the same period last year.

San Rafael led all other areas during the month with $1,849,739 in permits. The Marinwood-Lucas Valley area was next with $1,361,400 and San Anselmo third with $923,843.

The association noted the following aspects of the November building totals.

1. A total 338 permits for dwelling units, unusually high for November.

2. A low proportion of apartment units—116 or 34.3 per cent of last November's total.

3. A surge in commercial construction which has lagged for nearly a year. A total $1,629,469 in commercial construction was authorized during November, bringing the total for the year almost up to the 1961 level.

Catholic High To Be Expanded

An expansion program that would increase the capacity of Marin Catholic High School in Kentfield from 700 to 1,300 students was announced today by Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken.

The expansion is part of an archdiocesan building fund drive which will include raising funds for a new cathedral to replace St. Mary's Cathedral, destroyed by fire Sept. 7.

Archbishop McGucken also said he would soon announce plans for acquisition of sites for new high schools in Marin County.

The archbishop first told of the Marin County building plans at a weekend meeting of more than 100 Catholic lay leaders in Marin County.

Airmen To Decorate Sunny Hills Tree

Four airmen from the 666th Radar Squadron atop Mount Tamalpais will decorate the Christmas tree at Sunny Hills in San Anselmo starting at 10 a.m. tomorrow. It is the second year the Mill Valley air base has sent men to decorate, according to Lt. John A. Langston, information officer.

The men are A/1c Tony Valenzuela, A/1c Frank Vaughn, A/2c Kenneth J. Davidson, and A/2c Victor C. Vaziri.

Ordinance Passed On Safety Glass

An ordinance requiring safety glass in all sliding glass doors in new houses, apartments and commercial buildings slid through the Corte Madera Town Council last night by 5-0 vote.

The ordinance requires that glass be laminated, wire-reinforced or tempered in sliding portions. Non-moving glass adjacent to doors must have muntins or bars as a safety factor.

The ordinance will take effect Jan. 18, said the council.

Fairfax To Consider Health Insurance Plan

The Fairfax City Council will consider a health insurance plan for city employees and a proposed animal control ordinance when it meets at 8 p.m. today.

Other items on the agenda include an appeal on a denial from the zoning adjustment board on a parking hardship permit for Inga Cohelan of 186 Hillside Drive and a communication from the owners of Deer Park Villa, Mr. and Mrs. Ghiringhelli, stating that a hole in the public right-of-way on Bolinas Avenue is a public nuisance.

Four Believed Buried In Huge Rocket Shaft

TULLAHOMA, Tenn. (UPI) — Rescue workers began removing debris from a 250-foot-deep rocket testing chamber today in an effort to locate four men believed buried when a huge mass of wet concrete and steel collapsed.

"There is no sign of life at the bottom of the shaft," an Air Force spokesman said, "and four men are still unaccounted for."

The Air Force said the concrete, which was being poured when the form collapsed with a deep rumble, was hardening and "we'll probably have to chip it out now." Earlier workers had dumped quantities of sugar into the concrete in an effort to slow the hardening process.

Rescue operations, at first on an emergency basis, became more deliberate as the hours passed during the night with no success. It became increasingly obvious that the missing men were not alive and the possibility of fresh collapses was taken into account.

The disaster occurred late yesterday afternoon when concrete for the top section of the testing chamber was being poured.

Concrete was being poured from a big "bucket" on a crane when "it just collapsed," a spokesman said.

"Two men managed to save themselves by grabbing onto the bucket," a public information officer said. "We don't know how many men were on the scaffolding when it went down."

Rescue operations continued during the night.

Shantung, well known for its silk, is close to Korea. Chang's mother and four brothers still live in Shantung. His father, now dead, was a minister.

On completion of two years at the seminary, Chang plans to return to Formosa or Hong Kong. "I don't think I would be able to preach the gospel if I went back to Shantung," he said.

He explained that his family is well but "they need food and clothing. I get letters from them," he said.

"Communists never trust each other," Chang said when asked about the political relationship between Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung and Russia's Nikita Khrushchev. "After World War II, for example," Chang said, "Russia took equipment from Manchuria and promised to give it back but they never did.

"Mao is about 15 years ahead of Russia with communes," said Chang.

COUNCILMAN NAMED FOR CORTE MADERA

Robert La Dow, McGraw-Hill Book Co. executive, was unanimously appointed to the Corte Madera Town Council last night, replacing Raymond L. De Young, resigned.

La Dow was immediately sworn into office by town clerk Naydeen Tuttle and invited to take his seat at the council table.

Soon afterward he was named to the Marin Mosquito Abatement District board.

La Dow has served on the Corte Madera Planning Commission for three years.

U. S. Aide To Probe Escape On Alcatraz

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons personally is investigating the latest escape try from Alcatraz but says he'll have no comment on it until he has finished talking with the island prison's officials.

"But I can say I have great confidence in the warden and his staff," James V. Bennett declared as he flew into San Francisco from Washington yesterday.

Bennett hurried West within 24 hours after two convicts broke out of the maximum security institution Sunday night. One, Darl Dee Parker, 31, was picked off a cluster of rocks 100 yards from Alcatraz itself. The other, John Paul Scott, 35, made it all the way to shore, the first "rock" escaper known to reach the mainland.

All other would-be escapers were either shot, re-captured on the island, pulled from the water or, in the case of five, presumed drowned.

Three of the latter, John and Clarence Anglin and Frank Morris, like Parker and Scott bank robbers, broke out last June 12 in a spectacular escape that gave them a 10-hour head start before prison authorities knew they were gone. They haven't been seen or heard from since.

Scott, serving a 30-year sentence, and Parker, in for 50, made their way to the water through a basement kitchen window and over a barbed wire topped fence.

Warden Olin Blackwell said the pair had cut out sections of the window's bar by wetting strong string, applying kitchen scouring powder, and sawing away. "It may have taken months," Blackwell said.

After the June escape Bennett declared Alcatraz, its iron and concrete ground down by the salt sea and air, would be phased out in 1963. Yesterday he said the escape by Scott and Parker would not hurry the phasing out.

Post Office Denied In Stormy Session

By FRED WYATT

No love letters filled the air as the Corte Madera Town Council last nght rejected owner Frank Rusalem's proposed location for a post office in the southeast corner of the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

The vote created a storm as San Francisco builders Carlos and Caesar Arredondo, retained by Rusalem, berated Mayor Edward W. Colthurst, the council and Town Atty. Sherrod S. Davis until Davis observed:

Mr. Mayor, the council is not on trial tonight. Nor am I."

The repercussions didn't end there. Planning commissioner Harold B. Wagstaff took the floor, gave a 10-minute defense of the proposed location, and said the council should suggest a site.

The fireworks came after the council split 2-2 on a motion by Councilman Albert E. Kogler to reverse the planning commission vote of 3-2 last week against the location. Councilman Charles F. Pendleton seconded the motion.

Mayor Colthurst and Councilman Norman R. Barnett voted "no." New Councilman Robert I. La Dow, who had just taken his oath of office, disqualified himself from voting because as planning commissioner he had moved rejection of the location.

The vote followed one hour and 15 minutes of debate by the council; architect Lowell Gilmore; B. A. Sill, Crocker-Anglo Bank branch manager, who said center merchants unanimously favored the location, and the Arredondo brothers.

Davis said that as result of the tie vote, "the planning commission decision stands."

Here Caesar Arrendondo took the floor and said:

"I have a feeling this is a matter of personality. Mr. Rusalem is not very well liked . . . we signed a contract in good faith . . . what the devil do we do?"

Caesar Arredondo repeatedly asked Colthurst where the postoffice should be built. Colthurst each time replied a new location should be submitted.

Carlos Arredondo interrogated Colthurst as to whether he was an architect or traffic expert, after Colthurst and Barnett said their objection was based on the location's possible effect on traffic circulation.

Davis interjected that the town does not decide locations, whereupon Caesar Arredondo questioned Davis on points of zoning law.

Caesar Arredondo said five locations had been suggested in the past six months. Town officials have said three locations have been suggested by Rusalem, who was not present. He has been awarded a federal contract for the $95,000 structure.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

1. Continued to Jan. 7 investigation of allegedly illegal use of a building and site on Holtzinger Brothers property east of Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks as a trash dump, and rejected the firm's fill and grade plans.

2. Changed police clerk Anne Donovan from part-time duty to full-time, effective today, at $378 a month.

3. Recommended Councilman Barnett to the county supervisors for the Marin County Flood Control Commission, to succeed Town Mgr. A. H. Brandow.

Marin Building Boom Was Late Blooming

The unseasonably long autumn not only kept flowers blooming late, it also extended the vigor of Marin County's building boom, according to a report prepared by the Marin County Development Assn.

The total valuation of building permits issued during November was $7,868,525. This is 50.6 per cent above the total in November, 1961.

It brings the 11-month total for 1962 to $66,353,204, or 6.6 per cent over the same period last year.

San Rafael led all other areas during the month with $1,849,739 in permits. The Marinwood-Lucas Valley area was next with $1,361,400 and San Anselmo third with $923,843.

The association noted the following aspects of the November building totals.

1. A total 338 permits for dwelling units, unusually high for November.

2. A low proportion of apartment units—116 or 34.3 per cent of last November's total.

3. A surge in commercial construction which has lagged for nearly a year. A total $1,629,469 in commercial construction was authorized during November, bringing the total for the year almost up to the 1961 level.

Catholic High To Be Expanded

An expansion program that would increase the capacity of Marin Catholic High School in Kentfield from 700 to 1,300 students was announced today by Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken.

The expansion is part of an archdiocesan building fund drive which will include raising funds for a new cathedral to replace St. Mary's Cathedral, destroyed by fire Sept. 7.

Archbishop McGucken also said he would soon announce plans for acquisition of sites for new high schools in Marin County.

The archbishop first told of the Marin County building plans at a weekend meeting of more than 100 Catholic lay leaders in Marin County.

Four Believed Buried In Huge Rocket Shaft

TULLAHOMA, Tenn. (UPI) — Rescue workers began removing debris from a 250-foot-deep rocket testing chamber today in an effort to locate four men believed buried when a huge mass of wet concrete and steel collapsed.

"There is no sign of life at the bottom of the shaft," an Air Force spokesman said, "and four men are still unaccounted for."

The Air Force said the concrete, which was being poured when the form collapsed with a deep rumble, was hardening and "we'll probably have to chip it out now." Earlier workers had dumped quantities of sugar into the concrete in an effort to slow the hardening process.

Rescue operations, at first on an emergency basis, became more deliberate as the hours passed during the night with no success. It became increasingly obvious that the missing men were not alive and the possibility of fresh collapses was taken into account.

The disaster occurred late yesterday afternoon when concrete for the top section of the testing chamber was being poured.

Concrete was being poured from a big "bucket" on a crane when "it just collapsed," a spokesman said.

"Two men managed to save themselves by grabbing onto the bucket," a public information officer said. "We don't know how many men were on the scaffolding when it went down."

Rescue operations continued during the night.

Fairfax To Consider Health Insurance Plan

The Fairfax City Council will consider a health insurance plan for city employees and a proposed animal control ordinance when it meets at 8 p.m. today.

Other items on the agenda include an appeal on a denial from the zoning adjustment board on a parking hardship permit for Inga Cohelan of 186 Hillside Drive and a communication from the owners of Deer Park Villa, Mr. and Mrs. Ghiringhelli, stating that a hole in the public right-of-way on Bolinas Avenue is a public nuisance.

Ordinance Passed On Safety Glass

An ordinance requiring safety glass in all sliding glass doors in new houses, apartments and commercial buildings slid through the Corte Madera Town Council last night by 5-0 vote.

The ordinance requires that glass be laminated, wire-reinforced or tempered in sliding portions. Non-moving glass adjacent to doors must have muntins or bars as a safety factor.

The ordinance will take effect Jan. 18, said the council.

Now Is No Time To Give Up Gate Span Without Thought

It is popular at the moment to deride, ridicule and upbraid the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District. There are charges and counter charges. There are investigations, which we believe to be proper, and suggestions, many of which we feel are poorly thought through.

To begin with, perhaps we should go back to the beginning and review why we have a bridge district. The counties of the North Coast and San Francisco felt the need for such a bridge. The rest of the state couldn't have been less interested, in some cases, they just laughed.

But residents of San Francisco, Marin, Sonoma, Del Norte and parts of Mendocino and Napa Counties put their homes and their properties in hock for $35,000,000 (this was during the depression) and built the bridge anyway. There is no state money in the bridge and no state financial responsibility. If, at a time before great reserves and insurance benefits were built up, the bridge had fallen or been destroyed during World War II, the taxpayers of the district would have had to pay off those bonds, not the state.

Unlike other bridges across the bay, no state funds go for painting, administration, repairs or other maintenance of the Gate span. Gas taxes, some of them coming from Marin residents, pay operation and maintenance costs on all the other bridges; not so the Golden Gate.

Even so, the average toll on the Gate bridge is the lowest of any bridge across the Bay. The cummute toll is 13 cents per trip as compared with 20 cents on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, this is more than 50 per cent higher.

So why is the state now so interested in taking over the Golden Gate Bridge now?

The answer is money. The Gate bridge has amassed about $20 million in reserve funds. If the bridge were to fall today, there would be enough money on hand to pay off the uncallable bonds which won't become due until 1971.

Besides this $20 million in immediate cash, the Golden Gate Bridge is making something in the neighborhood of two million dollars per year in net profit. (It sounds more like the Golden Goose than the Golden Gate.) And state officials are loath to allow such profits to continue out of their control.

What would they want the money for? To build new bridges.

Now it is quite evident that we need a new bridge to San Francisco. Even before it can be built, the traffic problem on the Golden Gate Bridge will be triple compounded.

But Marin County has a record of independence in their bridge construction. We got together with the other counties of the district to build the Golden Gate Bridge. We got together with Contra Costa and maneuvered the state into building the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge without a cent of cost to the taxpayers—and without stealing tolls from either the Golden Gate Bridge or the San Francisco-Oakland Bridge to build it.

A similar situation exists in the South Bay. There has been an outcry for years, even before the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge was built, for a second crossing or a parallel bay bridge or a tube or some such. We don't deny the need for it; its need was probably greater than the need for the San Rafael-Richmond span.

Why did we get our bridge and they not get their's? Probably because we were willing to pay our own way.

We didn't ask or get tolls from another bridge to help pay the costs. We agreed to pay higher tolls for a while to get our bridge now and to keep it free of tax funds. (Incidentally, the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge has been in the black for some time. Perhaps it's time to start thinking about a toll reduction.)

Now that it's time to build a second crossing between Marin and San Francisco, we should give close attention to who builds it. Do we want the state to build it and make the decisions as to where it goes and what it looks like? Or would it be better if our own bridge district did the work and kept the decisions and profits closer to home rather than in Sacramento?

If the state can do such an efficient job and there has been so much mismanagement and extravagance on the Gate bridge, why are the Gate bridge tolls lower than the state bridges? Maybe we should investigate state operations!

This brings up the current Gate bridge investigations. We hope investigation of operations and individuals involved doesn't cloud the real issue we're discussing. We don't want to throw out the baby with the dirty bath water. The baby may well be strong and healthy; getting rid of the bath water may make him pure, too.

Can the bridge district work into an area-wide transportation plan? We see no reason it can't. We think that strong, voluntary cooperation through, for example, such an organization as the Association of Bay Area Governments, may work as well or better than some super-governmental agency plunked down over the top of existing governments?

What we need to do is to give serious thought to the problem of our bridges and make our decisions on the basis of fact, not emotions of the moment.

And let's get started on it.

Seven Days Until Christmas

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

'Tis the week before Christmas and oh, what a sight—
Sooooo much to be done to prepare for THAT night
The windows to clean, the floors to make shine—
The clothes to be ironed—(on what will we dine?)
The cupboards are bare, much marketing to be done
I must make a list (are holidays really fun?!)
The children aren't sleeping all snug in their beds
April Francesca wants her bottle and Michael just bumped his head
Dennis has stereo blasting forth bop
I'm trying to refrain from yelling "that noise has to stop!"
When Santa gets to our house —a surprise will be in store
He'll find much confusion and tiny hand prints on the door
A broken toy under the table — a little sock lost near the chair
. . . But these are the things that to us are so dear.
Our Christmas will be noisy, with toys and tots' happy chatter
Without the confusion, we'd wonder what was the matter.
Whatever YOUR plans are for the holiday—
May your day be jolly and much happiness come your way!

DeGaulle Is Changing France So Radically He May Change World

PARIS—So far as one can judge, the pallid drama of the NATO rally can be summed up in one sentence. The Europeans are not going to provide the adidtional ground forces that are so clearly needed, and the Americans are not going to make the bold attack on the problem of nuclear control which is increasingly urgent.

But in default of current drama, there happens to be a drama of another sort, more obscure, far harder to define, far slower and more various, which nonetheless deserves the closest and most respectful attention.

THE REVIVAL and renewal of a great nation is, after all, a highly dramatic event. Once so prostrate and sterile, France began to renew herself under the despised, politically ignoble Fourth Republic. The key figure in this phase was Jean Monnet, whose Monnet Plan was the seminal factor in France's postwar rebirth.

It must always be remembered that France had already experienced this moral, physical, and economic rebirth before Gen. de Gaulle came to power. Without that immense development, which had been largely hidden from the eyes of the world, by the squalid old political facade, even de Gaulle could never have played his strange role on the world stage of the statue of the commander in "Don Giovanni."

NOW, MOREOVER, a new phase is opening. De Gaulle's first administration was largely concentrated on the harsh task of liquidating the Algerian problem. What was done by the French electorate in the astonishing recent election. And now the French President, confirmed in power, with an overwhelming mandate, has made "renovation" the keynote of his second administration.

"The development of our country, in its scientific and technical capabilities, in the economic domain, in the domains of social welfare and education" — such is de Gaulle's summary of his aims. The summary is not mere empty political talk, either.

The "renovation" that is to produce this result will be very radical indeed. As is indicated by the choice of the remarkable Louis Joxe as minister of administrative reform, France's archaic administrative structure, largely designed by the Emperor Napoleon, is to be rebuilt, root and branch.

Just to give some idea of the boldness of the scheme, this most centralized of nations is to be provided with regional development authorities with considerable local independence. Thus picturesque Brittany is to become an industrial area, which it is already beginning to do.

EQUALLY RIGOROUS reform of the educational structure (with special emphasis on increased scientific and technical education) is also contemplated. All sorts of other dusty corners are to be swept out.

If one may gauge the probable end result by what the Fourth Republic accomplished without the kind of strong leadership de Gaulle can provide, it seems reasonable to expect a further change in France which will almost have the effect of changing the map of Europe.

Jack Benny believes that the waiters at Miami Beach's swanky Fontainebleau Hotel are the classiest and most cultured he's ever encountered. "Of course," he adds, "most of them were guests of the hotel when they arrived a week earlier."

A family became convinced that its home was haunted and decided to move to another town. All the furniture had been packed in a big van and the kids collected. The father called out, "Are we all here?" From under a table in the van came the voice of the ghost: "Yes, we're all here. Let's get going!"

A subscriber in a small town told the phone operator. "Get me a veterinarian quick." The operator inquired coldly, "Is this a personal call?" "Of course not," snapped the caller. "It's my dog that's sick."

'Lawrence Of Arabia' Actor Looks Over 'America In A Plastic Bag'

NEW YORK (AP)—"The only thing I dislike in America is it's so bloody antiseptic," said Peter O'Toole. "Everything is in a plastic bag.

"The thing I like best about America is the openness of it. They talk about the pace being killing here. That simply isn't so. I find people more willing to chat in New York than in London or Stockholm."

O'Toole is a tempestuous Irishman who at 29 finds himself acclaimed by critics as perhaps Britain's finest young stage actor.

He also has leaped to international film stardom by playing the title role in "Lawrence of Arabia," a two-year job during which he learned to ride a camel and speak Arabic.

Six-foot-plus tall, blue-eyed and slender—he is still regaining the 25 pounds bumped off him atop camels in the dehydrating desert heat — Peter takes his new stature in show business with an owlish look of "So what?"

"I consider myself a working actor," he said, carefully prying apart a steak.

"I'm not an archbishop of mediocrity—I'm just a bloody good journeyman actor."

O'Toole, a son of County Galway, was bitten by the acting bug at the age of 6. But after quitting school at 14 he worked as an office boy and newspaper reporter and served two years in the British submarine service before entering the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art.

Since then he has appeared in some 75 plays, winning comparison by critics in his Shakespearean roles to Sir Laurence Olivier and Sir John Gielgud.

He is by turns moody, self-critical and ebullient as a fountain— a thoroughly normal Irishman.

Noted for his intensity and exuberance on or off stage, O'Toole has little sympathy for an existence of cautious safety.

"This whole business of taking away the sharp edge of living—this endless demand for tranquility—is terribly destructive," he said.

"LIFE ISN'T MEANT always to be tranquil and happy.

"Conflict is as much a part of living as breathing is. The stresses are not pleasant, but they are as important as the happiness of life."

Since everyone today is supposed to be afraid of something, I asked Peter to name his fears.

"THE DARK, BEING alone," he said hesitantly. "The usual things. I'd like to keep as far away from the grave as possible.

"I'm supposed to be a rather violent man, but I think the only reason I'm violent is that I'm afraid of violence.

"I'm violently pacific."

One Christmas Project Spreads Cheer While A Girl Asks Happiness

Last week we wrote about Christmas decorations at Novato Post Office, which started as a project of two mail carriers, Lee Rogers and John Rea.

It soon spread to other employees and they joined in the spirit of the occasion with physical and financial help.

The decorations started a chain reaction throughout town. People in Novato were bragging about their post office and the effect it had on bringing the Christmas spirit to town.

That spirit has reached out into other communities. The Petaluma Argus Courier ran a picture of the post office, even though it is out of their territory.

Novato City Council at its Tuesday night meeting publicly thanked the postal employees for the good job they had done.

Nor did this spirit of Christmas stop at the post office itself. John Rea delivered personally signed Christmas cards to the people on his mail route.

How did a grateful community respond to this spirit of Christmas?

Well, last Friday, Mesdames A. P. Garatti, Lucile Cannon, William Hartman, Wayne Tharp, Roy Huffman, and Charles P. Davies, members of the City Beautification Committee of Novato Garden Club, took a big basket of home baked cookies to the postal employees to have with their coffee.

It isn't Christmas yet, so one doesn't know how far the chain reaction will go before the big day arrives.

THERE IS ONE little girl in Novato whose faith in Santa Claus cannot be shaken.

Several years ago, through some civic minded people giving her name to Santa, she received a letter from that good man himself. This so pleased her that even though she has now reached the ripe old age of 10, she still has that faith of the small in Santa.

However, for the past two years, things have not been as well with her world as before. Her father has been seriously ill, gradually growing worse until now he is in critical condition. He has been in and out of the hospital continually during that time. Last week he was taken to the University of California Hospital in San Francisco.

In their outgoing mail, her mother found the following letter addressed to Santa Claus, North Pole!:

"Dear Santa Claus:

"Have I been good? Please tell me the truth. I hope we have been good. If we have been good, here is what I would like to have. It is: happiness. I want happiness because without happiness nothing would be worth while. Please may I have it?

"Another thing I would like is Daddy to be well and not to be sick. Please, may I have this? I would like it so we can celebrate Jesus' birthday.

"If you think I should have something else you can give it to me. But you don't have to. All I want is for Daddy to be well and happiness.

"Would you please write a letter back to me, like you did that one year? I would really keep it too.

"Have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

"Your true friend,
"DEBBIE Z."

Debbie's father is now in the best medical hands he can be. He will be allowed out of the hospital for Christmas Day, even though he has to return.

And who knows, Santa Claus may grant Debbie's requests after all.

ANNUAL VOTER BRAINWASH

Non-Defense Items Are Upping Your Tax

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It is time the voters began to resist their annual brainwashing on the matter of why government costs so much.

The brainwashing is a soft sell. By hint and emphasis rather than by direct statement, the politicians seek to persuade the voters that increasing defense spending is what puts the Treasury into the red each year, rots the U. S. dollar with creeping inflation and jeopardizes the American way of life.

Not so! The hike in government costs is chiefly in non-defense spending. For example:

IN FISCAL YEAR 1954 military and related national defense items cost $46.9 billions. All other items of government amounted to $20.6 billions. Seven years later, in fiscal 1961, military and related national defense items cost $47.4 billions, up only $500 millions.

All other items of government expense in fiscal 1961 cost $36.8, an increase of $16.2 billions over fiscal 1954. That is an 80 per cent increase in non-national defense costs in eight years.

THAT'S WHERE the money goes and that is where economies must be found if government is to live within its income, end deficit spending and put some starch into that beautiful item, the U. S. dollar.

The Kennedy administration revised its budget calculations a few weeks ago. The President now estimates that June 30, at midnight, the end of the 1963 fiscal year, the Treasury will be in the red by $8.9 billion. President Kennedy is well on the way toward matching Franklin D. Roosevelt's unhappy record of achieving a big Treasury deficit during every year he occupied the White House.

Under President Kennedy, as under his immediate predecessors, non-national defense spending continues to increase faster than defense spending. In his revised budget figures last month, Kennedy estimated that defense, international and space agencies in fiscal '63 would spend $2.8 billions more for their purposes than in the 1962 fiscal year. Non-defense spending will be up by almost $3.2 billions.

Every non-defense activity of government will cost more in this Kennedy fiscal year than in Eisenhower's 1954, barring one, the Labor Department.

The greatest increase will be in the spendingest non-defense department of them all, Education and Welfare. The up was $982 million.

The shocker in the new figures, however, is the estimated fiscal year cost of interest on the public debt, $9.7 billions, up $560 millions from last year.

There is no state money in the bridge and no state financial responsibility. If, at a time before great reserves and insurance benefits were built up, the bridge had fallen or been destroyed during World War II, the taxpayers of the district would have had to pay off those bonds, not the state.

Unlike other bridges across the bay, no state funds go for painting, administration, repairs or other maintenance of the Gate span. Gas taxes, some of them coming from Marin residents, pay operation and maintenance costs on all the other bridges; not so the Golden Gate.

Even so, the average toll on the Gate bridge is the lowest of any bridge across the Bay. The cummute toll is 13 cents per trip as compared with 20 cents on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, this is more than 50 per cent higher.

So why is the state now so interested in taking over the Golden Gate Bridge now?

The answer is money. The Gate bridge has amassed about $20 million in reserve funds. If the bridge were to fall today, there would be enough money on hand to pay off the uncallable bonds which won't become due until 1971.

Besides this $20 million in immediate cash, the Golden Gate Bridge is making something in the neighborhood of two million dollars per year in net profit. (It sounds more like the Golden Goose than the Golden Gate.) And state officials are loath to allow such profits to continue out of their control.

What would they want the money for? To build new bridges.

Now it is quite evident that we need a new bridge to San Francisco. Even before it can be built, the traffic problem on the Golden Gate Bridge will be triple compounded.

But Marin County has a record of independence in their bridge construction. We got together with the other counties of the district to build the Golden Gate Bridge. We got together with Contra Costa and maneuvered the state into building the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge without a cent of cost to the taxpayers—and without stealing tolls from either the Golden Gate Bridge or the San Francisco-Oakland Bridge to build it.

A similar situation exists in the South Bay. There has been an outcry for years, even before the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge was built, for a second crossing or a parallel bay bridge or a tube or some such. We don't deny the need for it; its need was probably greater than the need for the San Rafael-Richmond span.

Why did we get our bridge and they not get their's? Probably because we were willing to pay our own way.

We didn't ask or get tolls from another bridge to help pay the costs. We agreed to pay higher tolls for a while to get our bridge now and to keep it free of tax funds. (Incidentally, the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge has been in the black for some time. Perhaps it's time to start thinking about a toll reduction.)

Now that it's time to build a second crossing between Marin and San Francisco, we should give close attention to who builds it. Do we want the state to build it and make the decisions as to where it goes and what it looks like? Or would it be better if our own bridge district did the work and kept the decisions and profits closer to home rather than in Sacramento?

If the state can do such an efficient job and there has been so much mismanagement and extravagance on the Gate bridge, why are the Gate bridge tolls lower than the state bridges? Maybe we should investigate state operations!

This brings up the current Gate bridge investigations. We hope investigation of operations and individuals involved doesn't cloud the real issue we're discussing. We don't want to throw out the baby with the dirty bath water. The baby may well be strong and healthy; getting rid of the bath water may make him pure, too.

Can the bridge district work into an area-wide transportation plan? We see no reason it can't. We think that strong, voluntary cooperation through, for example, such an organization as the Association of Bay Area Governments, may work as well or better than some super-governmental agency plunked down over the top of existing governments?

What we need to do is to give serious thought to the problem of our bridges and make our decisions on the basis of fact, not emotions of the moment.

And let's get started on it.

'Lawrence Of Arabia' Actor Looks Over 'America In A Plastic Bag'

NEW YORK (AP)—"The only thing I dislike in America is it's so bloody antiseptic," said Peter O'Toole. "Everything is in a plastic bag.

"The thing I like best about America is the openness of it. They talk about the pace being killing here. That simply isn't so. I find people more willing to chat in New York than in London or Stockholm."

O'Toole is a tempestuous Irishman who at 29 finds himself acclaimed by critics as perhaps Britain's finest young stage actor.

He also has leaped to international film stardom by playing the title role in "Lawrence of Arabia," a two-year job during which he learned to ride a camel and speak Arabic.

Six-foot-plus tall, blue-eyed and slender—he is still regaining the 25 pounds bumped off him atop camels in the dehydrating desert heat — Peter takes his new stature in show business with an owlish look of "So what?"

"I consider myself a working actor," he said, carefully prying apart a steak.

"I'm not an archbishop of mediocrity—I'm just a bloody good journeyman actor."

O'Toole, a son of County Galway, was bitten by the acting bug at the age of 6. But after quitting school at 14 he worked as an office boy and newspaper reporter and served two years in the British submarine service before entering the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art.

Since then he has appeared in some 75 plays, winning comparison by critics in his Shakespearean roles to Sir Laurence Olivier and Sir John Gielgud.

He is by turns moody, self-critical and ebullient as a fountain— a thoroughly normal Irishman.

Noted for his intensity and exuberance on or off stage, O'Toole has little sympathy for an existence of cautious safety.

"This whole business of taking away the sharp edge of living—this endless demand for tranquility—is terribly destructive," he said.

"LIFE ISN'T MEANT always to be tranquil and happy.

"Conflict is as much a part of living as breathing is. The stresses are not pleasant, but they are as important as the happiness of life."

Since everyone today is supposed to be afraid of something, I asked Peter to name his fears.

"THE DARK, BEING alone," he said hesitantly. "The usual things. I'd like to keep as far away from the grave as possible.

"I'm supposed to be a rather violent man, but I think the only reason I'm violent is that I'm afraid of violence.

"I'm violently pacific."

Sooooo much to be done to prepare for THAT night
The windows to clean, the floors to make shine—
The clothes to be ironed—(on what will we dine?)
The cupboards are bare, much marketing to be done
I must make a list (are holidays really fun?!)
The children aren't sleeping all snug in their beds

DeGaulle Is Changing France So Radically He May Change World

PARIS—So far as one can judge, the pallid drama of the NATO rally can be summed up in one sentence. The Europeans are not going to provide the adidtional ground forces that are so clearly needed, and the Americans are not going to make the bold attack on the problem of nuclear control which is increasingly urgent.

But in default of current drama, there happens to be a drama of another sort, more obscure, far harder to define, far slower and more various, which nonetheless deserves the closest and most respectful attention.

THE REVIVAL and renewal of a great nation is, after all, a highly dramatic event. Once so prostrate and sterile, France began to renew herself under the despised, politically ignoble Fourth Republic. The key figure in this phase was Jean Monnet, whose Monnet Plan was the seminal factor in France's postwar rebirth.

It must always be remembered that France had already experienced this moral, physical, and economic rebirth before Gen. de Gaulle came to power. Without that immense development, which had been largely hidden from the eyes of the world, by the squalid old political facade, even de Gaulle could never have played his strange role on the world stage of the statue of the commander in "Don Giovanni."

NOW, MOREOVER, a new phase is opening. De Gaulle's first administration was largely concentrated on the harsh task of liquidating the Algerian problem. What was done by the French electorate in the astonishing recent election. And now the French President, confirmed in power, with an overwhelming mandate, has made "renovation" the keynote of his second administration.

"The development of our country, in its scientific and technical capabilities, in the economic domain, in the domains of social welfare and education" — such is de Gaulle's summary of his aims. The summary is not mere empty political talk, either.

The "renovation" that is to produce this result will be very radical indeed. As is indicated by the choice of the remarkable Louis Joxe as minister of administrative reform, France's archaic administrative structure, largely designed by the Emperor Napoleon, is to be rebuilt, root and branch.

Just to give some idea of the boldness of the scheme, this most centralized of nations is to be provided with regional development authorities with considerable local independence. Thus picturesque Brittany is to become an industrial area, which it is already beginning to do.

EQUALLY RIGOROUS reform of the educational structure (with special emphasis on increased scientific and technical education) is also contemplated. All sorts of other dusty corners are to be swept out.

If one may gauge the probable end result by what the Fourth Republic accomplished without the kind of strong leadership de Gaulle can provide, it seems reasonable to expect a further change in France which will almost have the effect of changing the map of Europe.

Several years ago, through some civic minded people giving her name to Santa, she received a letter from that good man himself. This so pleased her that even though she has now reached the ripe old age of 10, she still has that faith of the small in Santa.

However, for the past two years, things have not been as well with her world as before. Her father has been seriously ill, gradually growing worse until now he is in critical condition. He has been in and out of the hospital continually during that time. Last week he was taken to the University of California Hospital in San Francisco.

"Dear Santa Claus:

ANNUAL VOTER BRAINWASH

Non-Defense Items Are Upping Your Tax

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It is time the voters began to resist their annual brainwashing on the matter of why government costs so much.

The brainwashing is a soft sell. By hint and emphasis rather than by direct statement, the politicians seek to persuade the voters that increasing defense spending is what puts the Treasury into the red each year, rots the U. S. dollar with creeping inflation and jeopardizes the American way of life.

Not so! The hike in government costs is chiefly in non-defense spending. For example:

IN FISCAL YEAR 1954 military and related national defense items cost $46.9 billions. All other items of government amounted to $20.6 billions. Seven years later, in fiscal 1961, military and related national defense items cost $47.4 billions, up only $500 millions.

All other items of government expense in fiscal 1961 cost $36.8, an increase of $16.2 billions over fiscal 1954. That is an 80 per cent increase in non-national defense costs in eight years.

THAT'S WHERE the money goes and that is where economies must be found if government is to live within its income, end deficit spending and put some starch into that beautiful item, the U. S. dollar.

The Kennedy administration revised its budget calculations a few weeks ago. The President now estimates that June 30, at midnight, the end of the 1963 fiscal year, the Treasury will be in the red by $8.9 billion. President Kennedy is well on the way toward matching Franklin D. Roosevelt's unhappy record of achieving a big Treasury deficit during every year he occupied the White House.

Under President Kennedy, as under his immediate predecessors, non-national defense spending continues to increase faster than defense spending. In his revised budget figures last month, Kennedy estimated that defense, international and space agencies in fiscal '63 would spend $2.8 billions more for their purposes than in the 1962 fiscal year. Non-defense spending will be up by almost $3.2 billions.

Every non-defense activity of government will cost more in this Kennedy fiscal year than in Eisenhower's 1954, barring one, the Labor Department.

The greatest increase will be in the spendingest non-defense department of them all, Education and Welfare. The up was $982 million.

The shocker in the new figures, however, is the estimated fiscal year cost of interest on the public debt, $9.7 billions, up $560 millions from last year.

Now Is No Time To Give Up Gate Span Without Thought

It is popular at the moment to deride, ridicule and upbraid the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District. There are charges and counter charges. There are investigations, which we believe to be proper, and suggestions, many of which we feel are poorly thought through.

To begin with, perhaps we should go back to the beginning and review why we have a bridge district. The counties of the North Coast and San Francisco felt the need for such a bridge. The rest of the state couldn't have been less interested, in some cases, they just laughed.

But residents of San Francisco, Marin, Sonoma, Del Norte and parts of Mendocino and Napa Counties put their homes and their properties in hock for $35,000,000 (this was during the depression) and built the bridge anyway. There is no state money in the bridge and no state financial responsibility. If, at a time before great reserves and insurance benefits were built up, the bridge had fallen or been destroyed during World War II, the taxpayers of the district would have had to pay off those bonds, not the state.

Unlike other bridges across the bay, no state funds go for painting, administration, repairs or other maintenance of the Gate span. Gas taxes, some of them coming from Marin residents, pay operation and maintenance costs on all the other bridges; not so the Golden Gate.

Even so, the average toll on the Gate bridge is the lowest of any bridge across the Bay. The cummute toll is 13 cents per trip as compared with 20 cents on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, this is more than 50 per cent higher.

So why is the state now so interested in taking over the Golden Gate Bridge now?

The answer is money. The Gate bridge has amassed about $20 million in reserve funds. If the bridge were to fall today, there would be enough money on hand to pay off the uncallable bonds which won't become due until 1971.

Besides this $20 million in immediate cash, the Golden Gate Bridge is making something in the neighborhood of two million dollars per year in net profit. Non-Defense Items Are Upping Your Tax

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It is time the voters began to resist their annual brainwashing on the matter of why government costs so much.

The brainwashing is a soft sell. By hint and emphasis rather than by direct statement, the politicians seek to persuade the voters that increasing defense spending is what puts the Treasury into the red each year, rots the U. S. dollar with creeping inflation and jeopardizes the American way of life.

Not so! The hike in government costs is chiefly in non-defense spending. For example:

IN FISCAL YEAR 1954 military and related national defense items cost $46.9 billions. All other items of government amounted to $20.6 billions. Seven years later, in fiscal 1961, military and related national defense items cost $47.4 billions, up only $500 millions.

All other items of government expense in fiscal 1961 cost $36.8, an increase of $16.2 billions over fiscal 1954. That is an 80 per cent increase in non-national defense costs in eight years.

THAT'S WHERE the money goes and that is where economies must be found if government is to live within its income, end deficit spending and put some starch into that beautiful item, the U. S. dollar.

The Kennedy administration revised its budget calculations a few weeks ago. The President now estimates that June 30, at midnight, the end of the 1963 fiscal year, the Treasury will be in the red by $8.9 billion. President Kennedy is well on the way toward matching Franklin D. Roosevelt's unhappy record of achieving a big Treasury deficit during every year he occupied the White House.

Under President Kennedy, as under his immediate predecessors, non-national defense spending continues to increase faster than defense spending. In his revised budget figures last month, Kennedy estimated that defense, international and space agencies in fiscal '63 would spend $2.8 billions more for their purposes than in the 1962 fiscal year. Non-defense spending will be up by almost $3.2 billions.

Every non-defense activity of government will cost more in this Kennedy fiscal year than in Eisenhower's 1954, barring one, the Labor Department.

The greatest increase will be in the spendingest non-defense department of them all, Education and Welfare. The up was $982 million.

The shocker in the new figures, however, is the estimated fiscal year cost of interest on the public debt, $9.7 billions, up $560 millions from last year.

Gate Bridge Gets Two New Directors

San Francisco supervisors chose two new directors of the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday and will reappoint three incumbents to new four-year terms.

Dropped by the board were Daniel F. Del Carlo, labor leader, member of the bridge board for just under 20 years and the longtime chairman of its powerful building and operating committee, and Phillips S. Davies, investment counselor and a director since December, 1949.

Reappointed were Ben K. Lerer, attorney who is slated to be president of the board next year; Joseph J. Diviny, labor leader, and Alvin F. Derre, banker.

The two new San Francisco directors, selected from 16 candidates who submitted answers to a lengthy questionnaire, are William Moskovitz, real estate broker and brother of the late former bridge director Maurice Moskovitz, and Stephan C. Leonoudakis, an attorney.

An attempt to delay the appointment failed 7 to 4. Formal appointment will be made Monday.

Supervisor John Jay Ferdon attempted to obtain the delay, proposing legislation permitting the city's controller and chief administrative officer to serve on the board.

The appointments give no clear picture of future policies of the bridge board. All five of those appointed said in questionnaire answers that they oppose the $10,000 life insurance policies for directors paid for by the bridge district. But they agreed on little else.

Moskovitz said the bridge district should have jurisdiction over a second crossing to Marin, but Leonoudakis proposed delay until a "financial feasibility study" is made.

Mockovitz wasn't specific on where such a crossing should be. Leonoudakis proposed "as straight a line as possible from the southern tip of Tiburon peninsula to Angel Island and thence to the foot of the downtown area." Derre favored a parallel bridge.

Moskovitz opposes abolishing the district or having it absorbed in another agency. Leonoudakis wants the district to remain in existence at least until 1971 when the bonds will be paid off.

Final meeting of the bridge board this year will be Dec. 28. Reorganization of the board and election of officers for two-year terms will be at the first meeting of the new year on Jan. 11.

$412 Million To Be Spent On Phones

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Pacific Telephone Co. said today it plans to spend a record 412 million dollars in California in 1963 to expand and improve service.

That is 11 per cent more than the 372 million dollars the company spent on construction in 1962. In 1961 expenditures were 320 million dollars, and in 1960, 315 million dollars.

President C. O. Lindeman said the program will affect more than 1,200 California communities.

New installations and additions to central office equipment will cost about 132 million dollars next year; land and buildings needed to take care of growth will cost 42 million dollars; networks to tie telephone users to each other and to central offices will cost about 76 million dollars, while new telephone switchboards for business use, and similar equipment will run around 162 million dollars.

In 1962 the company gained more than 423,000 telephones in the state, bringing the total in service to about 7.12 million. Long distance business increased 12 per cent.

Rings, Camera Reported Stolen

Two diamond rings and a camera were stolen from the home of Ray Hollandsworth of 716 Birchwood Court, Terra Linda, Sheriff's Deputy Wade R. Powell reported today.

The diamond rings were worth $1,250 and were insured for that amount, Hollandsworth told the officer. The missing camera was a 35 millimeter Nikon valued at $350. Also gone is a pair of binoculars worth $30.

Hollandsworth, sales manager for a railroad supply firm, said the thief broke into the home sometime between 1 and 7 p.m. Friday. The back door of the master bedroom had been forced open. The prowler then ransacked the drawers in the bedroom and the closet.

Getting there is half the fun.

The ketch will go first to Hawaii, where Quinn will pick up his wife, Mary Ann, who is now competing in the International Surfboard championships.

Quinn reports that he has already recruited one crewwoman. She is Giselle Mayer, 22, a dark-haired beauty, who gave up her job as a receptionist in Vancouver to join the cruise.

Being Too Good A Sport Results In Losing Partners

Opening lead — ♣ 10

When this hand came along in a rubber bridge game the other day, West opened the ten of clubs.

TRIES SAFE LEAD

Don't snicker. A spade lead would have given South his ninth trick at once. West was trying to make a safe lead, hoping that his partner could get in and return a spade in time to defeat the contract.

As it happened, the club lead gave South his contract. That is, it should have; but South handed it right back. He covered with dummy's jack of clubs.

EAST GETS IN

It was now impossible to develop the clubs without giving East a club trick. Whenever East got in he was sure to lead the jack of spades, and that meant the end of poor South.

The right play is to let West win the first trick with the ten of clubs. If it happens to be a singleton, South can never make more than two club tricks.

In any other case South can surely develop three club tricks without losing the lead to East.

TAKES LAST CLUB

Suppose West can lead a second club. South wins with the ace and captures the last missing club with dummy's king.

If East shows out, dummy's jack of clubs will later win a finesse.

Being Too Good A Sport Results In Losing Partners

Opening lead — ♣ 10

When this hand came along in a rubber bridge game the other day, West opened the ten of clubs.

TRIES SAFE LEAD

Don't snicker. A spade lead would have given South his ninth trick at once. West was trying to make a safe lead, hoping that his partner could get in and return a spade in time to defeat the contract.

As it happened, the club lead gave South his contract. That is, it should have; but South handed it right back. He covered with dummy's jack of clubs.

EAST GETS IN

It was now impossible to develop the clubs without giving East a club trick. Whenever East got in he was sure to lead the jack of spades, and that meant the end of poor South.

The right play is to let West win the first trick with the ten of clubs. If it happens to be a singleton, South can never make more than two club tricks.

In any other case South can surely develop three club tricks without losing the lead to East.

TAKES LAST CLUB

Suppose West can lead a second club. South wins with the ace and captures the last missing club with dummy's king.

If East shows out, dummy's jack of clubs will later win a finesse.

Much the same is true if West abandons clubs after the first trick. South can lead the ace himself.

If both opponents follow, dummy's king will clear up the suit. If only West can follow, South can win a sure finesse with dummy's jack.

4,000 More Square Feet Of Business Space Due Soon On Lincoln Avenue

New office building at 1414 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, designed by architect Gordon Phillips and contracted by Clark Construction Co., is expected to be completed around the first of the year. It will add another 4,000 square feet to the street's rapidly growing office and professional district. It will be known simply as the 1414 Lincoln Building.

Construction and appointments feature steel framing, masonry exterior, plaster facia and overhangs, planters and draped glass walls. Portable interior partitions will be used to suit tenants' requirements. Offstreet parking is provided. Space is being leased by Coldwell, Banker and Co., San Rafael.

Steelwork was prefabricated and erected by San Francisco Welding and Steel Fabricating Co. John J. Curtin of San Rafael is the owner.

EICHLER HOMES, INC., was one of the winners named in Parents' Magazine's 13th Annual Builders' Competition during the convention of the National Assn. of Home Builders in Chicago last Friday.

Eichler won both a national and qualifying regional merit award for the Richard A. Henigan home in San Rafael, and a neighboring planning award for the Lucas Valley Community. National and regional merit awards were for a home in the higher priced group.

PACIFIC COAST STOCK EXCHANGE business hours Monday, Dec. 24, will be from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. The exchange will remain closed Christmas Day.

Regular trading hours, 7 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. will be maintained Monday, Dec. 31. Closed on New Year's Day.

LES BEATY, San Rafael district manager for Farmers Insurance Group, notes that his firm's American Legion Post 707 entry in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses parade this year will be the only major float not presided over by a pretty girl. The only person riding will be a man representing Col. Charles A. Lindberg. The float commemorates his flight to Paris in the "Spirit of St. Louis."

LES VOGEL JR. of Kent Woodlands has now broken ground for his new $1,250,000 Les Vogel Chevrolet building in San Francisco at 1640 Mission Street—a half block away from the present location.

Four acres of floor space will be available, Vogel says—but most of it "up in the air." Completion is expected in the spring of 1963.

LOWER TAXES — MORE HOUSES. Dr. Gordon W. McKinley, a New York economist, thinks that if income taxes are lowered early in 1963 more people will be able to afford new homes during the latter part of the year. Also, he adds, reduce taxes first and excess government spending will drop. "So long as there's a plentiful flow of revenue from the taxpayers, Congress will find a way to spend it."

NEARLY one hundred million passenger cars are in service throughout the world. The United States has about 60 per cent of them, and Marin's total runs somewhere around 62,000 —most of them trying to find a parking space.

Board Will Review Hospital By-Laws

A review of Marin Hospital District by-laws will be held at the district directors meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in Marin General Hospital, administrator William W. Turner announced today.

Board secretary Marion C. Ibach asked for the review with a view toward possible revision. Turner will ask the board whether it has any decision on a recent request by personnel director Robert Mathews that funds be allocated to establish a recreation committee for employees.

Hallinan's Son Among Marinites Who Passed State Bar Examination

Patrick Sarsfield (Butch) Hallinan, eldest of six sons of attorney Vincent Hallinan of Belvedere, was among 908 announced today as having passed the 1962 Fall State Bar Examination.

He won the highest award given in a moot court case at Hastings College of Law, San Francisco, on Feb. 19, 1961.

Ronald Dean Schenck of 457 Scenic Avenue, Fairfax, another who passed the examination, last Wednesday became the father of a daughter born at Marin General Hospital to his wife, Patricia M. Schenck — whose name is precisely that of another woman who the same day gave birth to a son at the same hospital.

Other Marin County residents successful in the examination included William B. Christy IV of 407-A Pine Street, Sausalito; R. Jay Engel of 373 Pine Hill Road, Mill Valley; Maurice Bradley Hill of 206 Eldridge Avenue, Mill Valley; James F. Kemp of 36 Mesa Avenue, Mill Valley; Robert Bennett McCreadie of 2575 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax; Steven Alfred Nye of 85 Crescent Avenue, Sausalito; Harold Braden Reeve of 147 Melrose Avenue, Mill Valley; Edwin Gunner Schull of 28 Center Street, San Rafael; and Gary L. Apartment Proposal Approved

Construction of a four-unit apartment building in Forest Knolls as one of the first developments in the planned commercial areas of San Geronimo Valley, was approved yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission.

The building, off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Montezuma Avenue, will be built in a an area designated as single-family residential by the San Geronimo Valley master plan. Residents asked for commercial zoning for the district instead. Final zoning has not yet been established for the district.

Staff planner Edmund Kagi said the commercial designation represented a "giving in" by the planning staff to "strong pressure" against reduction of business zoning.

Although the commission approved the apartments as requested by land owner Clifron Taylor, development of the front part of the lot for future commercial use was denied. Kagi said close proximity of residential and commercial would be detrimental and "is what we are trying to avoid."

The Marin County planning commission also:

1. Continued for a second time a request by Charles Mowers to put up a free-standing sign at his Hi Ho Motel at 707 Redwood Highway in Alto. Commissioners again asked for another design, saying the proposed sign was still too garish.
2. Held the first of two public hearings on the proposed 33-lot Paradise Park development at Paradise Cove, Tiburon. The project is planned by Bendell-Cann Co.

The Lassen Peak region was buried beneath ice as much as 1600 feet deep during the last Ice Age.

You Can Phone Santa Tonight, Tomorrow

Direct telephone dialing to Santa Claus and his helpers will be possible for youngsters tonight and tomorrow night without making a long distance connection to the North Pole.

In the fifth annual "Call Santa Claus" program sponsored by the Independent-Journal and the San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce, smallfry anxious to discuss their Christmas problems with the white-haired gentleman in the red suit—or just listen to his rollicking "Ho, ho, ho"—may do so by calling 454-3020 (or GL. 4-3020, if the old dialing comes easier), between 7 and 9 p.m.

Carl Lehman, manager of the I-J's classified advertising department, said today that 15 Jaycees under chairman Gary Brown will serve at Santa's answering service at Independent-Journal offices for the thousands of calls expected to be placed during the two-hour period each night.

He suggested that children unfamiliar with telephone use be helped to dial calls correctly. In the past, some startled residents on the GLencourt exchange in Oakland have been besieged with tiny voices asking for Santa Claus as a result of improper number selections.

(Required use of the prefix 1 from Marin to Oakland has now cut down the number of incorrect dialings, but use of the same prefix is also necessary to reach San Rafael's GLenwood exchange from some of the county's other calling areas).

In Mill Valley

Children who wish to speak directly to Santa Claus may do so in the Mill Valley area through a special telephone link with the North Pole arranged for by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The direct service will be available tomorrow and Thursday between 6:30 and 9 p.m. by telephoning DU 8-3292, according to John Hartnett, chairman of the Santa committee. Hortnett requests that youngsters not telephone before 6:30 p.m. as Santa will be too busy in his workshop to answer his telephone.

Sausalito Yule Essay Contest Told

"Lincoln's Failures" will be presented to each of the four schools in the Sausalito School District as a source of insporation to students participating in the current Christmas essay contest.

The framed copy of the document is but one of the prizes in the contest being held for all students from grades one through eight. Pupils are to write on "The Christmas I Remember Best" in not more than 100 and not less than 50 words.

The Sausalito Chamber of Commerce will award cash, toys and practical gift prizes to studetns of 15 classes whose compositions are deemed best by a committee of judges.

Apartment Proposal Approved

Construction of a four-unit apartment building in Forest Knolls as one of the first developments in the planned commercial areas of San Geronimo Valley, was approved yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission.

The building, off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Montezuma Avenue, will be built in a an area designated as single-family residential by the San Geronimo Valley master plan. Residents asked for commercial zoning for the district instead. Final zoning has not yet been established for the district.

Staff planner Edmund Kagi said the commercial designation represented a "giving in" by the planning staff to "strong pressure" against reduction of business zoning.

Although the commission approved the apartments as requested by land owner Clifron Taylor, development of the front part of the lot for future commercial use was denied. Kagi said close proximity of residential and commercial would be detrimental and "is what we are trying to avoid."

The Marin County planning commission also:

1. Continued for a second time a request by Charles Mowers to put up a free-standing sign at his Hi Ho Motel at 707 Redwood Highway in Alto. Commissioners again asked for another design, saying the proposed sign was still too garish.

2. Held the first of two public hearings on the proposed 33-lot Paradise Park development at Paradise Cove, Tiburon. The project is planned by Bendell-Cann Co.

The Lassen Peak region was buried beneath ice as much as 1600 feet deep during the last Ice Age.

You Can Phone Santa Tonight, Tomorrow

Direct telephone dialing to Santa Claus and his helpers will be possible for youngsters tonight and tomorrow night without making a long distance connection to the North Pole.

In the fifth annual "Call Santa Claus" program sponsored by the Independent-Journal and the San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce, smallfry anxious to discuss their Christmas problems with the white-haired gentleman in the red suit—or just listen to his rollicking "Ho, ho, ho"—may do so by calling 454-3020 (or GL. 4-3020, if the old dialing comes easier), between 7 and 9 p.m.

Carl Lehman, manager of the I-J's classified advertising department, said today that 15 Jaycees under chairman Gary Brown will serve at Santa's answering service at Independent-Journal offices for the thousands of calls expected to be placed during the two-hour period each night.

He suggested that children unfamiliar with telephone use be helped to dial calls correctly. In the past, some startled residents on the GLencourt exchange in Oakland have been besieged with tiny voices asking for Santa Claus as a result of improper number selections.

(Required use of the prefix 1 from Marin to Oakland has now cut down the number of incorrect dialings, but use of the same prefix is also necessary to reach San Rafael's GLenwood exchange from some of the county's other calling areas).

In Mill Valley

Children who wish to speak directly to Santa Claus may do so in the Mill Valley area through a special telephone link with the North Pole arranged for by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The direct service will be available tomorrow and Thursday between 6:30 and 9 p.m. by telephoning DU 8-3292, according to John Hartnett, chairman of the Santa committee. Hortnett requests that youngsters not telephone before 6:30 p.m. as Santa will be too busy in his workshop to answer his telephone.

DOSE GETS IT — Stanford's Tom Dose (55) and Clayton Raaka (35) both leap for rebound with Dose getting control of ball early in last night's game with Oregon at Eugene. Watching the play for Oregon is Jerry Anderson (50). Stanford won easily. (AP Wirephoto)

Stanford's Best Team In 20 Years Wallops Oregon Quint

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It's true that the basketball season is young yet, but the Stanford Indians so far appear to have their best cage squad this season in 20 years.

In 1942, Stanford won the NCAA championship thanks largely to a smooth guard named Howie Dallmar. Since then, hotshots like George Yardley, Ron Tomsic, and Paul Neumann have come and gone down the Farm, but this year's team—with Dallmar now the coach—beats them all.

The undefeated Indians are eighth-ranked nationally in the latest UPI poll, but last night bid for a higher rung with a stunning 63-44 win over Oregon.

Playing on an enemy court, the Indians grabbed a 26-4 lead and coasted in. Big Tom Dose scored 29 points before being taken out with the score 57-36 and five minutes left to play.

The two teams will meet in a rematch at Eugene tonight which should prove if the Indians are really that good.

Other touring western teams also had a tough time.

San Jose State was at seventh-ranked Illinois, and wound up on the short end of a 90-64 count. Bill Yonge of San Jose had 14 points, but the Spartans were in trouble when three regulars fouled out.

St. Mary's had trouble figuring out the zone defense of lightly regarded St. Norbert and just managed a 76-75 victory.

Steve Gray was held to 19 points, but his teammates picked up the slack as the Gaels hit the bucket at a .539 clip.

Troppmann To Coach Shrine '11'

Robert J. "Bob" Troppmann, director of athletics and head football coach of Redwood High School, has been selected to coach the North in next summer's Shrine North-South All-Star high school football classic in Los Angeles, it was learned last night.

Troppmann said he was informed by the Shrine selection committee that he and Coach Bob Berry of Willow Glen High School would guide the Northern All-Stars in the Aug. 1 contest between the outstanding graduating seniors from northern and southern California.

Official announcement of the coaching appointments is expected later this week.

The jubilant Troppmann said, "This is what every high school coach dreams about. Naturally I've wanted this assignment ever since the game began, so this just has to be one of the big thrills in my life."

The veteran Marin coach won the Shrine assignment by guiding Redwood to its third championship this year in four Marin Athletic League seasons. After losing their three pre-season practice games, the Giants came on strong to win all six league games. Their 20-14 come-from-behind victory over Tamalpais on Thanksgiving morning won the title.

In four Marin League seasons Redwood has won 18 league games and lost only 3.

A former assistant coach at Richmond High and San Francisco State College, Troppmann came to Marin in 1954 and coached at Drake through 1957. Then he moved over to Redwood in 1958 to build the new school into a football power.

A native of San Francisco, the 39-year-old Troppmann is married and the father of five children—two boys and three girls. His oldest son, Jim, was All-League quarterback for the Giants this season.

Shrine Director Coffman In 38th Year Of Work For Crippled Kids

HANLEY

For the 38th consecutive year Bill Coffman is spending the Christmas season in the same old way. Coffman has spent almost half his life in a great work of charity. He was 40 when he became managing director of the first Shrine East-West football game played in 1925. He now is 78 and still the managing director of the game that will be played for the 38th time this year.

"Tremendous changes have taken place in the world since the first Shrine East-West game was played in old Ewing Field," Coffman said today, "changes that have affected every facet of life. Yet one thing has remained constant: the spirit of the splendid young men who play the game so that crippled children may be helped to a normal life through the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children."

In the formative years of the game, Coffman was his own one-man staff but he downplays his own early role in paying tribute to the late Capt. E. Jack Spaulding.

"It WAS Spaulding who had the idea, the dream, to bring the outstanding college stars of East and West together in the game. His memory will be cherished so long as the East-West game is played."

Through the years the game has come to be known as "Football's Finest Hour" because it is played for a lofty ideal: "Strong Legs Run So Weak Legs May Walk."

For the past seven years the game has netted more than $245,000 annually for the crippled children's hospitals. Last year the total earnings for the hospitals passed $4,000,000.

"IT HAS been my great privilege to know more than 1,700 stars who have played in the East-West game," said Coffman. "They came from many places and walks of life, yet they were all alike in their intense desire to make a better future for crippled children.

"Success of the East-West game is due entirely to the gallantry of the players and coaches."

And to a man named Coffman.

49ers Now Have Six Top Draftees Signed

The San Francisco 49ers today announced the signing of two more high draft picks — linebacker Gary Moeller of Ohio State and tackle Ernest De Courley of Morehead State College in Kentucky.

The signing of their fifth and sevents round choices meant that the Prospectors had six players drafted in the first seven rounds under contract.

Moeller is a 225-pounder called by Coach Woody Hayes "one of the finest linebackers" in Buckeye grid history. The 265-pound De Courley was described by 49er scouts as having "tremendous speed and strength."

He was a 60-minute player at Morehead, but the 49ers reportedly feel that defense is his strong point.

Other 49er signings to date include halfback Kermit Alexander of UCLA, tackle Walter Rock of Maryland, halfback Don Lisbon of Bowling Green, and linebacker Pat Emerick of Western Michigan. These were first, second, third and sixth round picks respectively.

Machen Battles 7 Husky Attendants

NAPA (AP) — Heavyweight contender Eddie Machen, who last week apparently was considering suicide, may remain at Napa State Hospital for treatment.

The powerful, 198-pound fighter got out of hand at the hospital yesterday and it took seven husky attendants to bring him under control. It was the second time he is known to have battled with hospital personnel.

"I feel Machen needs continued care," Dr. Theo Miller, hospital medical director, was quoted as saying about the 30-year-old boxer last night.

A hearing for Machen, presumably to decide what to do with him, was scheduled today before Superior Court Judge Philip Lynch but it was uncertain whether Machen would appear.

"It's up to the judge. I understand he can hold the hearing with or without Machen present," said Dr. Miller.

A traffic patrolman found Machen in a parked car near Vallejo last Wednesday with a loaded pistol beside him which the figher had fired three times into the roadside. At the time he was writing a "farewell letter" to his wife.

Officers quoted the 198-pound boxer as saying that he was broke, couldn't get fights and that everything was "all wrong."

Dr. Miller described Machen yesterday as being in a "very disturbed condition." The doctor said "Sometimes he's better, sometimes he's worse. Today he's not getting along too well."

Machen, a former Redding, Calif., ring veteran who now fights out of Portland, Ore., is currently ranked by the World Boxing Assn. as the No. 1 contender for Sonny Liston's championship.

Bear Hoopsters Lifting Cal Out Of Athletic Depression

By HAL WOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—University of California, in the depths of a sports "recession," is doing a comeback on the basketball court — and Coach Rene Herrerias couldn't be happier.

Herrerias, who had a club that figured to finish at or near the bottom of the Big Six this year, took his team up to play highly-rated Oregon State last weekend and came out with a split in the two-game series.

"I was pleased to get that," said the soft-spoken little former USF star, "but on the other hand, we could have won both—or lost both."

The Bears have won five out of their first six games, if you include a thing against the alumni. They have beaten Utah, St. Mary's and USF, in addition to winning one and losing one with Oregon State.

"Oregon State has a strong ball club that will be much better when Terry Baker joins it to handle the play direction," said Herrerias. "That Mel Counts of theirs is not only great under the basket, but he pops them in from out around 30 feet, too.

"In addition, he has made good on 29 out of 30 free throws—20 in a row against us. There aren't very many college cagers around who can handle him."

Counts stands seven feet tall and is expected to team with Baker, the All-American football star, to give Oregon State a good run for national honors this year. However, without Baker, the Beavers are 2-2 so for this season.

Oregon State plays in the Kentucky Invitational at Lexington this weekend, while California hosts Texas and Wyoming.

Herrerias made his observations at the weekly luncheon of the Northern California Basketball Writers, who named Leroy Jackson of Santa Clara as the region's "Player of the Week."

Other notes and quotes:

Coach Dick Garibaldi, Santa Clara — "Jackson not only is player of the week for me, but he also is the player of every week. And this was a fine week—with three wins."

Harold Hunter, Tennessee A. & I.—"This isn't bad duty. We played in that tournament at Portland last week; at Alameda State in California; and then we leave for Hawaii to play a series of games there and won't return until Dec. 30."

George Lanphear, publicist for Wisconsin's Rose Bowl team who was a visitor—"We have a good, fast team. And we better be. If we lose this one, it will be three in a row for the Badgers in the Rose Bowl. We always seem to run up against the west's toughest teams: USC back in 1953; Washington in the 1960 game and now this fine Trojan team."

Bill Turner, assistant Stanford coach—"We'll know more about just how good we are after this week. We play four games against Oregon, Wyoming and Texas."

Warriors In Home Finale

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors, losers in 14 of their last 15 games, close out their current home stand tonight against the St. Louis Hawks, 8:15 at the Cow Palace.

After the St. Louis encounter, San Francisco goes on the road for seven games in nine nights, returning home Jan. 2 for a first time local NBA encounter with the defending champion Boston Celtics.

Stanford's Best Team In 20 Years Wallops Oregon Quint

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It's true that the basketball season is young yet, but the Stanford Indians so far appear to have their best cage squad this season in 20 years.

In 1942, Stanford won the NCAA championship thanks largely to a smooth guard named Howie Dallmar. Since then, hotshots like George Yardley, Ron Tomsic, and Paul Neumann have come and gone down the Farm, but this year's team—with Dallmar now the coach—beats them all.

The undefeated Indians are eighth-ranked nationally in the latest UPI poll, but last night bid for a higher rung with a stunning 63-44 win over Oregon.

Playing on an enemy court, the Indians grabbed a 26-4 lead and coasted in. Big Tom Dose scored 29 points before being taken out with the score 57-36 and five minutes left to play.

The two teams will meet in a rematch at Eugene tonight which should prove if the Indians are really that good.

Other touring western teams also had a tough time.

San Jose State was at seventh-ranked Illinois, and wound up on the short end of a 90-64 count. Bill Yonge of San Jose had 14 points, but the Spartans were in trouble when three regulars fouled out.

St. Mary's had trouble figuring out the zone defense of lightly regarded St. Norbert and just managed a 76-75 victory.

Steve Gray was held to 19 points, but his teammates picked up the slack as the Gaels hit the bucket at a .539 clip.

Coast, Internat'l Leagues May Play Li'l World Series

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Chances are good that there will be a "Little World Series" next fall between the winners of the Pacific Coast and International leagues.

Spencer Harris, president of the Spokan Indians, yesterday told the Inland Empire Sports Writers and Broadcasters that he had talked to International League President Tommy Richardson and found him "very keen" for a playoff between the two top minor leagues.

Troppmann To Coach Shrine '11'

Robert J. "Bob" Troppmann, director of athletics and head football coach of Redwood High School, has been selected to coach the North in next summer's Shrine North-South All-Star high school football classic in Los Angeles, it was learned last night.

Troppmann said he was informed by the Shrine selection committee that he and Coach Bob Berry of Willow Glen High School would guide the Northern All-Stars in the Aug. 1 contest between the outstanding graduating seniors from northern and southern California.

Official announcement of the coaching appointments is expected later this week.

The jubilant Troppmann said, "This is what every high school coach dreams about. Naturally I've wanted this assignment ever since the game began, so this just has to be one of the big thrills in my life."

The veteran Marin coach won the Shrine assignment by guiding Redwood to its third championship this year in four Marin Athletic League seasons. After losing their three pre-season practice games, the Giants came on strong to win all six league games. Their 20-14 come-from-behind victory over Tamalpais on Thanksgiving morning won the title.

In four Marin League seasons Redwood has won 18 league games and lost only 3.

A former assistant coach at Richmond High and San Francisco State College, Troppmann came to Marin in 1954 and coached at Drake through 1957. Then he moved over to Redwood in 1958 to build the new school into a football power.

A native of San Francisco, the 39-year-old Troppmann is married and the father of five children—two boys and three girls. His oldest son, Jim, was All-League quarterback for the Giants this season.

Shrine Director Coffman In 38th Year Of Work For Crippled Kids

HANLEY

For the 38th consecutive year Bill Coffman is spending the Christmas season in the same old way. Coffman has spent almost half his life in a great work of charity. He was 40 when he became managing director of the first Shrine East-West football game played in 1925. He now is 78 and still the managing director of the game that will be played for the 38th time this year.

"Tremendous changes have taken place in the world since the first Shrine East-West game was played in old Ewing Field," Coffman said today, "changes that have affected every facet of life. Yet one thing has remained constant: the spirit of the splendid young men who play the game so that crippled children may be helped to a normal life through the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children."

In the formative years of the game, Coffman was his own one-man staff but he downplays his own early role in paying tribute to the late Capt. E. Jack Spaulding.

"It WAS Spaulding who had the idea, the dream, to bring the outstanding college stars of East and West together in the game. His memory will be cherished so long as the East-West game is played."

Through the years the game has come to be known as "Football's Finest Hour" because it is played for a lofty ideal: "Strong Legs Run So Weak Legs May Walk."

For the past seven years the game has netted more than $245,000 annually for the crippled children's hospitals. Last year the total earnings for the hospitals passed $4,000,000.

"IT HAS been my great privilege to know more than 1,700 stars who have played in the East-West game," said Coffman. "They came from many places and walks of life, yet they were all alike in their intense desire to make a better future for crippled children.

"Success of the East-West game is due entirely to the gallantry of the players and coaches."

And to a man named Coffman.

49ers Now Have Six Top Draftees Signed

The San Francisco 49ers today announced the signing of two more high draft picks — linebacker Gary Moeller of Ohio State and tackle Ernest De Courley of Morehead State College in Kentucky.

The signing of their fifth and sevents round choices meant that the Prospectors had six players drafted in the first seven rounds under contract.

Moeller is a 225-pounder called by Coach Woody Hayes "one of the finest linebackers" in Buckeye grid history. The 265-pound De Courley was described by 49er scouts as having "tremendous speed and strength."

He was a 60-minute player at Morehead, but the 49ers reportedly feel that defense is his strong point.

Other 49er signings to date include halfback Kermit Alexander of UCLA, tackle Walter Rock of Maryland, halfback Don Lisbon of Bowling Green, and linebacker Pat Emerick of Western Michigan. These were first, second, third and sixth round picks respectively.

After losing their three pre-season practice games, the Giants came on strong to win all six league games. Their 20-14 come-from-behind victory over Tamalpais on Thanksgiving morning won the title.

In four Marin League seasons Redwood has won 18 league games and lost only 3.

A former assistant coach at Richmond High and San Francisco State College, Troppmann came to Marin in 1954 and coached at Drake through 1957. Then he moved over to Redwood in 1958 to build the new school into a football power.

A native of San Francisco, the 39-year-old Troppmann is married and the father of five children—two boys and three girls. His oldest son, Jim, was All-League quarterback for the Giants this season.

Shrine Director Coffman In 38th Year Of Work For Crippled Kids

HANLEY

For the 38th consecutive year Bill Coffman is spending the Christmas season in the same old way. Coffman has spent almost half his life in a great work of charity. He was 40 when he became managing director of the first Shrine East-West football game played in 1925. He now is 78 and still the managing director of the game that will be played for the 38th time this year.

"Tremendous changes have taken place in the world since the first Shrine East-West game was played in old Ewing Field," Coffman said today, "changes that have affected every facet of life. Yet one thing has remained constant: the spirit of the splendid young men who play the game so that crippled children may be helped to a normal life through the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children."

In the formative years of the game, Coffman was his own one-man staff but he downplays his own early role in paying tribute to the late Capt. E. Jack Spaulding.

"It WAS Spaulding who had the idea, the dream, to bring the outstanding college stars of East and West together in the game. His memory will be cherished so long as the East-West game is played."

Through the years the game has come to be known as "Football's Finest Hour" because it is played for a lofty ideal: "Strong Legs Run So Weak Legs May Walk."

For the past seven years the game has netted more than $245,000 annually for the crippled children's hospitals. Last year the total earnings for the hospitals passed $4,000,000.

"IT HAS been my great privilege to know more than 1,700 stars who have played in the East-West game," said Coffman. "They came from many places and walks of life, yet they were all alike in their intense desire to make a better future for crippled children.

"Success of the East-West game is due entirely to the gallantry of the players and coaches."

And to a man named Coffman.

49ers Now Have Six Top Draftees Signed

The San Francisco 49ers today announced the signing of two more high draft picks — linebacker Gary Moeller of Ohio State and tackle Ernest De Courley of Morehead State College in Kentucky.

The signing of their fifth and sevents round choices meant that the Prospectors had six players drafted in the first seven rounds under contract.

Moeller is a 225-pounder called by Coach Woody Hayes "one of the finest linebackers" in Buckeye grid history. The 265-pound De Courley was described by 49er scouts as having "tremendous speed and strength."

He was a 60-minute player at Morehead, but the 49ers reportedly feel that defense is his strong point.

Other 49er signings to date include halfback Kermit Alexander of UCLA, tackle Walter Rock of Maryland, halfback Don Lisbon of Bowling Green, and linebacker Pat Emerick of Western Michigan. These were first, second, third and sixth round picks respectively.

Machen Battles 7 Husky Attendants

NAPA (AP) — Heavyweight contender Eddie Machen, who last week apparently was considering suicide, may remain at Napa State Hospital for treatment.

The powerful, 198-pound fighter got out of hand at the hospital yesterday and it took seven husky attendants to bring him under control. It was the second time he is known to have battled with hospital personnel.

"I feel Machen needs continued care," Dr. Theo Miller, hospital medical director, was quoted as saying about the 30-year-old boxer last night.

A hearing for Machen, presumably to decide what to do with him, was scheduled today before Superior Court Judge Philip Lynch but it was uncertain whether Machen would appear.

"It's up to the judge. I understand he can hold the hearing with or without Machen present," said Dr. Miller.

A traffic patrolman found Machen in a parked car near Vallejo last Wednesday with a loaded pistol beside him which the figher had fired three times into the roadside. At the time he was writing a "farewell letter" to his wife.

Officers quoted the 198-pound boxer as saying that he was broke, couldn't get fights and that everything was "all wrong."

Dr. Miller described Machen yesterday as being in a "very disturbed condition." The doctor said "Sometimes he's better, sometimes he's worse. Today he's not getting along too well."

Machen, a former Redding, Calif., ring veteran who now fights out of Portland, Ore., is currently ranked by the World Boxing Assn. as the No. 1 contender for Sonny Liston's championship.

Bear Hoopsters Lifting Cal Out Of Athletic Depression

By HAL WOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—University of California, in the depths of a sports "recession," is doing a comeback on the basketball court — and Coach Rene Herrerias couldn't be happier.

Herrerias, who had a club that figured to finish at or near the bottom of the Big Six this year, took his team up to play highly-rated Oregon State last weekend and came out with a split in the two-game series.

"I was pleased to get that," said the soft-spoken little former USF star, "but on the other hand, we could have won both —or lost both."

The Bears have won five out of their first six games, if you include a thing against the alumni. They have beaten Utah, St. Mary's and USF, in addition to winning one and losing one with Oregon State.

"Oregon State has a strong ball club that will be much better when Terry Baker joins it to handle the play direction," said Herrerias. "That Mel Counts of theirs is not only great under the basket, but he pops them in from out around 30 feet, too.

"In addition, he has made good on 29 out of 30 free throws—20 in a row against us. There aren't very many college cagers around who can handle him."

Counts stands seven feet tall and is expected to team with Baker, the All-American football star, to give Oregon State a good run for national honors this year. However, without Baker, the Beavers are 2-2 so for this season.

Oregon State plays in the Kentucky Invitational at Lexington this weekend, while California hosts Texas and Wyoming.

Herrerias made his observations at the weekly luncheon of the Northern California Basketball Writers, who named Leroy Jackson of Santa Clara as the region's "Player of the Week."

Other notes and quotes:

Coach Dick Garibaldi, Santa Clara — "Jackson not only is player of the week for me, but he also is the player of every week. And this was a fine week —with three wins."

Harold Hunter, Tennessee A. & I.—"This isn't bad duty. We played in that tournament at Portland last week; at Alameda State in California; and then we leave for Hawaii to play a series of games there and won't return until Dec. 30."

George Lanphear, publicist for Wisconsin's Rose Bowl team who was a visitor—"We have a good, fast team. And we better be. If we lose this one, it will be three in a row for the Badgers in the Rose Bowl. We always seem to run up against the west's toughest teams: USC back in 1953; Washington in the 1960 game and now this fine Trojan team."

Bill Turner, assistant Stanford coach—"We'll know more about just how good we are after this week. We play four games against Oregon, Wyoming and Texas."

Warriors In Home Finale

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors, losers in 14 of their last 15 games, close out their current home stand tonight against the St. Louis Hawks, 8:15 at the Cow Palace.

The Hawks have four decisions over the Warriors in National Basketball Assn. competition so far this year and have lost none to the transplanted Philadelphians.

After the St. Louis encounter, San Francisco goes on the road for seven games in nine nights, returning home Jan. 2 for a first time local NBA encounter with the defending champion Boston Celtics.

Bass Fishing Slow—Temporarily

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
IJ Fish and Game Writer

It's a tossup, lack of fish or lack of fishermen in the San Pablo Bay area. I figure it is primarily a dearth of anglers. Very few boats left China Camp and Joe's Launching the past few days.

No report from Crockett and the Two Dares party boat out of Rodeo Marina went out with only four passengers on Friday. However, at least two East Oaklanders, John and Mary Riele of Castro Valley were aboard and did very well off Buoy 10. Mary took the honors by one pound of fish. Hers—one 23-pounder and a 3-pounder; John's one 23 and one 2-pounder.

But, while bait fishing is temporarily in the doldurms, the boats which trolled the Racoon Strait and the Red Rock areas made a killing. From Lee Anderson's Shop in Oakland I learned that on Saturday the boat Cherokee netted seven limits of bass to 15 pounds in Racoon, and the R.S.P. came through with an equal number of limits to 14 pounds. The Lucky Day trolled the Red Rock region and netted nine limits to 14 pounds and the Keesa came to port with four limits to 12 pounds, also in Red Rock area.

NO REPORTS from the back country — hardly anyone was out the past few foggy, rainy, miserable days.

Chances for steelhead fishing success has been and still is very, very slim, as you probably know.

SO MUCH for the finny prey, now for some rather better-than-expected news anent the feathered quarry.

Talking to Joe Nerviani of Joe's Launching at Santa Venetia. I learned that a few of the boys whooped it up from their blinds on the Flats between Joe's place and the Hamilton Air Field. To wit: Rick Lauckenauer and Lloyd Bruce, and a friend, accounted for 12 lesser scaup (bluebills) and three nice sprigs; Bobby Sellers, Mike Finidy and Allan Ruoff had 13 bluies and two sprigs. A loner, Harry Franke, limited out on bluies, another loner, Frank Gratti, collected two mallards and the third ace, William Cuneo, as usual took his limit of bluies.

NERVIANI REPORTED that several duck hunters did their shooting and were back in port in a bit over an hour. Sounds good, eh?

Scattered reports over a wide range of territory from the Gustine private clubs to unattached hunters in the Suisun Bay region and the Napa marshes seem to indicate a far better second half of the waterfowl season. Here's hoping, and goodbye, good luck and go get 'em!

Fish-Game Boss Makes Strong Pitch For Antlerless Hunts

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Fish and Game Department claims to have "people" problems.

Director Walter T. Shannon puts it bluntly:

"Whether it is because of misunderstanding or for personal or sentimental reasons, those who oppose game management in California are far more of a problem than is the game itself."

Shannon is making a strong pitch lately for more hunting of antlerless deer in California —and despite opposition from some sports groups, he says more either sex hunting is what the state needs.

"Deer numbers . . must be adjusted to the carrying capacity of their range, else we have deterioration of the range, malnutrition, poor animals and heavy losses."

But he concedes that habitat or range improvement is an important phase of deer management—within limits.

"For instance, we consider it impractical to spend large sums of money to increase deer numbers in areas where existing surpluses of deer are unharvested and tus wasted," he says.

Pointing out that the department of Fish and Game has spent more than $500,000 on twom ajor research projects devoted to improving deer habitat, Shannon says the work had shown how large, old chaparral stands can be manipulated by controlled burns to make them more productive for wildlife.

"We have been applying the results of these studies to deer habitat improvement on some important deer ranges," says Shannon. "But we simply don't have the money to do this type of work on all the deer ranges of the state."

And besides, Shannon makes this point:

"Improving lands to produce more deer in areas where surplus deer are now being wasted cannot be justified from an economical standpoint.

"It has been firmly established that, after making allowance for natural losses, from 25 to 30 per cent of a deer herd can be safely harvested. Yet we in California take only about five or six per cent.

"Over the past five years, approximately six per cent of California's total deer kill has been composed of antlerless deer. In the other western states, antlerless deer contribute from 25 to 50 per cent of the total deer kill."

Shannon says that for more than 10 years the Department of Fish and Game has been advocating an increased antlerless deer kill.

"Our objective is not to provide more hunting to sell more hunting licenses at the expense of the game," he says. "Our objectives are to maintain healthy deer herds, prevent over-utilization and destruction of the range and permit the public hunter to take a safe number of the surplus animals."

AREAS SHRINK

Shannon makes another point — about population and its effect on deer.

"As California's population expands, more and more people are looking for a place to hunt while areas open to them continue to shrink," he says. "Much of the privately-owned deer range is very lightly hunted."

Summing up, Shannon says:

"We believe that scientific game management can perpetuate our deer and livestock range, improve the quality of our deer herds and provide more effective relief for ranges now suffering from over-use."

Capt. Xon Nichols (left) of Hamilton Air Force Base is presented the sterling silver "50 Straight or Higher" skeet cup of the Hamilton Air Force Base Rod and Gun Club by Sgt. Banquet chairman Monty Marzetta needs plenty of help for this affair. If you are interested in lending a hand, contact Monty as soon as possible.

Ray Augusto, chairman of the monthly Saturday night family dinners, can also use some additional help. Ray says he won't object if he is swamped with offers of assistance!

The budget committee has made an excellent presentation of the 1963 budget to the board of directors. Congrats to chairman Bob Fagg and his budget committee for a job well done.

FISH ON! Word comes from Clyde Hickey that the final week of the 1962 Schenley Salmon Award program produced 106 more winners, bringing the total for the season to 617 winners! Top fish for the season, 59 pounds, eight ounces taken by John Gross near Duxbury Reef on Nov. 10, wins the annual silver trophy. Clyde says this will be a year for sportsmen to talk about for some time. Schenley's award program is now concentrated on striped bass, so get busy, you striper fishermen.

Saturday Dinners To Be Resumed By Rod And Gun Club

Saturday night dinners, the day following monthly meetings of the Marin Rod and Gun Club, will be resumed at the clubhouse starting in February, Ray Augusto announced.

There will be two types of dinners, one where the members will help themselves, family style, and the other type restaurant style where members will be seated and served by the serving committee.

There will be door prizes and entertainment and dancing. The cost of the dinner will be to cover the cost of food and entertainment.

Augusto said there are openings on the committee for a chef and servers. Persons interested in helping are asked to notify Augusto.

Fish Rescue Operations Successful

Fish rescue operations being conducted by the Department of Fish and Game and the Bureau of Reclamation on the Delta Mendota canal have proved highly successful. Over 30,000 pounds of fish were saved from the vicinity of the Mountain House siphon alone on Dec. 10, 11, and 12, despite the loss of some striped bass in the two miles of canal between the Tracy Pumping Station and the Mountain House siphon.

The 30,000 pounds of fish included mostly white catfish averaging about 1½ pounds apiece.

The DFG reported that the loss of some 2,600 striped bass between 12 and 16 inches long was due to the greatly reduced oxygen content of the water as the canal level dropped in this area, and the natural frailty of stripers which makes them high susceptible to shock and almost impossible to transplant and transport in an operation such as this.

The fish that are rescued during the operation, which will continue until the canal is drained and refilled, will be planted in the San Joaquin River nearby.

By Dec. 13 rescue crews were keeping ahead of the falling water level and no fish were in distress.

Elser A Key Figure With F-G Commission

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — There are a number of reasons why many followers of the outdoor trail are hopeful that Governor Edmund G. Brown will reappoint William P. Elser of San Diego to another six-year term on the state fish and game commission.

Fortunately, there appears to be a good chance this will happen.

Elser, appointed in 1957 by Governor Goodwin J. Knight, is a Republican. However, Brown has not shown any inclination in the past to let the matter of party politics influence his appointments to the commission.

As a matter of fact, the commission now is as evenly balanced politically as possible. Two commissioners, Henry Clineschmidt of Redding and Dante Nomellini of Stockton are Democrats; two others, Elser and Thomas H. Richards, Jr., of Sacramento, are Republicans. The fifth commissioner, Jamie H. Smith of Los Angeles, calls himself a Brown Republican, and has been an active supporter of the governor.

KEY VOTES

Elser, whose term expires Jan. 15, has been president of the commission for the past year. He has cast some key votes which most considered on the side of the sportsmen on such matters as the Don Pedro dam controversy.

One of the big reasons it's vital that a man of Elser's caliber be retained on the commission is that there is every appearance that the coming year or two will be significant ones on the matter of deer management. There finally appears to be an organized and concerted move to restore to the commission the full deer management powers which were stripped from it in 1957.

At that time, in the wake of the unfortunate 1956 either sex deer hunt, the commission's deer management program was made subject to the veto power by the 58 boards of supervisors. While a number of supporters of that 1957 legislation (including this writer) felt this was a temporary measure, to be kept in effect until public confidence in the commission had been restored, some of the backers of the county veto power had no intention of ever giving it up.

POWERS EXTENDED

As a result, the powers have been extended since 1957. But there is every indication the county veto power may be abolished in the 1963 session of the legislature.

This means the commission must demonstrate the best of judgment in proceeding with a proper deer management program, a program designed to accomplish the objectives in the commission policy but one which will be accepted by most of the public (total acceptance is impossible).

So a steady head such as Elser's is needed on the commission.

Jamie Smith Elected Fish-Game Chairman

Jamie H. Smith of Los Angeles has been elected chairman of the California Fish and Game Commission and chairman of the Wildlife Conservation Board, all within a three-day span.

He replaces William P. Elser of San Diego who chairmaned both groups during the current year.

His election to the first post come Dec. 7 at the commission meeting in Los Angeles. Election to the latter position came the following Monday, Dec. 10, at the WCB meeting in Sacramento. Henry Clineschmidt of Redding was elected vice chairman of the commission.

Smith, commission vice chair man this year, was appointed to the commission in March of 1958 to succeed Andy Kelly of Los Angeles. Smith's term wil' expire Jan. 15, 1964.

Born in Illinois in 1893, and reared Texas, Smith came to California in 1920. He is vice president and general manager of the 7-Up Bottling Co. of Los Angeles.

"Improving lands to produce more deer in areas where surplus deer are now being wasted cannot be justified from an economical standpoint.

"It has been firmly established that, after making allowance for natural losses, from 25 to 30 per cent of a deer herd can be safely harvested. Yet we in California take only about five or six per cent.

"Over the past five years, approximately six per cent of California's total deer kill has been composed of antlerless deer. In the other western states, antlerless deer contribute from 25 to 50 per cent of the total deer kill."

Shannon says that for more than 10 years the Department of Fish and Game has been advocating an increased antlerless deer kill.

"Our objective is not to provide more hunting to sell more hunting licenses at the expense of the game," he says. "Our objectives are to maintain healthy deer herds, prevent over-utilization and destruction of the range and permit the public hunter to take a safe number of the surplus animals."

AREAS SHRINK

Shannon makes another point — about population and its effect on deer.

"As California's population expands, more and more people are looking for a place to hunt while areas open to them continue to shrink," he says. "Much of the privately-owned deer range is very lightly hunted."

Summing up, Shannon says:

"We believe that scientific game management can perpetuate our deer and livestock range, improve the quality of our deer herds and provide more effective relief for ranges now suffering from over-use."

THIS YEAR our annual stag banquet will be held for the first time in the clubhouse. The date: Saturday evening, Jan. 26. Seating capacity in the clubhouse will be considerably less than it was under our previous arrangements, so to protect your interests be sure to get your ticket early. Banquet chairman Monty Marzetta needs plenty of help for this affair. If you are interested in lending a hand, contact Monty as soon as possible.

Ray Augusto, chairman of the monthly Saturday night family dinners, can also use some additional help. Ray says he won't object if he is swamped with offers of assistance!

The budget committee has made an excellent presentation of the 1963 budget to the board of directors. Congrats to chairman Bob Fagg and his budget committee for a job well done.

FISH ON! Word comes from Clyde Hickey that the final week of the 1962 Schenley Salmon Award program produced 106 more winners, bringing the total for the season to 617 winners! Top fish for the season, 59 pounds, eight ounces taken by John Gross near Duxbury Reef on Nov. 10, wins the annual silver trophy. Clyde says this will be a year for sportsmen to talk about for some time. Schenley's award program is now concentrated on striped bass, so get busy, you striper fishermen.

Saturday Dinners To Be Resumed By Rod And Gun Club

Saturday night dinners, the day following monthly meetings of the Marin Rod and Gun Club, will be resumed at the clubhouse starting in February, Ray Augusto announced.

There will be two types of dinners, one where the members will help themselves, family style, and the other type restaurant style where members will be seated and served by the serving committee.

There will be door prizes and entertainment and dancing. The cost of the dinner will be to cover the cost of food and entertainment.

Augusto said there are openings on the committee for a chef and servers. Persons interested in helping are asked to notify Augusto.

Fish Rescue Operations Successful

Fish rescue operations being conducted by the Department of Fish and Game and the Bureau of Reclamation on the Delta Mendota canal have proved highly successful. Over 30,000 pounds of fish were saved from the vicinity of the Mountain House siphon alone on Dec. 10, 11, and 12, despite the loss of some striped bass in the two miles of canal between the Tracy Pumping Station and the Mountain House siphon.

The 30,000 pounds of fish included mostly white catfish averaging about 1½ pounds apiece.

The DFG reported that the loss of some 2,600 striped bass between 12 and 16 inches long was due to the greatly reduced oxygen content of the water as the canal level dropped in this area, and the natural frailty of stripers which makes them high susceptible to shock and almost impossible to transplant and transport in an operation such as this.

The fish that are rescued during the operation, which will continue until the canal is drained and refilled, will be planted in the San Joaquin River nearby.

By Dec. 13 rescue crews were keeping ahead of the falling water level and no fish were in distress.

Elser A Key Figure With F-G Commission

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — There are a number of reasons why many followers of the outdoor trail are hopeful that Governor Edmund G. Brown will reappoint William P. Elser of San Diego to another six-year term on the state fish and game commission.

Fortunately, there appears to be a good chance this will happen.

Elser, appointed in 1957 by Governor Goodwin J. Knight, is a Republican. However, Brown has not shown any inclination in the past to let the matter of party politics influence his appointments to the commission.

As a matter of fact, the commission now is as evenly balanced politically as possible. Two commissioners, Henry Clineschmidt of Redding and Dante Nomellini of Stockton are Democrats; two others, Elser and Thomas H. Richards, Jr., of Sacramento, are Republicans. The fifth commissioner, Jamie H. Smith of Los Angeles, calls himself a Brown Republican, and has been an active supporter of the governor.

KEY VOTES

Elser, whose term expires Jan. 15, has been president of the commission for the past year. He has cast some key votes which most considered on the side of the sportsmen on such matters as the Don Pedro dam controversy.

One of the big reasons it's vital that a man of Elser's caliber be retained on the commission is that there is every appearance that the coming year or two will be significant ones on the matter of deer management. There finally appears to be an organized and concerted move to restore to the commission the full deer management powers which were stripped from it in 1957.

At that time, in the wake of the unfortunate 1956 either sex deer hunt, the commission's deer management program was made subject to the veto power by the 58 boards of supervisors. While a number of supporters of that 1957 legislation (including this writer) felt this was a temporary measure, to be kept in effect until public confidence in the commission had been restored, some of the backers of the county veto power had no intention of ever giving it up.

POWERS EXTENDED

As a result, the powers have been extended since 1957. But there is every indication the county veto power may be abolished in the 1963 session of the legislature.

This means the commission must demonstrate the best of judgment in proceeding with a proper deer management program, a program designed to accomplish the objectives in the commission policy but one which will be accepted by most of the public (total acceptance is impossible).

So a steady head such as Elser's is needed on the commission.

Jamie Smith Elected Fish-Game Chairman

Jamie H. Smith of Los Angeles has been elected chairman of the California Fish and Game Commission and chairman of the Wildlife Conservation Board, all within a three-day span.

He replaces William P. Elser of San Diego who chairmaned both groups during the current year.

His election to the first post come Dec. 7 at the commission meeting in Los Angeles. Election to the latter position came the following Monday, Dec. 10, at the WCB meeting in Sacramento. Henry Clineschmidt of Redding was elected vice chairman of the commission.

Smith, commission vice chairman this year, was appointed to the commission in March of 1958 to succeed Andy Kelly of Los Angeles. Smith's term will expire Jan. 15, 1964.

Born in Illinois in 1893, and reared Texas, Smith came to California in 1920. He is vice president and general manager of the 7-Up Bottling Co. of Los Angeles.

Bass Fishing Slow—Temporarily

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
IJ Fish and Game Writer

It's a tossup, lack of fish or lack of fishermen in the San Pablo Bay area. I figure it is primarily a dearth of anglers. Very few boats left China Camp and Joe's Launching the past few days.

No report from Crockett and the Two Dares party boat out of Rodeo Marina went out with only four passengers on Friday. However, at least two East Oaklanders, John and Mary Riele of Castro Valley were aboard and did very well off Buoy 10. Mary took the honors by one pound of fish. Hers—one 23-pounder and a 3-pounder; John's one 23 and one 2-pounder.

But, while bait fishing is temporarily in the doldurms, the boats which trolled the Racoon Strait and the Red Rock areas made a killing. From Lee Anderson's Shop in Oakland I learned that on Saturday the boat Cherokee netted seven limits of bass to 15 pounds in Racoon, and the R.S.P. came through with an equal number of limits to 14 pounds. The Lucky Day trolled the Red Rock region and netted nine limits to 14 pounds and the Keesa came to port with four limits to 12 pounds, also in Red Rock area.

NO REPORTS from the back country — hardly anyone was out the past few foggy, rainy, miserable days.

Chances for steelhead fishing success has been and still is very, very slim, as you probably know.

SO MUCH for the finny prey, now for some rather better-than-expected news anent the feathered quarry.

Talking to Joe Nerviani of Joe's Launching at Santa Venetia. I learned that a few of the boys whooped it up from their blinds on the Flats between Joe's place and the Hamilton Air Field. To wit: Rick Lauckenauer and Lloyd Bruce, and a friend, accounted for 12 lesser scaup (bluebills) and three nice sprigs; Bobby Sellers, Mike Finidy and Allan Ruoff had 13 bluies and two sprigs. A loner, Harry Franke, limited out on bluies, another loner, Frank Gratti, collected two mallards and the third ace, William Cuneo, as usual took his limit of bluies.

NERVIANI REPORTED that several duck hunters did their shooting and were back in port in a bit over an hour. Sounds good, eh?

Scattered reports over a wide range of territory from the Gustine private clubs to unattached hunters in the Suisun Bay region and the Napa marshes seem to indicate a far better second half of the waterfowl season. Here's hoping, and goodbye, good luck and go get 'em!

Fish-Game Boss Makes Strong Pitch For Antlerless Hunts

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Fish and Game Department claims to have "people" problems.

Director Walter T. Shannon puts it bluntly:

"Whether it is because of misunderstanding or for personal or sentimental reasons, those who oppose game management in California are far more of a problem than is the game itself."

Shannon is making a strong pitch lately for more hunting of antlerless deer in California —and despite opposition from some sports groups, he says more either sex hunting is what the state needs.

"Deer numbers . . must be adjusted to the carrying capacity of their range, else we have deterioration of the range, malnutrition, poor animals and heavy losses."

But he concedes that habitat or range improvement is an important phase of deer management—within limits.

"For instance, we consider it impractical to spend large sums of money to increase deer numbers in areas where existing surpluses of deer are unharvested and tus wasted," he says.

Pointing out that the department of Fish and Game has spent more than $500,000 on twom ajor research projects devoted to improving deer habitat, Shannon says the work had shown how large, old chaparral stands can be manipulated by controlled burns to make them more productive for wildlife.

"We have been applying the results of these studies to deer habitat improvement on some important deer ranges," says Shannon. "But we simply don't have the money to do this type of work on all the deer ranges of the state."

And besides, Shannon makes this point:

"Improving lands to produce more deer in areas where surplus deer are now being wasted cannot be justified from an economical standpoint.

"It has been firmly established that, after making allowance for natural losses, from 25 to 30 per cent of a deer herd can be safely harvested. Yet we in California take only about five or six per cent.

"Over the past five years, approximately six per cent of California's total deer kill has been composed of antlerless deer. In the other western states, antlerless deer contribute from 25 to 50 per cent of the total deer kill."

Shannon says that for more than 10 years the Department of Fish and Game has been advocating an increased antlerless deer kill.

"Our objective is not to provide more hunting to sell more hunting licenses at the expense of the game," he says. "Our objectives are to maintain healthy deer herds, prevent over-utilization and destruction of the range and permit the public hunter to take a safe number of the surplus animals."

AREAS SHRINK

Shannon makes another point — about population and its effect on deer.

"As California's population expands, more and more people are looking for a place to hunt while areas open to them continue to shrink," he says. "Much of the privately-owned deer range is very lightly hunted."

Summing up, Shannon says:

"We believe that scientific game management can perpetuate our deer and livestock range, improve the quality of our deer herds and provide more effective relief for ranges now suffering from over-use."

Festive Baking Ideas For Yule Season

BUBBLE COFFEE CAKE is both a beautiful and a perfect baking treat to serve your Christmas callers or to wrap as gifts. This 10-inch cake is decorated with thin confectioners' sugar glaze, candied cherries and citron.

People who don't believe in holiday baking probably never believed in Santa Claus either! But if you're big on Yuletide tradition, then you'll approve of all these festive baking ideas . . . the big Bubble Coffee Cake, the Star Fruitcake, the Quick Bread Candles, the Cooky Canes and the fruit-filled Sugarplums.

BUBBLE COFFEE CAKE
Makes one 10-inch coffee cake

- 2 cakes compressed or 2 pkg. dry yeast
- ¼ cup lukewarm water
- 1 cup milk, scalded
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- ⅓ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 4¾ to 5¼ cupes sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1½ cups rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- ⅓ cup chopped red-candied cherries
- ⅓ cup chopped green candied cherries

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. (Use warm water for dry yeast.) Pour scalded milk over butter, sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in 1 cup flour and eggs. Add softened yeast, oats and candied cherries. Stir in enough more flour to make a soft dough.

Turn dough out on lightly floured board or canvas; knead until smooth and satiny, about 10 minutes. Round dough into ball; place in greased bowl; brush lightly with melted shortening. Cover; let rise until nearly double in size, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down. Cover; let rest 10 minutes. Pinch off small pieces of dough; shape to form balls. Dip in melted butter, then into a mixture of ¾ cup sugar and 1½ teaspoons cinnamon. Arrange balls of dough in 10-inch tube pan. (Do not use pan with removable bottom.) Cover; let rise until nearly double in size, about 45 minutes.

Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 40 to 45 minutes. Let cool a few minutes. Turn out of pan and let cool about 30 minutes before turning right side up. Decorate with thin confectioners' sugar glaze, candied cherries and citron.

STAR FRUITCAKE
(Makes 1 star)

- ⅓ cup shortening, soft
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ cup milk
- 1½ cups chopped mixed candied fruit
- 1 cup rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)

Heat oven to moderate (375 degrees). Beat shortening until creamy. Add sugar and beat until fluffy. Stir in eggs. Sift together ¾ cup of the flour, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Stir in fruit that has been mixed with remaining ¼ cup flour and oats.

Pour batter into greased, brown paper lined 1-quart star mold or an 8x4½x2½-inch loaf pan. Bake in preheated over (375 degrees) 45 to 50 minutes. Let cool about 10 minutes before removing from pan. If desired, dust with confectioners' sugar.

SUGAR PLUMS
(Makes 4½ dozen cookies)

- 1 cup chopped nutmeats
- 1 cup chopped dates
- 2 slices candied red pineapple, finely chopped
- 2 slices candied green pineapple, finely chopped
- ¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- 1½ teaspoons vanilla
- 3 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Heat oven to slow (300 degrees). Place nutmeats, dates and pineapple in bowl. Add flour, sugar, oats and vanilla. Mix well. Fold in beaten egg whites.

With greased hands, shape to form small balls, using about one teaspoon of mixture for each. Place on well-buttered cooky sheet. Bake in preheated oven (300 degrees) about 25 minutes. (Cookies do not spread during baking.)

COOKY CANES
(Makes 2 dozen canes)

- 1 cup butter or margarine, soft
- 1½ teaspoons vanilla
- ½ teaspoon almond extract
- ¼ cup sifted confectioners sugar
- 2 tablespoons water
- 2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)

Heat oven to slow (325 degrees). Beat butter, vanilla and almond extract together until creamy. Add sugar gradually; beat until fluffy. Add water. Sift together flour and salt; add to butter mixture, mixing thoroughly. Stir in oats. (Dough will be quite stiff.)

Shape to form candy canes. Place on ungreased cooky sheets. Bake in preheated oven (325 degrees) 20 to 25 minutes. Cool.

Frost canes with thin white confectioner's sugar frosting. Stripe with thick red frosting.

Barbecued Meats

Most everyone likes the zesty tang of barbecued spareribs, but did you ever think of the other meats which you might barbecue? There's lamb riblets, short ribs of beef, pot-roast, hamburgers, frankfurters and even canned luncheon meat.

Bake Cranberry Breads For Christmas

This Christmas make fruity loaves of Cranberry Nut Bread. Bake this delicious bread in loaf pans, casseroles, even empty food cans. Ideal for Christmas morning breakfast or to have on hand when friends drop in. Cranberry Bread stores well in the freezer so make several loaves in advance for thoughtful gifts. Wrap with a big red bow and copy the recipe on the back of the gift tag. Sure to be appreciated.

CRANBERRY NUT BREAD

- 2 cups all-purpose sifted flour
- 1 cup sugar
- 1½ tsp. double acting baking powder
- ½ tsp. soda
- 1 tsp. salt
- ¼ cup shortening
- ¾ cup orange juice
- 1 tbs. grated orange rind
- 1 egg, well beaten
- ½ cup chopped nuts
- 1 to 2 cups fresh cranberries, coarsely chopped

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, soda and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse cornmeal. Combine orange juice and grated rind with well beaten egg. Pour all at once into dry ingredients, mixing just enough to dampen. Carefully fold in chopped nuts and cranberries. Spoon into greased loaf pan (9x5x3-inches). Spread corners and sides slightly higher than center. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 1 hour until crust is golden brown and toothpick inserted comes out clean. Remove from pan. Cool. Store overnight for easy slicing.

CRANBERRY WHIPPED BUTTER: Let ¼ lb. butter soften at room temperature. Cream until smooth. Beat with mixer at high speed until fluffy. Fold in ½ cup whole berry cranberry sauce.

Every homemaker needs new ideas for food to serve at teas and brunch during this "get togther" season. Why not try Cranberry Holiday Coffee Cake. Features a topping of fresh cranberries smothered in a crumbly sugary topping. Super! Or serve Cranberry Wreaths, a treat made with packaged carmel nut or cinnamon rolls stopped with colorful cranberry sauce. Quick and tasty.

CRANBERRY HOLIDAY COFFEE CAKE

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 3 teaspoons double acting baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup sugar
- 5 tablespoons butter
- 1 egg, beaten
- ½ cup milk
- 2½ cups fresh cranberries, coarsely chopped

TOPPING

- ¼ cup all-purpose flour
- ½ cup sugar
- 3 tablepsoons butter

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Cut in butter with pastry blender until crumbly. Mix beaten egg and milk. Add to flour mixture. Stir slowly to mix, then beat until blended well. Spread batter evenly into 8x8x2-inch buttered baking dish. Sprinkle halved cranberries evenly over top. For topping, mix flour and sugar together. Cut in butter. Sprinkle over cranberries. Bake in 375-degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes, Makes 9 coffee cake squares.

CRANBERRY WREATH

- 1 package refrigerated carmel nut or cinnamon rolls
- ½ cup canned whole cranberry sauce

Heat oven to 375-degrees. Open rolls. Spread cranberry sauce evenly in bottom of 9-inch ring mold (lightly greased) If carmel nut rolls are used, crumble topping over cranberry sauce. Place rolls in mold, scroll side down with sides barely touching. Bake 25 minutes in 375-degree oven. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

HERE ARE THREE ways to bake the popular Cranberry Nut Bread. Pour batter into a loaf pan, empty juice cans or oven proof casserole. Frost the baked bread, or serve with cream cheese or butter.

Vary Appetizer Tray With These Hors d'Oeuvres

Every hostess is always on the lookout for new ideas for her hors d'oeuvre tray. It seems that a wide assortment of appetizers always makes the selection more impressive.

If you like to try new and different hors d'oeuvres to add that spark of variety, clip out these suggestions. Try them, along with your old stand-bys, the next time you're planning a party.

For a spicy, hot canape, pile Mexican Style Chili Beans on thin slices of buttered bread with crusts trimmed. Roll, fasten with toothpicks, and wrap a bacon slice around each. Toast them under the broiler until the bacon is crisp, and serve them piping hot.

Try this idea from the test kitchens. Mix left-over turkey or chicken with mayonnaise and chopped pimiento. Sandwihch between two dill pickle slices, and spear on hors d'oeuvre picks. Or, make a quick-and-easy spread by blending sweet pickle relish with cream cheese.

For fancy "Bulls-eye" hors d'oeuvres, home economists pass on this idea. Cut a loaf of sandwich bread lengthwise into ¼-inch slices. Remove crusts. Spread each slice with a mixture of equal parts of softened butter and anchovy paste (or use liverwurst, instead).

Place stuffed olives in a row across one side of each bread slice. Roll, starting at olive end, wrap in saran, and chill. Before serving, cut crosswise into "Bulls-eye" slices.

Yuletide's The Season To Burn Candles

Stout, Tall And Even Scented, All Have Special Glow

By BARBARA HOSMER

In modern terms candlelight means festivity, and the Yuletide season is the time when the special glow and decorative quality of the candle is most appropriate. The wise holiday hostess knows this, and some 65 per cent of the year's candle purchases are made in the months of November and December.

BUT IF "CANDLE" to you means the traditional tall taper in pink or white, you haven't been candle-conscious lately. Decorative candles come fat, skinny, tall, in pairs, clusters, crowds, as clowns, crowns, tulips, bauble trees and even as marbelized obelisks resembling the Washington monument. There are pine scented and bayberry candles, rope candles and peg-lites, an original design of clear or colored glass adapted from peg base oil lamps of 1840 made to convert old candleholders into oil lamps and now used to fit any standard candleholder or candelabrum.

With such variety and decorative purposes it's little wonder that candles are expected to be about a 400 million dollar retail sales this year, with Northern Californians burning about a million dollars' worth. And the largest West Coast producer of these decorative kinds is the Colonial of California plant of San Rafael, which was recently acquired by the Victrylite Candle Co. of Oshkosh, Wis.

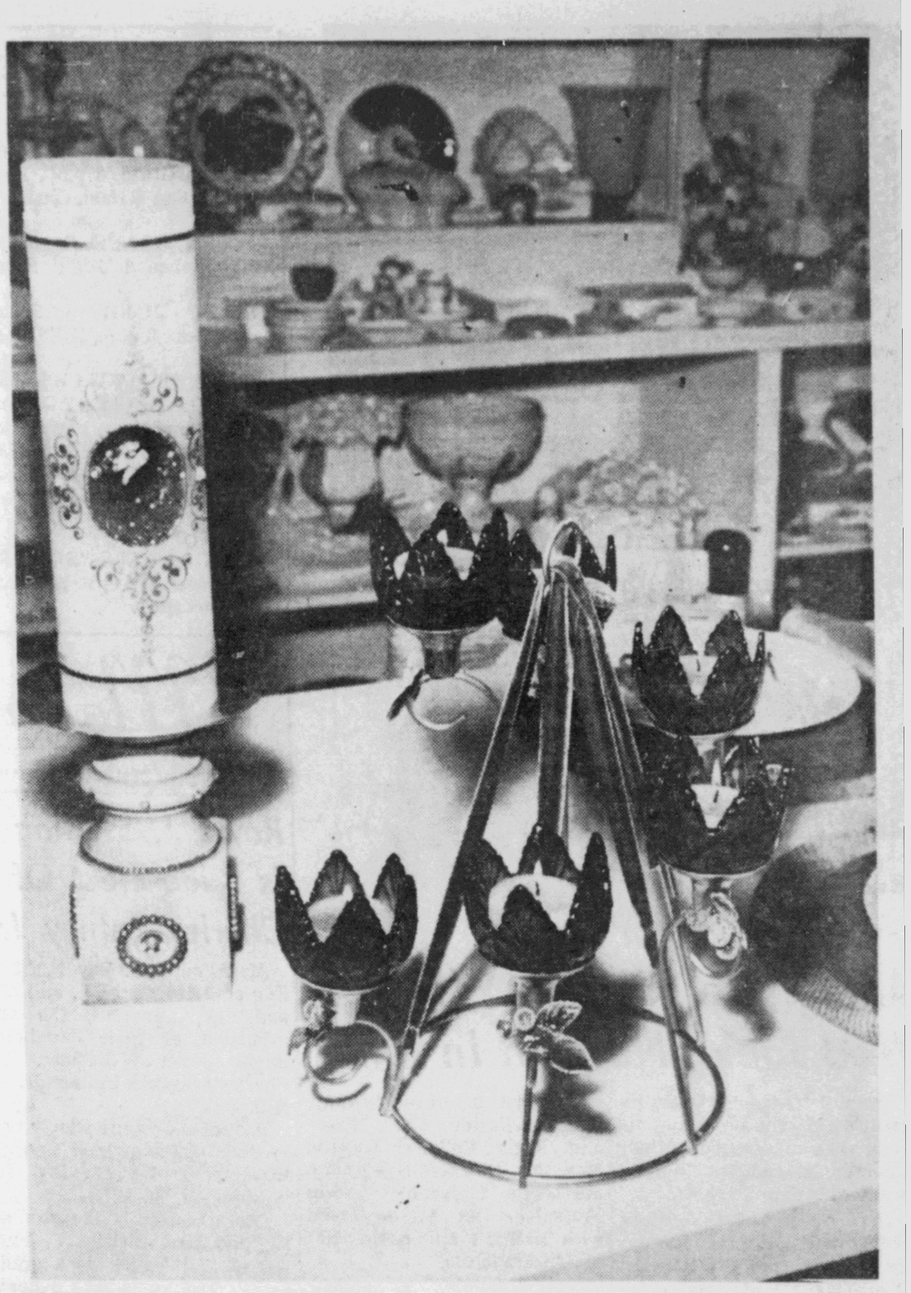
NORMALLY, WHITE candles outsell any other color about eight to one, says manufacturer's representative Douglas M. Stock of Kentfield, but at this time of year red and green are just as popular.

"Ivory is gaining for more formal parties and teas," he says, "and the West Coast favors the 'hot' colors."

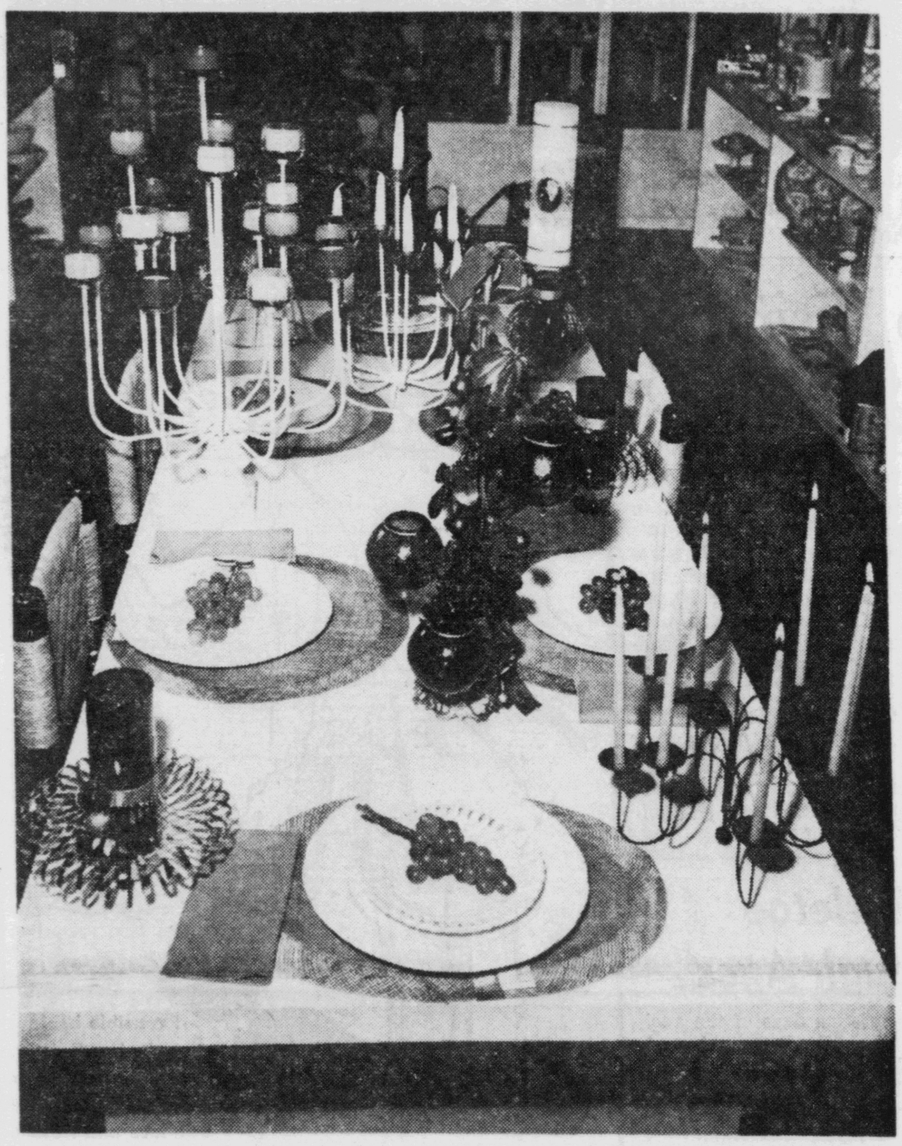
Mr. Stock offers a few tips —tapers will burn about an inch an hour, depending on drafts; any candle will drip in a draft, use lucite drip protectors around the base or decorative holders; for formal affairs wicks should be darkened or burned before actual lighting; as a general rule use tall candles with short holders and vice versa.

FROM NOW UNTIL the new year Marinites are combing shops in San Rafael, Larkspur, Sausalito and Belvedere for the particular candle design around which to create an original decorative arrangement for mantel, sideboard or table centerpiece.

THE PEG LITE fits easily into candelabra or any candleholder. Shown here in red, the clear or colored swirled glass design was adapted from peg base oil lamps of 1840 that converted candleholders into oil lamps. The glass peg has rubber gripper that fits any standard candleholder.



ELEGANT AND nearly two feet high, the giant Christmas candle and base featured a trumpeting angel soaring through a gold-lined opening in the white candle with its gold decoration and gold or white finished wood base. With it is the decorated six candle tree holder of golden wrought iron decorated in the Victorian manner with frosted fruit, leaves and moss green velvet ribbon. Red tulip lights are filled with pine scented candles, to give off a tangy scent as well as rosy glow. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)



MAJESTIC GLOW of candles is reflected in wide variety on a single table. Lower left, the festive light in red or green glass trunk with red, green or gold swirl that changes design with a flick; above it the 17 candelabra with jewel-like balloon shaped glass containers; rear center the jewel candolier; center front the popular Christmas bauble tree with glowing round red containers and red pears trimming the green leafed "tree"; at right the graceful eight tiny taper labra which also can be hung from the ceiling.

How To Select Safe Yule Tree

NEW YORK (UPI)—When you buy a Christmas tree, choose one which appears freshly cut.

Before buying, run your hand over the needles to determine if they are firmly attached. Needle fall indicates the tree is dry.

Keep the tree outdoors until you are ready to decorate. Wait until just before Christmas to set up the tree—in the coolest part of the room, away from radiators, heaters and the fireplace. This will keep the tree from drying and reduce the chance of fire.

More Children Learning Where Havana Is, As Geography 'In'

Geography is coming back, praise be. Once more children are learning where Havana is, as well as Berlin and Moscow. That's good, isn't it?

I can remember when teachers had to apologize for using maps in class. I once was scolded for drilling my eighth grade pupils on the names of the states and their capitals. A "progressive" school supervisor told me I was a fool, in so many words. "Don't you know," he asked me, "that geography is passe? Children don't need it any more." Whew!

The result? A generation of geographically illiterate boys and girls. Some California kids didn't know where their own state was located. On a famous test in New York hundreds of pupils said Canada was our neighbor to the south, and that Mexico lay to the north of us. On another test some Florida pupils said Washington, D.C. was somewhere in the southwest. Thousands of boys and girls confused Alabama with Albania, and Montana with Monaco.

The last few years have brought a big change. Modern classrooms are equipped with maps that are used. Globes are on hand, too. Current events are followed carefully. Time is taken to memorize names and places; drill is common. Geography books, well-written and well-illustrated, have reappeared. The once unpopular subject is popular again, and most children love it.

Who says we aren't improving? Welcome back, geography!

READERS' FORUM

(Q) "What are the social studies?"

Mrs. M. R.

(A) The social studies are an attempt to blend the previously separate subjects of history, civics, and geography. The theory is good. In many places the results were fine from the start. As I see it, the loss of name and place geography was the greatest weakness. However, nothing stands still. That weakness has been overcome, in most places.

Powers Of The Mistletoe Have Varied Through Ages

By JUNIUS GRIFFIN

NEW YORK (AP)—A tip to the Casanova who wants to impress an intellectual girl this Christmas:

When you catch her under the mistletoe:

1. Kiss her.
2. Tell her about mistletoe's roots in folklore.

Does she know that despite mistletoe's popular reputation as the yuletide promoter of romance, it also is known as a criminal killer of forests, and superstition credits the plant with still another evil role?

THE SUPERSTITION says that if the yuletide mistletoe bough isn't removed from the house by Candlemas Eve—Feb. 1—each leaf left will produce a goblin to plague the careless occupants during the year.

The use of mistletoe as a symbol of love, peacemaking and goodwill survives from the pre-Christian days of the ancient Scandinavian light god, Balder, whose palace stood in the Milky Way.

The beloved Balder, according to myth, was slain by a mistletoe arrow but was restored to life through the intercession of the other gods.

CUSTODY OF THE mistletoe plant was then entrusted to the goddess of love who ordained that henceforth anyone passing beneath its bough should receive a kiss in token of love, not vengeance. As long as the mistletoe was held high it never could be used as a power for evil.

State's No. 1 Problem Is Education

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Education is perhaps California's No. 1 problem of this population explosion era. School enrollment doubled, but the bill for education tripled in the past decade.)

By HAROLD V. STREETER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—More children go to school in California than there are people—men, women and children—in each of 38 other states.

Your little Johnny and Mary are among more than 4.5 million trooping to public, private, parochial and high schools in the nation's new No. 1 state in population.

And education is easily its No. 1 problem.

Add to the 4.5 million those in colleges and the figure soars past five million. Only eight other states—New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Texas, Michigan, New Jersey and Massachusetts— can top that, counting everybody.

Don't let the bigness bulge your chest. Deflate it with this breathtaking fact: While population and school enrollment didn't quite double in the 10 years between 1950 and 1960, the education bill almost tripled.

The California Bankers Assn. recently made a survey of 10 aspects of the population explosion. One was education. This survey put the public school bill in 1950 at $507,311,328.51. For 1960-1961, it listed the bill — hold your breath — at $1,518,184,029.21. That's billion, brother!

A spokesman for the State Department of Education says the current bill is nudging 1.75 billion dollars. This thing is too big even for those who try to guess what will happen.

The State Department of Finance has experts whose computations of current population prove out astoundingly accurate. Yet back in 1955 a department expert foresaw that it would be 1970 before the public school population rose to 4,345,000.

At that time, Dr. Roy Simpson, state superintendent of public instruction, cautioned that this might be conservative. How right he was.

Now the State Department of Education is projecting the likelihood of a public school enrollment of 5,105,000 within 10 years. You can almost bank on it—if not sooner.

At the outset of 1962, the State Department of Education reported public school enrollment of more than 4,240,000 represented a gain of 5.7 per cent over the previous school year. In the same period, the gain nationally was only 2.2 per cent in elementary schools and 4.5 in high schools.

But California was bucking the tide with some success. The state department reported that double sessions—half-day classes—involved 201,391 pupils in 1955, was down to 93,952 in 1960 to 66,173 in 1961, and currently is estimated at right around 50,000.

The problem will persist. The National Education Assn., basing its findings on U. S. Census Bureau files, predicts that by 1965 California will have two million under five years of age, more than 4.8 million between five and 17, and 1,196,000 between 18 and 23.

The survey of the California Bankers Assn. lists 600,000 full or part-time students in institutions of higher learning. This is expected to reach 665,000 by 1975.

The survey also pointed out that enrollment in California junior colleges amounts to 47 per cent of the total for all junior colleges in the United States.

All this adds up to a monumental headache.

How is the bill to be footed while raising standards in a state where the average classroom teacher's salary is $6,700? What's the wisest way to handle a public school bill that is higher than for 43 other states combined?

Back in 1955, Gov. Goodwin J. Knight observed at an educational conference that, just to meet needs for the next five years:

"We should construct a new classroom almost every 10 minutes of every working day for the next 60 months." Estimated cost? Nearly two billion dollars.

The 1963 legislature will face up to proposals for a broader method of financing public schools in California.

Specialists in the State Department of Education, aided by such groups as the California Taxpayers Assn., have come up with this plan:

A countywide tax of 60 cents on each $100 assessed valuation at the elementary school level and 50 cents at the high school level. These would replace equivalent taxes now levied by local school districts.

Another proposal is for a statewide tax for junior colleges.

The 1961 legislature looked over similar proposals and said no. But opinions are changing in changing times.

In the 1962 June primary, California voters turned down a proposal for a 270-million-dollar bond issue, 80 per cent for college construction purposes. Came November. They voted it in.

Those three R's now stand for reading, 'rithmetic — and revenue.

The President's Commission on Campaign Costs reported expeditures in behalf of all candidates for public office in 1960 totaled $165 to $175 million.

Teeners Raise Funds For Center At Project 17 In Mill Valley

Mill Valley teen-agers have, on their own hook, stacked up $450 toward a teen-age recreation center on Project 17.

The initial push came from 13 youngsters who opened a; Christmas tree lot a week ago, sold out their stock and deposited $375 in a special fund at the Northwestern Savings and Loan Assn. in Mill Valley.

With $75 donated by businessmen and teen-agers, this brings the Mill Valley recreation center fund to $450, according to Clay Underhill, member of the youth activities committee.

"It proves," said Underhill, "that the youths are willing to put some of their sweat and blood into the drive besides just talking about it.

"They didn't even take money out of their fund to go eat lunch. Everything was going in the recreation fund and that was it. They are really in earnest."

Underhill said that anyone wishing to donate to the fund may do so through John T. Little, Mill Valley postmaster, or Capt. Joe Canet of the police department.

Marinites Hostess For MARC Benefit Tour At Marin Bay

Marin Bay is the locale of two demonstration houses now open for public inspection. MARC (Marin Aid to Retarded Children), is sponsoring the tour of these homes. One home is made of plywood and the other is an all steel frame house.

THE PROCEEDS WILL go to MARC, a project of the Junior League of San Francisco, Inc. The Junior League helped both financially and in volunteer assistance in giving MARC its start.

Mrs. John Thomas McKeever is in charge of the tour of the demonstration homes and assisting her are Mesdames Orton Buckner, John Larson, Chapin Coit, Stephen Manning, James Green, and David Harrington, W. J. Kubon, Benton Sifford and A. E. Castle.

THE GARAGES OF the two houses have been set up for baby-sitting, and teen-agers have volunteered to watch the children while their mothers tour the homes. These teen-agers are members of Jobs Daughters, Bethel 48 of San Rafael and Bethel 246 of Larkspur. Also helping with the baby-sitting is Coquette Tri Y Club of San Anselmo.

The tour will continue throughout December and the hours are 2 to 5 p.m. on weekdays and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and noon to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Dinners Planned Throughout Marin Before Debutante Ball

Dinner preceding the first Marin Debutante Ball Thursday evening at Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club will be for the debutantes and their escorts only, so ball guests and committee members are planning a host of pre-ball dinners elsewhere.

Many prefer the French cuisine, and both Fleur de Lys in San Anselmo and La Petite Auberge in San Rafael will be the scene of large gatherings. At the San Rafael restaurant Judge and Mrs. Jordan Martinelli will be dinner hosts to their sons, Jordan and Roderick Martinelli and their wives, also Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dixon and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilkins.

Also gathering there at a no-host table will be many of the members of the sponsoring Marin General Hospital Auxiliary, with their husbands and guests.

THE GROUP WILL include Messrs. and Mesdames Fred Drexler, Harrison Leppo, John Finn III, Ernest Mendenhall, Lawrence McNear and William Dawson.

Also with the group will be Messrs. and Mesdames Kent O. Seymour, Lewis Carpenter Jr., Donald Westerbeke, William Hamilton, L. C. Beringer, Robert Quinlan, Thomas F. Kostic, Gordon Otis Jacobs and Mesdames Delmar Clinton, Arthur Kanzee, Philip Crane, June Hazeltine and Frank Stratford.

THE PARENTS OF several of the debs will also be dinner hosts there. The Jack Wilseys, whose daughter, Kathy, will make her bow, will entertain the Alfred Wilseys and Mr. and Mrs. Max Herzog; and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vest of Kent Woodlands, parents of deb Patty Vest, will have Messrs. and Mesdames Charles Trost, William Hogan, and Ernest Peterson, their daughter Diane Vest, Dr. Ernest Epstein and Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Garrett, whose son James will be Patty's escort. Deb Carolyn Caletti's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Caletti of San Rafael will also be dinner hosts there.

Over at the Fleur de Lys Dr. and Mrs. Dale E. Barber of Napa will be hosts to a small group before the ball, where their daughter Dale will bow, and deb Karen Evans' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans of Kent Woodlands will entertain a foursome. Also there will be Mr. and Mrs. John Reichmuth of San Anselmo, whose daughter, Barbara, will bow both at the Marin Ball and the Cotillion in San Francisco. They'll be hosts to Barbara's grandmother, Mrs. Effingham Sutton over from San Francisco, and other family members.

Joining the Barbers will be Mr. and Mrs. Russell Westover Jr. of San Rafael, whose daughter, Gail, will bow.

THERE WILL BE dinner festivities at home as well. In Ross ball guests will gather at the Russell Smith home, the Floyd Gilmans' and Victors Fursts' and Robert Elliotts'.

Guests at the Smiths' will include their daughter and her husband, Constance and John Manwaring, Mrs. Paul Scott Foster, Drs. and Mesdames Thomas B. Wiper up from Sausalito, and Edwin L. Bruck, neighbors of the hosts; Messrs. and Mesdames Barrett G. Hindes, Albert Evers, Theodore Griffinger, Philip McCoy, Henry Drath, Dudley Miller, James McNab and R. J. Drews.

In the group gathered for cocktails at the Elliott home will be Mr. and Mrs. Noble Hamilton Jr., who will go on to the ball where her daughter, Taffy Evans will make her bow.

Messrs. and Mesdames Henry Skinner, LeRoy Page, Rudy Lang and Howard Good will be among the guests at the Floyd Gilmans' whose daughter, Charlotte, is a deb. Other guests will be Charlotte's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Whitney of San Francisco.

AMONG THE GROUP hosted by the Victors Fursts, whose daughter Patty Charlton will bow, and the John Cahills of Kentfield at the Furst home will be the parents of several of the debs, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Onstott of Gridley, Mrs. C. Bullard Nugent of Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pierson Plummer of San Francisco. Other guests will include family members of the debs.

Kent Woodlands homes will be the setting for other pre-ball festivities, when the Mozart Kaufmans entertain at a buffet supper, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Halley are dinner hosts to a group including Messrs. and Mesdames Leon Smith, Frank Paganini, John Campion, Dewey Donnell of Sonoma and Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Newton Longfellow. Another group will gather for dinner at the home of Mrs. Thomas T. Kent. Her guests will include Mr. and Mrs. A. Crawford Greene and Miss Doris Schmeidell of Ross, Mr. and Mrs. William Kent Jr. of San Francisco, as well as other San Franciscans.

The Walter Abrahams, parents of deb Carla, will have dinner with a group of 10 at their home in Fairhills.

THE WILLIAM F. RILEYS of Sausalito have invited two couples from out of town to have dinner with them at a Sausalito restaurant. They are Dr. and Mrs. Clair Burnett of Susanville and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Hansen of Sacramento.

The Russell Keils will entertain Judge and Mrs. Richard M. Sims Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Noah at their home at Keil Cove.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Edwards of San Anselmo will have dinner at their home for a small group from Piedmont, Mrs. Edwards' daughter, Kathy Bryan will bow at the ball, and Judge and Mrs. Lloyd Burke of Piedmont, parents of her escort, Brian Burke, will be dinner guests of the Edwards.

Marin Women

Swedish Symbol

Lucia, a legendary figure wearing a crown of lighted candles, is a favorite Christmas symbol in Sweden. During the Christmas season, she visits factories, schools and offices. She sings the Lucia song and distributes coffee and Lucia-buns.

Backwards Jacket

The straight jacket isn't such a mad idea after all. Designer Rudi Gernreich proved it by creating a suit with a jacket that looks as if it was put on backwards. It has a notched collar, three buttons down the spine, and a cutaway effect at the hips.

NUIT DE NOEL

Caron's famous "Christmas Night" — a heady, intriguing fragrance that challenges a woman's charm (and a man's interest). One of the great perfumes of our time — particularly appropriate to the season.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Chemicals In Food Not Threat' Some Would Have You Believe

VAN DELLEN

It has been said America could not feed itself without the aid of chemicals. These additives are not as poisonous as some "nature" enthusiasts want to believe. They make it possible to provide many more wholesome foods at a cost we can afford and during all seasons of the year.

There are two types of food additives. The intentional additives are introduced deliberately to accomplish a specific function in the food. The incidental additives become part of the food unavoidably and serve no useful purpose in the finished products.

THE NUTRITIONAL supplements are among our most important intentional food additives. These include vitamins, minerals, and amino acids. Flour and bread are enrished with thiamin, riboflavin, niacin, iron, and calcium. We may ask why these nutrients were removed from the flour in the first place. The old-fashioned flour spoiled rapidly and food scientists found ways to make it last longer. This meant removing that part of the wheat containing these vitamins. Restoring these nutrients and adding others provide a wholesome food for the masses of people.

Fortified cereals, idoized salt, vitamin D fortified milk, and vitamin A fortified margarine also are examples of the concept of enrichment and restoration of key nutrients in certain staple foods.

OTHER SUBSTANCES are added to enhance the flavor or act as a preservative. Salt, spices, essential oils, and aromatic chemicals are examples. Anti-oxidants delay the rancidity in fats; anti-mycotics prevent molding of bread, citrus fruits, and cheese; vitamin C prevents darkening of certain fruits and vegetables such as sliced apples, frozen peaches, and peeled potatoes. Various other additives are used to keep food products from separating and maintain a smooth, uniform texture. There also are maturing agents, acids, alkalies, and coloring.

The incidental or unintentional additives are creating more problems because they are not so easy to control. The headliners in this group are residuals of pesticides and fallout.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

HEALTH IN THE STOUT

C.H. writes: Is it true that fat people don't get sick as often as the thin?

REPLY

No, but when the obese get sick the outcome is not always as good as in the lean. In addition, the overweight are more likely to develop diabetes, high blood pressure, heart disease, or arthritis. They also have a higher mortality rate.

SPINAL CURVATURE

P.M. writes: Is curvature of the spine, caused by undernourished bones or rickets, hereditary?

REPLY

There are many causes of curvature of the spine, including rickets and hereditary and nonhereditary bone disorders. Other causes include poor posture and differences in the lengths of the legs.

SCARLATINA

J. V. writes: Years ago we used to hear about scarlatina. What has happened to this disease?

REPLY

Nothing. This disease still occurs, but under the name of scarlet fever. It is a mild form of the infection and is quickly kayoed by penicillin.

AT EASE

F.M.L. writes: How can an old-timer of 70 learn to relax?

REPLY

By doing what comes naturally. He must have learned how years ago to have reached 70, and probably is more relaxed than he realizes.

6 Counties Actually Losing Population

(EDITOR'S NOTE: California is gaining 50,000 residents a month but—six counties are actually losing. And such cities as Oakland and Richmond are beating back from decreases, here's how.)

By HAROLD V. STREETER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—California, adding 50,000 a month to its more than 17 million residents, recently passed New York as the nation's most populous state.

But—would you believe it?—some half dozen of the 58 counties have lost people.

One is the city-county of San Francisco. Between 1950 and 1960, it had a deficit of more than 34,000, then picked up 4,000. The present 745,000 are sardined into 46.5 square miles, 45.4 of it at the tip of a peninsula. And suburbia is calling.

That's more than 16,000 people to the square mile if you take in everything: downtown, Golden Gate Park, school grounds, the beach, Alcatraz prison, Yerba Buena Island, Treasure Island and the Farallon Islands 25 miles out in the Pacific.

But if you want to be realistic and use the 23.3 square miles where they actually live, it comes to almost 32,000 a square mile—ouch, move over; you're crowding!

Every day by plane, train, bus, car and ship an average of 250,000 more—working commuters, tourists — crowd into San Francisco. And where do I park?

The Army Corps of Engineers, using a fast pencil, has come up with the calculation of 937,600 in the city by 1990. Without annexation, there is the impulsive vision of people standing on people.

Another population loser is the little central mountainous county of Mariposa—named for another part of the population, butterflies. Every year, it has more than a million visitors. But they don't stay. They have come to see the wonders of Yosemite National Park.

Near the north end of the Gold Rush country — where the population explosion started in the first place, back in 1849 — is a tier of four counties which lost people. But it certainly wasn't for lack of room.

In just two, Modoc and Lassen, you could put all 8,257 square miles of the state of Massachusetts and still have land left.

Modoc, in the extreme northeast corner of California, has another and less migratory population—90 per cent of the nation's mule deer.

It also has a historical record of a previous population decline. In the 1860s, the Indians massacred so many white people that Ft. Bidwell had to be built in Surprise Valley to put a stop to it.

Four of the 1950-1960 population losers, Modoc, Lassen, Plumas and Sierra, are crowded with something other than people—trees. Five-sixths of Sierra's 958 square miles are forested. Not counting the vast national forests, these four counties alone have a saw timber reserve of 50 billion board-feet.

"It is not anticipated that population growth in Modoc, Lassen, Plumas and Sierra counties will keep pace with that of the state," reads an analysis prepared for The Associated Press by the Economic Development Agency.

"The economies of the four counties are presently based on lumbering and agriculture. It would appear that the only significant possibility for rapid growth would be found in major expansion of lumbering. This is not, however, anticipated in the near future."

But what about San Francisco? Nothing to worry about, say the experts on such matters. While its population dropped from 755,357 in 1950 to the current 745,000, the two counties below it on the same peninsula have soared from 526,206 to 1,252,900.

Just across the Golden Gate to the north, Marin County has advanced since 1950 from 85,619 to a current 166,700. So San Francisco's trading power has gone nowhere but up.

Actually, even its population losses spell progress. More than 7,000 are accounted for by elimination of temporary war housing. South of Market Street, substandard dwellings gave way to such crying needs as parking lots. That dispatched another 6,500. Demolitions in the Western Addition to make way for new construction caused a loss of nearly 15,000.

Freeways also took their toll.

Three redevelopments, planned or in progress, promise 6,908 new housing units, the bulk of them apartments. And the Department of City Planning, looking to the future, has the revamped city's holding capacity at 848,530.

Across the bay Oakland offers another interesting situation. It's a city with many big, old houses.

"You never saw anything like it during the war," recalls Forrest Michell, assistant superintendent of schools and an avid student of population changes.

"Families in the basement, families upstairs, a family in the attic. Some of the places still had old barns and water tanks for windmills, used in a previous generation.

"Even they were converted to living quarters."

The war ended and away went the people. Oakland slumped from 384,575 in 1950 to 367,548 in 1960. The latest count by the city's planning department puts it at 372,046.

But the surrounding trade area has blossomed. Oakland's county of Alameda went up from 740,315 in 1950 to a current 946,700. Nearby Contra Costa has shot up from 298,984 to 448,200.

An interesting sidelight, observed with much concern by Michell, is the rapidly shifting school population.

"While the city's population went down, school attendance didn't," he points out.

"But the turnover is a headache. A class of 35 may wind up the year even a little bit larger but with scarcely a child in it at the end who was there at the start."

Oakland's landscape is changing. In the past five years, 2,583 single family units, 9,375 multiple-apartment-units and 125 multiple public housing units have sprung up — while 5,064 were destroyed to make way for freeways and schools.

But if you want to look at startling change, consider Richmond, a city that lost more than 27 per cent of its population in 10 years. War gave it a booming shipyard, a plant making shell casings, another doing milling work on bombers.

Peace gave it a shocking kick in the pants. Down fell the population from 99,545 in 1950 to 71,854 in 1960. Cooler heads took stock. Six years ago, leading citizens created an industrial commission. It hired an industrial coordinator.

Beckman Instruments moved in. United Grocers set up headquarters. Eyesore war housing went out. New housing units, such as the 800 on the east shore, went up. A postwar civic center was built, including a library with a circulation of more than half a million volumes. Richmond hasn't come all the way back. But it's on the way.

And that sums up the story of The Losers. The other side of the population coin isn't always bright. But it's being polished.

Trend Toward Leasing Equipment

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market break and the profit squeeze were among the things this year that boosted the trend toward leasing rather than owning production and office equipment. And the new depreciation rules and the more optimistic feeling should further its growth in 1963.

That's the view of leaders in the leasing business, as you might expect, when they assess the changes in their rapidly growing form of financing. One change is the lengthening of the term of leases and another is lower rates in many instances.

Leasing is done either by the manufacturers themslves who rent out their products rather than sell them, or by outside firms specializing in this form of financing.

They estimate that American companies this year leased $900 million of production and office equipment, for a gain of 25 per cent over 1961. This doesn't include the renting instead of owning of plants, stores, hotels, commercial buildings and other real estate.

The financing firms estimate the total for production and office equipment should top $1 billion in 1963. And the trend toward longer terms should continue. Extension of the life of loans market other lending institutions this year and last. The big leasing companies estimate that this year up to 90 per cent of their business was done on a five-year or longer basis. When leasing of equipment started some 10 years ago terms generally were for only a year or two.

Some half dozen leasing corporations that operate on a national basis have grown to the point where they now can obtain funds in the money market at lower interest than when they started as small concerns. This has allowed them to bring lease rates down, an important sales point in the increasingly competitive world of finance.

"The profit squeeze in many industries is helping our business," says Robert Sheridan, president of Nationwide Leasing Company, Chicago, "because it cuts the cash flow and increases the need for other financing of new equipment wanted for cost cutting.

"The stock market break also led to more leasing by companies that formerly turned to the public for new long term capital.

"The new depreciation rules for tax purposes, as they spark increased capital spending, will help our business because we are allowed by the law to pass on the credit to our lessees."

Big leasing corporations have turned to many specialized functions. One is financing mergers and acquisitions by buying the assets of the smaller company and leasing them back to the merged company. Another is underwriting the growth of medium sized family-owned businesses. Leasing permits them to expand without diluting their equity or surrendering control of their firms.

Other functions leasing corporations stress in their sales talk is the converting of fixed assets into working capital by sale and lease-back, and allowing companies in highly competitive fields to acquire new equipment without draining their current funds.

Why Fly South In Social Democracy?

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Some four hundred swans, by nature migratory birds, have abandoned their natural ways for the Swedish system of benevolent social democracy.

Instead of heading south at the first sign of winter, as any biology textbook would have them do, they land on the North Stream in downtown Stockholm.

There, on a raft moored just below the opera house, they are treated to vitamin enriched foods, veterinary care and, if necessary, laundry service.

And the gentle currents of the Stream keeps the water ice free enough for a daily constitutional swim across to the Royal Palace.

For more than 20 years, the city fathers have maintained a number of feeding stations for nonmigratony birds and fowl during the inclement winter season. Some eight years ago, a few swans got wise and joined the wintering gulls, terns and ducks around the feeding raft. Since then, the number of wintering swans has increased to about 400 by last estimate.

Each day during the winter, the city parks department distributes some 15 sacks of bread crumbs, some 200 pounds of wheat and corn kernels and some 200 pounds of cabbage, calcium and whale oil compound to provide the winter guests with a balanced diet.

Injured birds are taken ashore for veterinary treatment, and feather dresses damaged by waste oil from the ships in the harbor are washed at the Skansen Aimal Park.

"They sure know when they are well off, these swans," city caretaker Fritz Israelsson commented. "They know me all right, and they recognize my truck as well. They see me coming way off in the morning, and make a beeline for the feeding raft."

The swans, along with the gulls and ducks, are fed each morning at 8. It is a great show for the tourists.

But Stockholm tourist boss Eric Thor doesn't like it just the same:

"We're upsetting the balance of nature," he said. "We are extending the welfare state idea into the animal kingdom . . ."

JANITOR SERVICES for Swedish swans are handled by the Stockholm Parks Department. Here a Parks Department employe chips ice off the edge of the swans' feeding raft.

Women Voters Do Service With Government Pamphlet

We'd like to say a few kind words about a six-month job completed by a group of Marin women which can be of real benefit to residents of the county.

We refer to publication of the pamphlet "Your County—Marin," compiled and published as a public service by the League of Women Voters of Central Marin.

The pamphlet is a citizen's guide to Marin County government, its operations, cost, population, history (too brief), and personnel. You can find everything in it from the population of your supervisorial district to the duties of the county pound or the names and phone number of county offices which have moved to the Civic Center.

There's much more in it too, in capsule and easily available form. It's interesting to see how county government can spend nearly $14 million this year, where it comes from and goes.

There is much information there too, which will become obsolete as another fiscal year rolls around. We hope that this is not just a one-time project by the ladies of the LofWV. We hope that they have undertaken it as a continuing project which year after year will update their compact and effective pamphlet.

No More Moody Postcards

Recent readers of the Independent-Journal may not identify the name H. G. Moody, Corte Madera or Fairfax or San Anselmo (he lived in all three in 16 years).

But those who have been reading "What Our Readers Say" for a long time, will immediately identify the name with some of the keenest, briefest, and most pointed letters ever to be run there.

Herbert Moody had a background as a newspaper editor and publisher. When he retired, he made use of his ability through a voluminous correspondence. His letters to this and other papers crackled with good sense and interest. He could sum up a situation and offer a solution on a postcard.

It was a joy to receive his communications. Even in recent months when his final illness was impairing his ability to either write or successfully punch typewriter keys, his spirit kept him trying. Those last few postcards were hard to read, but worth it, for his keen mind was unimpaired.

Herbert G. Moody died last week at 72. We have lost a fine fellow newspaperman and friend.

EVEN THE THIEF COOPERATED

A thief gave up a stolen Renoir painting, valued at $30,000, because the owner promised to donate it to a museum if he did so.

It belonged to the collection of a Japanese cabinet minister and was stolen during a public showing in Tokyo.

The official announced in the newspapers that if the painting were returned he would give it to one of the city's museums so that all could see the masterpiece whenever they wished.

Apparently touched by the appeal, the thief secretly left the painting on the back of a delivery truck where it was readily found.

In the heart of every person there is a reflection of divine love and truth. No matter how far he may drift from this image of God within him, it is always possible to revive the heavenly spark.

Strive, therefore, to find the element of good in the worst of men and build on it. You are bound to accomplish much good if you do.

"For I have come to call sinners, not the just." (Matthew 9:13)

Help me to see Your holy image, O Lord, especially in those who stray far from You.

HAL BOYLE'S COLUMN

Poor Wilbur Just Couldn't Find A Yule Tree To Please His Wife

ANYTOWN, U.S.A. (AP) — Just like every other average American husband, Wilbur Peeble had two big Christmas duties.

One was to pick out a nice present for his wife which she could exchange the next week for something she really wanted, his other chore was to buy the family tree.

As he set out on his annual tree hunt, Wilbur's wife, Trellis Mae, said helpfully: "Try to find one that doesn't have a bad side."

Stumbling through the frigid night, Wilbur mumbled bitterly to himself.

"Find one that doesn't have a bad shape. Find one that doesn't have a bad side. For 20 years she's been giving me that same old business," he mumbled.

In the darkness, Wilbur squared his jaw and vowed, "Well, by thunder, this year I will find one!"

Stamping his feet in the cold, Wilbur looked over hundreds of trees in half a dozen corner lots.

It was after midnight and Wilbur was about to give up. Then he came to the last corner lot. A little old man stood alone amid his trees that had yet to find a home.

"I want a tree that doesn't have a bad side," said Wilbur abruptly.

"Son, you have come to the right place," he said. "I've been selling Christmas trees, man and boy, for half century, and this year—for the first time—I've got an absolutely perfect tree."

He led Wilbur to the back of the lot. There, alone in shimmering beauty, stood a 10-foot tree, the like of which Wilbur had never seen.

Every needle was bright green and firm and strong. The branches arched in flawless symmetry. Wilbur inspected it with a flashlight for 15 minutes, but could find no flaw. His quest was over.

"I had intended to spray this tree with preservative and donate it to the Smithsonian Institution," said the little old man. "But, recognizing in you a fellow artist, a man with a true soul, I could be talked into parting with it for $22.95."

WILBUR SIGHED, paid, took the tree home and set it up in its stand. Then he lay down on a sofa to rest.

Trellis Mae had been visiting down the hall. A few moments later she entered with a neighbor, who had come to borrow a cup of sugar. Wilbur watched silently as the two women studied the tree.

"NICE," commented the neighbor finally, "but I think I'd turn it a little to the left." The two women did turn the tree.

"Yes, you're right," agreed Trellis Mae. "Now the bad side hardly shows at all."

Wilbur sank back on the sofa and groaned.

Moral: Wives don't really believe in perfect Christmas trees—or perfect husbands.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Share Our Plenty With Someone

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Mrs. Eager suggests through your letters column that a tangible way of "putting Christ back in Christmas" would be to contribute to the Chamber of Commerce for restoration of the Christmas scene on the Courthouse lawn.

An additional suggestion might be that we share our plenty with someone in need. There are, for instance, two million Algerian refugees in distress, following years of destructive warfare in their country. To understand their condition, we would have to imagine ourselves living with only the clothing on our backs, sleeping in pup-tents out in the countryside, consuming half to one-third the amount of food we are accustomed to daily.

One of the programs set up by the American Friends Service Committee, as a part of the Quaker social concerns, is trying to help these people in a very practical fashion by providing them blankets. A five-dollar contribution to the AFSC will purchase two all-wool blankets which will be placed directly in their hands. Or, one may contribute a used blanket, and it will be packaged and delivered.

There are many opportunities for us to make our gifts. This one seems especially worthy of consideration because of its directness in providing warmth and comfort to fellow human beings who are miserably in need of both.

Freeways Three Times As Safe

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

You recently published a letter signed by Ben Chamberlain who describes himself as a "freeway hater." Mr. Chamberlain apparently is under the impression that freeways cause accidents and the way to reduce accidents is to eliminate the freeways.

I wish to point out as a matter of statistical record, that our freeways are at least three times as safe as conventional highways. The idea that they cause accidents is simply not true. They are designed and constructed with built-in safety features such as complete control of access, physical separation of opposing traffic and high design standards.

To some, it may appear that accidents are caused by congested traffic on freeways, but the truth is, more traffic can be moved safely on this type of facility than any other type.

If we were to exchange all of our freeways for roads like the present Shoreline Highway in Marin County, as suggested by Mr. Chamberlain, I am quite sure that not only would our accident rate become excessive, but our transportation system would fail completely.

Subdivision Fence Is A Problem

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

It will be appreciated if you will print the following letter which because of the subject may be of interest to taxpayers of the Tamalpais High School district, and upon which they may wish to express themselves to the city officials of Larkspur.

City Council
Larkspur

At the last meeting of the planning commission the final map of Greenbrae Marina subdivision Number One was approved, and therefore development may be expected to follow in the very near future.

This action brings to mind a problem which should have the early consideration of the planning commission and upon which your interest and support is invited.

The area in question lies immediately to the north of Redwood High School, and the problem is that adjoining lots of the subdivision back upon, rather than face, school property. The proposal is that an understanding be reached regarding proper fencing and landscaping of this property before sale and construction begin, and that such an accord be reduced to writing and recorded.

Those in authority are to be commended for the development and landscaping now taking place at the high school. However, a visit to the site will illustrate what can happen when the rear fences of Heather Gardens are viewed from the high school. This is not in criticism either expressed or implied of the residents of this district, for the homes were there before the high school. An example of what can be done is found along the Greenbrae portion of Sir Francis Drake Blvd.

Such a proposal, it is believed, should have wide community acceptance and approval. Those with whom it has been discussed have expressed interest and a desire to cooperate. However, as in most such matters, time is of the essence and because of the foregoing your active interest and endorsement, by resolution or otherwise is solicited.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

For many years, sessions of the Dutch Treat Club in New York were enlivened by the sallies of the perennial chairman, Clarence Budington Kelland. At one luncheon he remarked, "I know that the duty of a master of ceremonies is to be so confoundedly dull that the speakers he subsequently introduces will be dazzlingly brilliant by contrast." The speakers of the day chuckled heartily.

"I've looked over the list of our speakers for today, however," he continued sadly, "and I don't think I can do it."

The audience roared. The speakers did not.

There is a fable about a very wise old man who was visited by a delegation of malcontents determined to tell him their troubles.

Suggested the wise man, "Write down your greatest trouble on a piece of paper." Then then threw all the papers into a pot and said, "Now each of you draw a paper and by all the laws of probability you will have brand-new troubles to fret over."

The malcontents followed his suggestion. Then they read the new troubles they had been saddled with. The result: every single one of them clamored immediately to have their own trouble back!

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By RANDALL GOULD

Why Not Let Public Fill Up Dec. 24 I-J With Anything They Want?

Somehow an Independent-Journal is going to have to be produced next Monday, Dec. 24. It might easily be a drab issue turned out by bored workers. But with the aid of a brilliant idea I have just hatched, the whole thing could become a vast pleasure and profit to all.

What lies heavy on my mind is that throughout the year nobody ever really has his say in the current day's paper.

As a fine Christmas present to Marin County, why not eliminate all feeble efforts at newsgathering on Dec. 24, a day not renowned for hot news anyhow, and let the public speak freely?

NATURALLY THERE must be exceptions. I have two right on the tip of my mind. One is the typical "Dear Editor" letter-writer, who gets plenty of space the year round. The other is our homegrown poets for whom no amount of space would ever be enough.

Top priority should be given, as I see it, to Supervisor Bill Fusselman, if only because he sometimes displays such sincerity as to buy paid space in the I-J to make clear all angles of his thinking.

Fusselman feels the public should be fully informed of his reasons for official action. I try to go along with this worthy idea, but our harsh news editor, needing space and not considering views news, cuts heavily.

MY FEELING is that any political figure who buys advertising to speak his piece should enter a journalistic heaven somehow. This is the best equivalent I can think of for the good Fusselman.

His colleague, Peter Behr, certainly should make lively use of any chance we can give him. Let me now record his first utterance on entering the new luxurious Civic Center chambers this week. Gazing about, Behr benevolently chuckled and remarked, We'll do the same old stupid things, but here they will sound better!"

Other candidates come to mind in such thronging numbers that it is impossible to name enough names to count—you'll just have to catch my idea and press for its realization.

Having spoken of Fusselman, how about Planning Commissioner Felix Warburg? He too feels deeply. At planning sessions he expresses himself with the lucidity of a Behr. But when Warburg came to help the supervisors understand what had been before the planners, Fusselman scolds him.

Let's give Warburg some space. He may add an architectural drawing or two for all me.

WELFARE DIRECTOR Betty Presley is bound by law not to discuss her clients and perhaps that's a good idea, though I have wondered at times. After all, the taxpayers put out the money. Shouldn't they know?

Well, the law is the law. So the best I can suggest is that Miss Presley be given enough room to explain all about fishing, her big hobby.

Naturally I'm not talking about free space for officials. In a way they deserve it least, because they get a lot anyhow.

I know one or two barbers who might have to be put under some form of restraint lest they hog the whole paper, if allowed to talk in print instead of just verbally. But they have a lot to say.

The bus drivers are mainly on the receiving end; let's give them a chance to tell what they think about the customers, for a change.

WHY NOT GIVE "Mr. Senior Citizen," a strong silent man indeed, an opportunity at last to say in print just what he thinks?

The more I reflect on the possibilities the more I believe the I-J may have to print a number of editions, all different, on Dec. 24. But Christmas comes only once a year.

Could be that's plenty.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Republican Governors, Solons Should Get Together, Set Policy

WASHINGTON—If the Republican Party is to have any good chance of returning to power in 1964, it needs a close and constructive association between the large group of newly-elected Republican governors and like-minded Republican members of Congress.

Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey has recently been urging this step, and it seems to me that his idea is a sound one. He is not talking about a new party organization, but rather an informal, recurring consultation between the two main elements of the party's national strength — the Republican governors, who are now in control of most of the big states, and Republican Senators and Congressmen who would be disposed to cooperate with them.

WHY SHOULDN'T middle-road Republican Senators like Keating, Javits, Case, Scott, Kuchel, and like-minded Republican Congressmen and such governors as Rockefeller of New York, Scranton of Pennsylvania, Romney of Michigan, Rhodes of Ohio, Hatfield of Oregon, Anderson of Minnesota, Chafee of Rhode Island, and Smylie of Idaho, dean of the nation's governors, come into frequent contact with each other.

There can be no doubt, I think, that such an informal association would be valuable to the governors, helpful to the congressmen—and a great asset to the Republican Party which needs to develop the broadest possible base for policy formulation.

THESE REPUBLICAN governors have a direct stake in many of the matters which will shortly be coming before Congress, and the Republican Party in Congress will be well-served by providing for their active and visible participation.

All of these industrial states face conditions of unemployment and slow economic growth. All will be directly affected by what Congress does about a tax cut—how big and how soon.

All have an acute need of expanding their educational facilities to meet the needs of expanding population and are concerned with aspects of Federal aid to education.

All are concerned with a wide range of pressing urban problems and the evolving relationship between the Federal and state governments in coping with these problems.

THE FEDERAL government is already in the middle of all kinds of urban renewal, and there is an urgent need to protect the states from conflicting and overlapping Federal programs. In New Jersey recently one arm of the Federal administration was helping the state project a scenic park while another was mapping a massive highway which would have destroyed the park.

On the grounds of both practical politics and public policy, it would be helpful if the Republican members of Congress from all of these states began a continuing consultation between these Republican governors and themselves.

Pick a Slice...Any Slice as long as it's Morrell

For a traditional banquet—pick Morrell Pride E-Z-Cut. Not just fully-cooked but oven-roasted for you by Morrell. All you do is heat it through—slowly, gently. E-Z-Cut has the fine grained texture and mellow flavor you find only in true baked ham.

For a feast without fuss – pick Morrell Pride Chef Ham. New boneless style with waste-free slices end to end. Richly cured and smoked for mouth watering flavor. Choose a whole ham or a convenient meal-size half ham.

For a Holiday buffet – pick Morrell Pride Canned Ham. Cooked and boned, closely trimmed for more eating satisfaction. Delicate sugar cured flavor in every forkful. Comes in exact weights from 1½ to 13 pounds.

❤ Pep up with protein. Morrell Pride Hams are rich in complete protein – the first class, body-building kind that helps keep your family in the pink.

Beach Hobby Yields Unusual Decor

MRS. JAMES STUDLEY places her Christmas tree of shells and beads as the finishing touch on the mantel. Holding the center of attention is "Elmer" who also gets decorated for the Christmas holidays. (Independent-Journal photos.)

By DOROTHY NEWELL

A summer hobby of shell collecting now has a two-fold purpose for Mrs. James W. Studley of Novato as she makes Christmas decorations for her home.

"We love the beach and go there as often as we can," Mrs. Studley said. Beginning in August, the family including Mike, 13, Pat, 9, and Mr. Studley would take a picnic lunch and go out to Bolinas Bay, where they collected shells in various sizes and shapes.

Mrs. Studley used her imagination and artistic flair, and from magazines she saved over a period of years, she has correlated several ideas, and this year has made Christmas trees and a picture of the Three Wise Men using shells, bits of broken glass, old jewelry and pearls.

THE THREE WISE MEN are made to resemble pyramids or Christmas trees with the wide bottomed robes. Most of the shells used in the pictures were collected at Bolinas.

The Star of Bethlehem is made from a star fish centered with a brilliant pink earring. The star fish is one of the few materials that Mrs. Studley has purchased. The beards of the Wise Men are oyster shells and the hats, clam shells. To bring out the design in the shells, Mrs. Studley sprayed them with a gold paint.

TO ADD COLOR and life to the shell mosaics, Mrs. Studley used pink pearls in the robe of the first Wise Man, orange beads, black and blue broken glass in the robe of the center Wise Man and green button and white pearls in the robe of the third Wise Man.

Using a large picture frame, the background for the Three Wise Men is dark green burlap. The faces are made of cardboard and covered with felt.

The beige burlap sleeves on the robes are finished to the last detail with velveteen and rickrack.

For design and interest the various shells used are welks, olive shells, rock shells, scallops, rough keyholes and brown turbans.

MRS. STUDLEY HAS also designed two Christmas trees out of shells.

The finishing touch on the Christmas tree is a tiny star fish at the tree top.

ADDING A tiny starfish to the top of a Christmas tree made of shells collected at Bolinas Bay is Mrs. James Studley of Novato. Mrs. Studley designed and made the creation from shells which are collected in the summer by the entire family.

Thelma Rosales Is Wed In Terra Linda

St. Isabella's Church in Terra Linda was the setting for the Sunday nuptials of Thelma Rosales of Terra Linda and Melvin Joseph Colombo of San Anselmo.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augusto Rosales of El Salvador, was given in marriage by her cousin, Gene Zampatti, for the ceremony performed by the Rev. Cyr Miller.

She donned a full length gown of white Chantilly ending in a chapel length train.

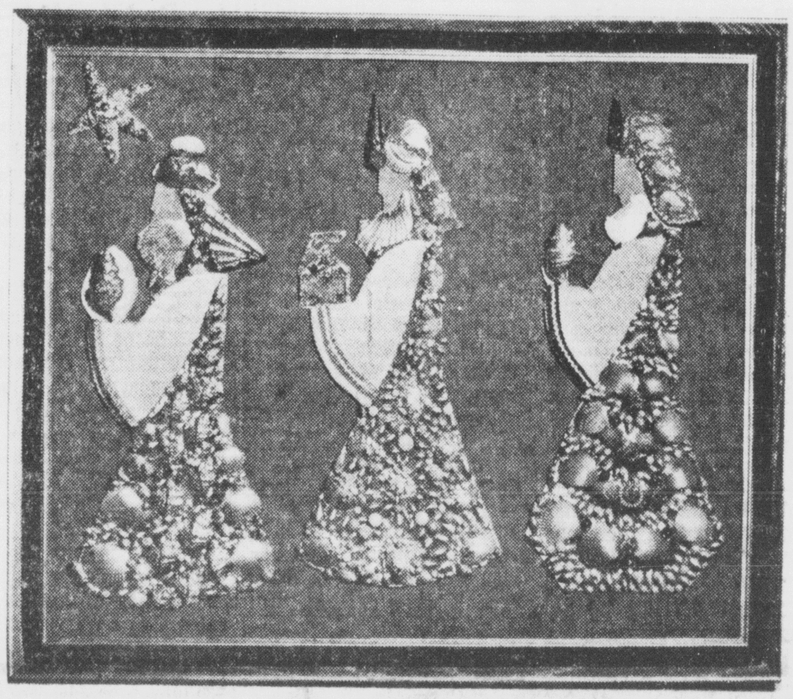
The bridegroom's sister, Maureen Ann Colombo, was maid of honor, wearing a ballerina length gown of blue taffeta.

William Ferrari of Corte Madera served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were George Tiaffay and Vince Schuck, both of San Rafael.

A reception followed at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Colombo of San Anselmo. The couple left on a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe and will return to live in Corte Madera.

The bride was graduated from schools in El Salvador and is employed by the Bank of America. She has been making her home with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elford of Terra Linda.

The bridegroom is a Sir Francis Drake High School graduate and is employed at Littleman's in Corte Madera. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. James H. Wall and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Colombo.



"THE THREE WISE Men Follow the Star of Bethlehem." This shell mosaic will be a part of the Christmas decor for the Studley home.

Christmas Memories Can Be Exciting, 'Wonderful,' San Rafael Nurse Finds

First experiences in the career of a newly graduated R. N. are likely to be memorable, especially when they involve a hair-raising emergency trip on an ore bucket line down the mountain from an isolated mining camp at Christmastime to save a little girl.

It was dusk and snow was falling, relates Mrs. Illona Bellak, now director of nursing at San Rafael General Hospital.

SHORTLY AFTER graduation from Highland Hospital School of Nursing in Oakland and receiving her state license as a registered nurse, Mrs. Bellak took a position at a mining camp high in the mountains of Plumas County. Copper was mined, and some silver and gold.

She, then 22 years old, and one physician operated the clinic and hospital for employes and their families.

At this tiny hospital, surgery, deliveries, and the care of victims of epidemics and mining accidents were routine. Mrs. Bellak recalls assisting the doctor with emergency surgery on Christmas Eve.

BUT SHE REMEMBERS even more vividly the dramatic event which occurred shortly after Christmas.

The camp was isolated during the winter, with heavy snows closing the roads from October to spring. Communication with the world outside was by telephone, when the lines held up. There was one means of transporation, used for emergencies only. This was by tram line.

The ski-lift-like tram line was used for sending ore in buckets from the mine to the nearest rail point about nine miles away—a drop of some two thousand feet. The line went along the sides of mountains, over ridges, and was sometimes suspended between peaks on metal poles. The trip took an hour and 45 minutes and covered about nine miles.

"IN CASE OF NECESSITY the tram line was fitted with a 'passenger bucket' which had a metal frame and floor and three sides," Mrs. Bellak said.

This "passenger bucket" became the means of saving the life of a 4-year-old girl who was seriously ill. The mining camp hospital was not equipped to give her the necessary treatment, and the doctor decided that she must be taken to a hospital outside.

It was Mrs. Bellak's job to take the child down the mountain. She wrapped her young patient in blankets, boarded the "bucket" and the child was placed in her arms. An attendant rode with them to operate the pulley and keep the way clear.

Snow was falling and it was dark by the time they reached their destination in this swinging bucket. But the hazardous trip finished safely, and a sheriff's car met them and took them to the hospital. The child recovered.

"IT WAS A WONDERFUL experience," says Mrs. Bellak. She recalls other Christmases while she was working at Los Angeles General Hospital, Sonoma State Hospital, and during the bustling days of World War II at Marin City, where she was visiting nurse and later in charge of the medical center.

But the Christmas-time ride down the mountain in a "bucket" swinging over the snow, with a sick child in her arms, was her most memorable experience as a nurse.

HER EXCITING Christmas experiences as a newly-graduated nurse are related to Judy Elder, Junior Volunteer, by Illona Bellak, nursing director at San Rafael General Hospital. Judy's ambition is a nursing career too. (Independent-Journal photo)

Nursery School Sets Open House

Highlight of the homecoming day for "alumni" of the Alouette Nursery School in San Rafael tomorrow and Friday will be a puppet performance.

At 9:30 a.m. each day the Berkeley Puppeteers will present "Dr. Know-it-all" for the youngsters.

Because of the large number of "graduates," homecoming is limited to former students who have brothers or sisters presently enrolled at the school.

Throaty Movement

The most fashionable of throats now appear in public muffled with little hunks of chiffon, silk and man-made fabrics. The throaty movement has caught on full circle. The little scarf, about the size of a man's handkerchief, mostly makes the fashion scene when tucked into plunging, jewelry and bateau necklines — morning, afternoon or evening.

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH GALE
(Saul Miller photo)

The Crystal Room of the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco was the setting for the wedding on Sunday of Andrea Helene Kaldor of San Rafael and Kenneth Alan Gale of Los Angeles.

Andrea, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Kaldor of San Rafael, was given in marriage by her father in a single ring ceremony performed at 5:30 p.m. by Dr. Morris Goldstein.

The bride wore a formal gown of white brocade fashioned with a square chapel train.

Gowned identically in waltz length peacock blue brocade dresses were all her attendants. Lynna Neuman of Santa Monica was the maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Barry Caplan of Berkeley, Donna Beckman of San Rafael, Barbara Lipner of Van Nuys and Judy Capel of San Francisco.

Karen Joyce Levin of San Francisco was the flower girl, and Paul Eric Wachter of Oakland was the ring bearer.

Best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Gale of Los Angeles, was Morton Rappaport of Los Angeles. Showing guests to their seats were the bride's brother, Ronald Kaldor of San Rafael, Dr. Jack Leib and Dr. Robert Pazen of Los Angeles and Rodney Levin of San Rafael.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Fountain Room and a dinner in the Gold Room of the Hotel. The couple left afterward by plane for a two weeks' honeymoon in Hawaii.

They will be at home to friends after Jan. 1 at 650 Barrington in Brentwood, Calif.

The bride is a graduate of Redwood High School, attended the University of Colorado and is now majoring in education at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Her grandmother is Mrs. Anna Levin of San Rafael. B. M. Levin of Los Angeles is her grandfather.

The bridegroom was graduated from Hamilton High School in Los Angeles and the University of California at Los Angeles and is now completing a year of graduate study in optometry.

His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Neisner of Los Angeles.

When the young people finish their education they plan to live in Marin County.

LITTLE JIMMIE GRIFFIN helps his mother, Mrs. Alan Griffin, decorate the living Christmas tree in front of their home in Larkspur. The Griffins appreciate his help, for last year Jimmie was recuperating from a serious illness and operation which required 26 pints of blood. Mrs. Griffin credits the blood and the skill of the physicians for having Jimmie with them this Christmas. (Ken Molino photo)

A Happier Christmas For Jimmie

Getting ready for Christmas is a happy occasion in the home of the Alan Griffins of Fairfax. For just last year, they were nursing their son, Jimmie, through a recuperative period following a serious illness.

"If it hadn't been for the Marin Blood Center and the availability of blood and plasma, Jimmie wouldn't be here today," Mrs. Griffin says.

HE HAD 26 transfusions during the time he was suffering from peritonitis, the result of a seeping appendix. Everyone was so wonderful to us," continued Mrs. Griffin. "Relatives, friends, neighbors and even complete strangers who had heard of our son't need responded generously to blood replacement during the four weeks that Jimmy was hospitalized at Marin General Hospital.

"No one realizes how important and necessary blood is until an emergency like this arises. We now urge all those who are able to give the greatest gift of all—blood—for it can save someone's life. What a truly wonderful Christmas present!"

MR. GRIFFIN and his wife, Jeanne, are parents of another boy, John, 7, who attends Manor School, and are expecting a third child in June.

Jimmie, who has gained 10 pounds since he returned from the hospital, has continued his interest in records which he acquired during his stay. In fact, he came back with an autographed Penquin from the pediatric department inscribed "Best Disc Jockey," and he has his own phonograph as a reward for being a good boy. He can listen by the hour to such records as "Jimmy Cracked Corn" and "Frog Went A' Courtin'."

THE MARIN BLOOD Center, 506 Fourth Street, San Rafael, is open to blood donors Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 10 to 6 p.m. The Marin blood reserve fund enables any Marin resident to donate blood and know that he has credits if the need for blood should arise.

Young Rebel In School Turns Out To Be Successful Exec

In school "Mike" was a hellion. Outside school he was a successful executive. You'll be interested in Mike.

He was referred to me several years ago because his principal wanted him moved out. Mike was in the 11th grade; his teachers disliked him because he disrupted his classes, wouldn't do his homework and played hookey. Even his counselor had given up on him. Mike had to be dropped, and that was that.

I found that outside school Mike worked in a newspaper circulation department. He was a district manager with a crew of boys under him. On the job he was a thoroughly responsible young executive. In school he was a hopeless brat.

Mike begged to be expelled. I could see that he never would learn anything in school. I was sure he always would get in the way of the pupils who wanted to learn. I arranged legally for him to be dropped. It was the best thing I could do for his classmates and teachers, as well as for Mike himself. Then I lost track of him.

Recently, he came to my office to give me a ride in his big new Mercedes Benz. Mike is now 23. He quit his newspaper job and sold cars for a time. Next he managed a large self-service gas station, which he bought. The station prospered. Now Mike owns two stations and has plans to branch out still farther.

Do you know a boy like Mike? I've known a good many. They are "school dull but life bright." They rebel so much we can't tolerate them in classes. But they turn out fine afterward. That's comforting, isn't it?

READERS' FORUM

(Q) "I heard of a test that asked high school students, 'Which is worse, spitting on the Bible or spitting on the American Flag?' I'm shocked! Do you approve of this test?"

Mrs. O. S.

(A) No, I do not. That question appeared in a group personality test which had limited circulation. I'm old it has been withdrawn. As I see it, none of the group personality tests now available are worth much. I oppose their use in public schools.

Santa Claus Has Different Meaning

BARI, Italy (UPI) — Santa Claus does not stand a chance in his own town.

To millions of children all over the world, Santa Claus is the jolly, bearded type who brings presents by reindeer-express in time for Christmas morning.

But here in Bari, where the bones of good Saint Nicholas lie, the Feast of the Saint has nothing to do with Christmas.

St. Nicholas — Santa Claus, from a corruption of the Latin "Sanctus Nicolaus" — is revered in his last resting place as the patron of children, penniless brides-to-be, seamen and prisoners.

Christmas day, at least in Italy, is just another day for the followers of good St. Nick. His feast day is Dec. 6 and the event is celebrated with solemn ceremonies by the children and adults in Bari.

By tradition, Italian children get presents not from Santa but from La Befana, an old witch who can be nice when she wants to. And not on Christmas but in January.

On Jan. 6, Befana sweeps in on her broomstick to leave gifts for the good children and coal for the bad children.

Florence Avenue Will Give Its Christmas Block Party

The seventh annual Christmas party for residents of Florence Avenue in San Anselmo will take place Saturday in the semi-circle at the end of the block. Festivities will start at 7:30 p.m. under the direction of chairman William Raudio.

For warmth there will be an old pot bellied stove in the center of the area as children dance around it in a circle while adults form an outer ring. Tom Orlando is in charge of the music and singing.

Children are making the ornaments for the tree-trimming ceremony centered around a tree donated by Mrs. Evelyn Levy. Each family is purchasing a gift for each child. These are to be distributed at 8:15 p.m. by Santa Claus impersonated by William Raudio Sr.

Varieties of cookies are the refreshments to be furnished by all families attending.

Legion Auxiliary Providing Gifts For Veterans

Disabled veterans hospitalized during the Christmas holidays are being remembered by American Legion Auxiliary Units in Marin.

Providing gifts to help stock the "Gift Shop" at the Palo Alto Veterans Hospital where long term hospitalized veterans select gifts for their families at no cost are Marin Units of Twin Cities Unit 313, San Anselmo Unit 179, Mill Valley Unit 284, Wilkins Unit 37 and Bolinas Bay Unit 572.

The Veterans Home of California was given a Christmas party Sunday with homemade cake and coffee from American Legion Auxiliary units in Marin, Sonoma, Solano, Lake and Napa counties.

Junior members of Twin Cities Unit 313 completed 148 bean bags as stocking fillers for patients at the Sonoma State Hospital as well as for children at Imola Hospital. Nearly 400 tray mats were decorated by the Junior members for the Christmas dinner trays of non-ambulatory patients for both the Veterans Home and Imola.

Young Sculptor Here On Visit From Italy

Marisa Saetti, young Marin sculptor, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrea Saetti, formerly of Mill Valley, returned recently to the United States from Italy, where they have been since Marisa was graduated from Tamalpais High School in 1956.

Because their home in Mill Valley is rented, they have been staying with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shinn of Sausalito.

It was at Shinn's suggestion that Marisa, a painter originally, decided to become a sculptor.

The Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley granted her several scholarships that helped her to continue her studies in Munich and in Rome, where she was accepted as one of 25 contestants from all over the world to study under the great sculptor Manzu.

She has reported regularly on her progress in letters to the Outdoor Art Club.

Marisa left Friday to return to Rome with the intention of trying her wings as a full fledged sculptor under her own name. In the near future she promised to send a series of colored slides of her work to be shown at an Outdoor Art Club program.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Signaling Not Necessary Unless Party Wants To Do So

The next time you and your lawyer go into the drugstore to buy a deck of cards, read the fine print very carefully before you close the deal. A good contract should say: "Party of first part doesn't have to signal if he South will go down before he knows what is happening, since West will get at least one diamond ruff.

Save your encouraging signals for when you mean business.

Opening lead — ♠ A

Just a short time ago I saw a party of the first part commit mayhem on a contract. I you're not a legal beagle, this means that he murdered the hand. All because he didn't read that fine print.

OPENS WITH ACE

West opened the ace of spades, and East was the gent who didn't know his rights. East thought he just had to signal with the nine of spades to show he had the king.

Before you could say Magna Carta, West had continued with the jack of spades and then a third spade.

NO TEARS

South shed no tears over this defense. He ruffed the third spade, drew trumps, and knocked out the ace of diamonds. He then claimed the rest of the tricks.

Even if you never passed a bar examination you can see that East's nine of spades at the first trick was a misdemeanor.

Since East didn't really want a spade continuation he should not have played a high spade.

AT LEAST ONE RUFF

If East plays the deuce of spades at the first trick, discouraging a continuation, West will naturally switch to his singleton diamond.

MARIN BUSINESS And INDUSTRY

By HARRY CRAFT

Americans Enjoying Increased Leisure, Holidays And Travel

Higher purchasing power and increased leisure time for Americans has placed more of them on boats, airplanes, buses and in the family car for holiday trips than ever before. During the past 10 years their expenditures for foreign travel alone have increased more than 130 per cent.

THE MARIN VISITORS BUREAU, whose purpose it is to get more of these travelers to come to the county will supplement its activities long enough next March to sponsor a "Holiday in Hawaii" for the organization's members. No doubt they'll make a point of leaving some suggestions along the way: "You must come visit us sometime."

Tour is open to anyone in Marin County. Information can be secured from Frank George of the Redwood Travel Advisors, San Rafael. Group rates.

TRAVEL PROMOTION among foreign visitors is being pushed by the Greyhound Corp. who offer them a 35 per cent discount on the return portion of round trip or circle bus tours in this country and Canada.

The new tickets have a two-month return time limit and will be effective Jan. 1. Available only to travelers origination from outside the U.S. and Canada.

CHRIS CRAFT of San Rafael has been appointed an authorized dealer for the Raytheon Company's line of marine electronic products.

Manager Robert Knudsen says these will include depth sounders, marine band and citizens band radio telephones and antennas, radio direction finders, automatic pilots and gas fume detectors.

Depth sounder line ranges from portable models for small boats to large recording types that graph the presence of fish and the ocean floor for commercial fishing vessels and survey ships.

The electronic pilot keeps the boat on course automatically but allows the helmsman to make emergency changes up to 170 degrees.

The gas fume detector is a safety device that sniffs the air in bilges and engine compartment, signals presence of fumes before they reach explosive level.

A NEW SMALL BUSINESS is that of Ken Marshall in Fairfax who is applying a stethescope to homes and will go under the name of "The House Doctor."

No big cases—those are for the specialists. What he's after are the repair jobs that do-it-yourselfers can't seem to finish or get started in the first place—carpentry, et al. Address after the first of the year will be 161 Piper Court.

MOTORCRAFT—Studebaker now has its own fiberglass for Avantis. Goal of 25 bodies per day is expected to be reached March 1. Studebaker pickup trucks now offered with a five-speed, overdrive, floor-shift transmission . . . U. S. truck manufacturers export one of every six vehicles they make; Americans buy only one of every 42 trucks made overseas . . . Volkswagen's home plant in Wolfsburg, Germany, only five miles this side of the Iron Curtain, covers nearly 2,000 acres and is world's largest single car assembly plant . . . Oldsmobile has several heavy duty options in 1963 models for hauling trailers.

Kaiser Plan To Be Closely Watched

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Kaiser Steel and its workers are tackling two of the knotiest labor problems of the day-job security under the impact of technical advances, and how management and labor should split the sales dollar between them.

Loss of jobs to machines and loss of profits to rising production costs will be the basic issues in most of next year's important union-management negotiations.

Kaiser Steel and its union, the United Steelworkers, have worked out a plan they hope will have something for both sides.

Whether the plan will work for them is yet to be seen. And whether such a plan will fit other company situations, and other industries, is also a question.

The Kaiser plan is first to retrain employees who lose their jobs to machines, and second to split between the company and the workers the increased earnings from any lowering of production costs per unit—after taxes.

The two problems are intertwined. They have pushed each other up in a spiral to become a major labor-management clash, which has moved the administration to set up guideline in the public interest.

Management charged its profit margin was shrinking to nothing because of rising labor costs and automation was the only way out.

Labor charged it was being pushed out of jobs, and that management was profiting from the cost cutting much more than it would admit.

The unions have been asking higher wages for those still employed as a greater share in the resulting earnings; greater benefits for those who suffered from automation, and a shorter work week to spread the available work.

To this management replied that the union demands would soak up all of the gains from cost cutting, and that profits would still be unhealthily low.

This is the impasse which the Kaiser Steel Corp. and its union is seeking to break.

The California-based company has a particular reason to need to find a solution to costly steel production. It has faced the challenge of Japanese steel imports, a challenge more pressing on the West Coast than the flow of steel from Europe to the East Coast.

Kaiser is eager to cut its production costs. Thus the offer to retrain displaced employees and to share any gains from lower unit production costs.

Many other companies, and in other industries than steel, have pushed retraining programs. Federal and state government are sponsoring such programs.

But the problem is far from licked. And this is why the West Coast experiment will be closely watched by industry, by labor, and by government.

To Return To U.S.

Theodore C. Miller, Navy fireman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theo M. Miller of 51 Smith Ranch Road, Santa Venetia, is scheduled to return to the United States Thursday after spending six months in the Western Pacific aboard the aircraft carrier Hornet.

The first successful pipeline, a five-mile pipe of cast iron, began operating in Pennsylvania in 1865.

Soviet Bloc Harvest Reports Poor

By DONALD SHANOR
U.P. International

"Every fourth loaf of bread consumed by the Polish town and country population is baked from imported grain."

Those were the words of Polish Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka in describing the chronic farm troubles of his nation, once a leading exporter of grain itself. Poland spent 175 million dollars last year to buy grain abroad, much of it from the United States and Canada. It may have to spend as much this year.

As harvest reports came in from other nations in the Soviet bloc, it was clear that most were as bad off as Poland, if not worse. Polish farm production usually ranks at the top of the satellite statistics, chiefly because Gomulka gave up forced collectivization six years ago and allows his farmers to raise and market their own crops. But the other satellites have pushed ahead with collectives on the Soviet pattern, usually with disastrous results.

In the Soviet Union, where Premier Nikita Khrushchev spent weeks on a series of farm trouble-shooting trips, the grain harvest was two weeks behind schedule at the end of October. Soviet affairs experts at Radio Liberty in New York said this could mean a loss of 15 per cent or more of the grain. This waste could cancel out the production gains registered when Khrushchev seeded fallow grasslands, increasing the sown area by 7 per cent.

The analysts said the Soviet farm system is not geared to cope with the increased yield, and that breakdowns of machinery and transportation as well as general neglect are the cause of the harvest lag.

Here is the situation elsewhere in the bloc:

Bulgaria: Shortages forced it to follow Moscow in raising food prices by as much as one-third. When Khrushchev toured Bulgarian farms during the sowing season, his experts criticized poor planning, waste, and inefficient planting cycles. Khrushchev later found the same fault at home.

Romania: Grain production figures have not yet been released, but the crop seems good enough to permit Romania to export some grain to its food-short satellite neighbor, East Germany.

East Germany: Communist chief Walter Ulbricht praised his forced collectivization program and said it "combines farmers' experience with new developments of modern science . . . in this lies the basis of our victory in agriculture." But Ulbricht's press was forced to criticize this "scientific" farming when called on to explain food shortages. "The changeover from individual to collective animal farming has meant that complicated problems must be solved," it said. "This has, in part, led to losses."

Hungary: Officials said the harvest will be fair to poor; worst on the big collectives. The party press blamed lazy farmhands and officials said it was lack of rainfall.

Czechoslovakia: Radio Prague appealed for volunteer help at the height of the harvest season to combat "almost catastrophic" shortages of workers. It said 50,000 acres of grain in central Bohemia were standing unharvested. The party press urged vacationers to report to farms to help out. "You can get a sun tan in a field as easily as on a beach," the newspapers said.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Virus Will Infect Bacteria But Bacteria Can Stay Alive

VAN DELLEN

We have all heard the saying that little fleas have smaller fleas. Are bacteria plagued by smaller bacteria? This is a moot question but there have been reports that viruses attack bacteria. Viruses are many, many time tinier than bacteria; consequently, it is logical to assume that this occurs.

But viruses do not kill bacteria. In 1951, Dr. Victor Freeman discovered that a nontoxin producing diphtheria bacillus could be infected by a virus. When this took place, the bacillus still was capable of causing an infection in the throat and, at the same time, switched to a toxin-producer. Perhaps the virus remained in the bacillus and was the toxin-producer.

UNWED EXPECTANT mothers have less backache and easier confinements than married mothers, according to Dr. Albert W. Bauer, a Viennese obstetrician. He ascribes this situation to the posture of the pregnant women. Married mothers-to-be, unlike the nonmarrieds, flaunt their condition as a matter of pride.

The more the abdomen is protruded, the more the back sways. The ensuing strain is likely to lead to backache, which may become chronic. The unwed woman attempts to conceal her enlargement by pulling in her buttocks. This flattens the abdomen some what and keeps the vertebras in better alignment. In addition, the abdominal muscles are spared overstretching, and the baby lies more parallel to the spinal column.

DR. BAUER SUGGESTS that all pregnant women assume the stance of the unwed expectant mother. He discourages the wearing of high heels because they tend to accentuate abdominal protrusion and lordosis of the spine.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

EFFECT OF STROKE

R. S. writes: After a stroke, how long does it take to find out how much damage has been done?

REPLY

A day or two. The big questions are whether operation will help and whether function will return. There are tests that help along this line, but in many instances, the answer about improving muscle strength depends upon the willingness of the victim to help himself. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on stroke.

NOSEBLEED IN OLDSTER

J. D. writes: Would taking too much brandy cause nosebleed in an 88-year-old woman? She has one about every 10 days.

REPLY

No. The commonest causes at this age are high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, and ulceration of the nasal membranes. Brandy enters the picture only when it leads to nasal congestion of sufficient degree to cause a blowout of a blood vessel.

AFRAID OF CHOKING

L. C. writes: I'm 18 years old and have trouble eating. I practically live on cream cheese and tomato soup and have gone down from 107 to 84 pounds. I'm afraid to eat because I'm afraid I'll choke. Mother is sick over me. Maybe you can help me.

REPLY

I hope your mother reads this answer, as she ought to know that a psychiatrist can help you rid yourself of the fear of choking.

EARLY TB

R. W. writes: How long does it take to cure tuberculosis in the early stages?

REPLY

From six weeks to six months, provided modern remedies are used. With tuberculosis, we prefer to use the term arrested rather than cured. The disease is notorious for returning if the individual neglects his health.

Who knows?

Funny thing about used cars.

Once you decide what you want, what you'll pay and find that car, you've got to act fast.

Before somebody else does.

We can't order another one from the factory for you if the one you want is sold.

Fact is, we never know from day to day how many '61 Cadillacs, Model A's, '58 Chevys or even used VWs we'll have for sale.

One week we're loaded with factory-clean convertibles.

Next week, we may not have a single one traded in that's good enough to sell.

So if you're in the used car market, shop around. That's our list up there.

Pick out what you want to see and come see it.

But don't put it off till tomorrow—or the day after.

Chances are, somebody else has his eye on it, too. And may act a little faster.

Somebody else may end up driving your car.

Mill Valley Rec Center Plan Urged

Mill Valley Parks and Recreation commissioners Monday night recommended to the city council that an architect be hired to develop a plan for building a community recreation center in stages, utilizing the two "pink houses" as the first stage.

Using the buildings, now sitting at the East Blithedale Avenue entrance to Mill Valley, has been recommended also by the youth activities committee.

The commission took under advisement a proposal by the committee that Mill Valley youths be employed on part-time basis during the summer to develop parks and hiking and riding trails.

Commissioners accepted the application of Steve Buffo, to replace Ronald Samet, city recreation director, sometime next year and recommended to city council that Buffo be hired. The commission also authorized purchase of a dozen new chairs to replace badly-worn chairs at the municipal golf clubhouse, commissioner Raymond J. Bell reported.

Log Subscriptions On Sale At Redwood

Subscriptions to the Log, Redwood High School's yearbook, went on sale this week.

The 1962-63 issue of the Log will be in commemoration of Redwood's fifth anniversary and will contain 20 additional pages devoted to campus activities and pictures.

Donations Down For Bundle Days

Phi Sigma Sigma, Redwood High School's freshman-sophomore girls' service club, announced that less than 500 pounds of clothing was collected for Bundle Days.

"We were very disappointed with the amount of clothing donated," said Carolyn Cochrane, club president. "Last year over twice as much was given."

The clothing drive is sponsored nationally by Save the Children Federation, which sends the clothing to needy children in Southern U.S. and abroad.

Quentin School Yule Gifts Told

San Quentin School students this week delivered 200 Christmas gifts to residents of the Marin County Nursing Hospital and Farm.

The presents, made by the children, consist of lavender sachets made in the form of red and green Christmas trees decorated with tinsel and sequins.

The 32 students gathered the lavender from the school yard in September, dried the stalks and winnowed the blossoms under the direction of teacher Mrs. Augustine F. Hall.

U.C. Entrance Honors

Donna Suzanne Chenault, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Charles J. Chenault of 83 Scott Circle, Hamilton Air Force Base, has been named to receive honors at entrance at University of California.

MR. ADVERTISER: HERE'S A PRESCRIPTION for more sales. Take something that is wanted or needed, mix in a generous bit of good service and attractive packaging, and stir up interest with a price that means good value. Then add ...the vital ingredient. Tell everybody what you're selling, why it's good value, and where they can buy it. Then put it all together in an advertising message and place it in the daily newspaper.

The newspaper takes your sales story into nearly 9 out of 10 homes every day.* If your sales are in a slump, if you're suffering from the nagging discomfort of "tired inventory," a good dose of vital look-alive newspaper advertising may be just what the doctor ordered.
